BIENNIAL REPORT
OF THE
AUDITOR OF STATE
OF COLORADO.

---

State of Colorado,
Auditor's Office,
Denver, Colorado, December 1, 1896.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY,

A. W. McINTIRE,
GOVERNOR OF COLORADO.

Sir: In accordance with the statutes of the state of Colorado, I have the honor to submit herewith the Tenth Biennial Report of the Auditor of State, for the fiscal years 1895 and 1896. There will be found therein a full statement of all financial operations of the state during that period. Such reports as these are necessarily largely a matter of figures and do not appeal to the average citizen. Nevertheless, there is much contained therein that should be known by all taxpayers and citizens who have the welfare of the state and its people at heart. The financial credit of a state should be zealously guarded, and this can only be done when there is a thorough knowledge of its resources and its necessary expenditures. A lack of knowledge on this subject, or indifference thereto, has caused appropriations in excess of the revenue by several legislatures in the past. All our financial troubles have come from this source. During the past two years many of the uncertainties that have clouded our financial sky have been cleared up by decisions of the Supreme Court. It is much easier now to keep within the law, when the law has been made plain, than it was in the earlier days of the state, when there were few precedents to follow and much uncertainty as to the law's meaning.

The fiscal year commences on the first day of December and ends on the last day of November of the succeeding year. The legislature meets biennially and it appropriates at each of its sessions for the necessary expenses for the two fiscal years. As the law now exists, the legislature can appropriate out of the future revenues of the state whatever amount and for whatever time in the future they may see fit. During the past two years appropriations have been paid that were made as far back as 1889, and these appropriations have been declared, under decisions of our Supreme Court, to be prior claims to all current obligations, the expenses of the legislative, executive and judicial departments alone excepted. I do not believe this to be for the best interests of the state, and think the law should be so changed that the moneys appropriated by each legislature can only be used to pay the obligations created during the two fiscal years for which the appropriations are made.

It may be urged that a law of this kind would affect what are called the "mill levies" for the benefit of the university, agricultural college, school of mines and other institutions. I fail to see any good reason, however, why they should be provided for in preference to any of the other necessary institutions of the state. And it is true that the very fact of these institutions receiving a fixed amount is one of the principal reasons given for the failure to assess property in this state at its full cash value, as required by law, because they would thereby receive a very great and, in some cases, an unnecessary increase of funds. Other levies can be cut down, theirs alone remain the same. In reference to this, and strictly in point, I desire to call attention to the following extract from an opinion by the Supreme Court of this state:

"The legislative department of the state has for many years made appropriations in excess of the limit permitted by the state constitution. As a result, confusion and litigation have followed, and the credit of the state has thereby suffered. The plan of levying special taxes for particular purposes adds to, rather than lessens, the difficulty. If the legislature would marshal the assets of the state and estimate the revenue necessary to run the state government, and levy a tax in gross sufficient, with the revenue derived from other sources, to meet all demands upon the state treasury, the matter would be greatly simplified."

People vs. Board of Equalization, 20 Colo., 220.

Also, the following:

"The fact that in several of the states of this union it has been found necessary to inhibit the making of continuing appropriations, furnishes an argument against the policy of such laws that will undoubtedly be given due weight by the legislature, but with the policy, or expediency, the courts have nothing to do, the power of the legislature to make the appropriations being conceded."

In re Continuing Appropriations, 18 Colo., 192.

The appropriation of $4,000 for each of the years 1895 and 1896 for scalp bounty purposes was inadequate to meet the claims thereunder. There now remain $618 of claims on file in this office and unpaid for the year 1895, and there have been already filed $5,511 for 1896, making a total deficiency for the two years of $6,129. The honor of the state demands that an appropriation be made to cover this deficiency; and for the future, either the law should be repealed, or a sufficient amount should be appropriated to pay all legal claims presented.

There are on file in this office, and remaining unpaid, properly approved claims in the fish commissioner's department amounting to $1,466.61, and in the game warden's department a claim similarly approved for $100. These have not been paid, for the reason that a sufficient appropriation was not made to cover all the claims accruing in these departments. Nine hundred dollars of the amount remaining unpaid is for an invoice of fish eggs, which were accepted by proper officials acting for the state, and have been utilized in the different hatcheries.

There is also a deficiency in the incidental printing fund, leaving outstanding bills unpaid for publishing the proposed amendment to the constitution, and for two volumes of Colorado Reports. Provision should be made by the legislature for the payment of these claims.

An insufficient amount was also appropriated by the Tenth General Assembly for the support of the reformatory. So far as I am able to judge, this institution has been well and economically managed, and yet it has a deficiency that must be provided for. It is not economy to make appropriations for less than it is possible for an institution to get along with.

The insane asylum also seems unable to live within its income, and something should be done for its assistance. No class of unfortunates appeal to us more strongly than those committed to this institution.

The other institutions of the state, so far as I am aware, have been able to live within their appropriations. Some of them have had to practice rigid economy, but in times like these economy has been necessary in all enterprises, both public and private, and they have no special reason to complain. When the state gets on a better financial basis many of them will ask and be entitled to improvements. Under prevailing conditions the state can do little but maintain them at their present standard.

The last legislature made appropriations for salaries in some instances of less than the amount provided for by the original act creating the offices and fixing the salary thereof. It was thought by this that a limit was thus placed on the salaries to be paid such officers for the two years. This office proceeded on this theory for some time, but a decision of the Supreme Court announced that when the original act creating the office fixed the salary of the occupants, it amounted to a continual appropriation therefor, and could not be changed except by direct legislative action changing the salary of such officer. Under these circumstances, if the legislature for any purpose desires to decrease the salary of any official, it can only do it by changing the law fixing the salary, and not by making a lesser appropriation for this purpose.

A statement of outstanding certificates of indebtedness will be found in this report. These certificates were all issued in conformity with law and had the approval of the governor and attorney general, as well as that of the auditor and treasurer of state. The certificates issued in payment of the expenses of the national guard on service in Leadville, on account of the strike and disorders there, should be met by an issue of bonds, as was done in the case of the Cripple Creek riots. The constitution specifically authorizes the issuing of bonds for such purposes, and it should be done in this case, because the necessary amount to redeem the certificates cannot be spared from the general revenue or military poll tax fund. An appropriation should be made by the legislature, from the general revenue fund, sufficient to redeem the balance of said certificates, together with the accumulated interest thereon.

I am convinced that it will be a desirable reform for the legislature to enact a law limiting all levies, county, municipal and school. The state is limited by the constitution to four mills. Without any limit on other taxes, there is temptation to reduce the assessed valuation and raise the levy, thereby giving the same amount for local purposes, but reducing the amount paid to the state.

Of the four mills levied for state purposes, only  $2\frac{1}{10}$  mills is available for the general revenue fund of the state, the balance being used in special "mill levies" for the support of different state institutions. Under the levies as they now exist the four mills are apportioned as follows:

General revenue fund.....	$2\frac{1}{10}$ mills
Mute and blind.....	$\frac{1}{5}$ mill
University .....	$\frac{1}{5}$ mill
Agricultural college.....	$\frac{1}{5}$ mill
School of mines.....	$\frac{1}{5}$ mill
Insane asylum .....	$\frac{1}{5}$ mill
Stock inspection.....	$\frac{1}{15}$ mill
Capitol building.....	$\frac{1}{2}$ mill
Normal school.....	$\frac{1}{6}$ mill
Interest on capitol building bonds.....	$\frac{1}{6}$ mill
Total .....	4 mills

I do not believe the  $2\frac{1}{10}$  mills available for the general revenue fund, together with the other miscellaneous receipts available for said fund, is sufficient to meet the actual necessary expenses of the state government, carefully and economically administered. It seems imperative that some action should be taken in this matter, for the general revenue fund is of primary importance, and out of it is paid, among other things, the expenses of the legislative, executive and judicial departments, which are prior and preferred claims on the revenues of the state.

The salary of the Auditor should be increased in proportion to the dignity and responsibility of the office. It is one of the curiosities of legislation that the deputy auditor receives the same salary as the principal, while the deputy superintendent of insurance receives a greater salary; yet the Auditor in both cases is the responsible head of the departments. In this connection I quote from the report of my predecessor:

"No state official is burdened with more real responsibility, nor obliged to bear more unmerited abuse and blame, nor driven with more onerous and exacting duties, nor forced to keep a closer or severer guard over delicate and conflicting interests, than the Auditor of State. None of the elective officers of the state are so poorly remunerated. In importance, responsibility and official demands, no state office ranks higher. The present salary of the Auditor is $2,500. It should be raised to at least $4,000, and I would so recommend to the next general assembly."

The condition of affairs in the insurance department is fully set forth in the reports from that office, and need not be referred to here. It is a matter of gratification that the law passed by the last general assembly, increasing the rate of taxation on insurance companies, has resulted in a great increase of revenue from that source. I think it can be safely estimated that there will hereafter be turned over a balance to the general revenue fund of the state of not less than $75,000 per annum from that source.

The policy pursued by the present state treasurer in calling warrants for payment at the earliest date possible after the receipt of funds, has resulted in a great saving in interest to the state. It has made the average interest rate the lowest ever reached, and if the present policy is continued, a much lower sum can be estimated as necessary for interest on warrants than has been required heretofore.

During the past two years there has been an unprecedented increase in the revenue from the secretary of state's office. The greater portion of this money came in during the winter of 1895-96, and the receipts now have fallen off to about what I consider a normal condition. I do not believe that more than $40,000 per annum can be safely counted upon for the ensuing two years.

I believe there is urgent necessity in this state for state supervision of state and private banks, trust companies, building and loan associations and other financial institutions of like character. In every state where there is such supervision it is a success, and affords needed protection to frugal and industrious citizens. Honest bankers can have no cause for complaint against such supervision, which would establish the character of their institutions on a firmer basis; and the objections of those who are dishonest, or who have their own interests to serve, should not be heeded.

It is a matter for profound regret that the proposed amendment of the constitution was not adopted by the people at the late election. There is no other way for the state to maintain its credit, and I trust the matter will be submitted again to the people, believing that when they fully understand it there can be no question of their coming to the financial rescue of the state. Many of the warrants that would have been provided for, had the amendment carried, are held in the school fund. The constitution of the state provides that "The state treasurer shall be the custodian of this fund, and the same shall be securely and profitably invested as may be by law directed. The state shall supply all losses thereof that may in any manner occur."

So it will be seen to be a duty solemnly imposed by the constitution to provide for the payment of these warrants, at least.

In this report there appears, for the first time, an itemized statement of the assessment of railroad and telegraph property within the state. This is deemed of sufficient importance to be published, that the public may be informed of the proportion of taxes such corporations pay into the treasury. There is no branch of the public service that comes closer to the people than the assessment and collection of revenue, and any information is important that will assist in making taxes equal on all classes of property. There should be no crusade against corporations, attempting to tax them beyond their just deserts; neither should the corporations be permitted to escape paying their just share of the cost of supporting the government.

My relations with the officials of the state have been uniformly of a friendly character. I believe that they have all worked for the best interests of the state, and it is a matter of greatest pleasure to me that we have formed mutual friendships that will last long after our brief span of official life.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

C. C. PARKS,
Auditor of State.
