Journey to COLORADO'S GHOST TOWNS

Our state's history runs as deep as the silver and gold veins that once lured a surge of fortune seekers here during the late-1800s mining boom. But when those rich resources went bust, dozens of towns were abandoned — leaving behind saloons, mercantiles and other hallmarks of Wild West life.

Catch glimpses of this bygone era in the remains of ghost towns tucked amid high peaks and remote wilderness. Though you'll have to drive a portion of the way to these deserted destinations, take an intrepid approach for the final leg.

ST. ELMO GHOST TOWN, MILES DENISE CHAMBERS

ATV/OFF-ROAD VEHICLE

Ghost towns in Colorado range from mere ruins to surprisingly intact hamlets — for the latter, venture to St. Elmo, where a few lingering residents run a general store and a guesthouse. Seek the help of Buena Vista's ATV Mountain Adventure Rentals, which will drop you and your rented ride off trailside (and pick you up later), leaving you to explore the dusty, straight-out-of-a-movie-set streets on your own. An ATV also comes in handy for a bonus trip to nearby Tin Cup.

Set your sights on Animas Forks, located high in the San Juan Mountains. Just 12 miles away in Silverton, Rock Pirates Backcountry Adventures can hook you up with one of its rugged Tomcar OHVs for a bumpy-yet-scenic excursion up the Alpine Loop Scenic & Historic Byway. Check out nine remaining structures, including the two-story Duncan House with its impressive bay window.

HIKE

The North Park area is home to Teller City, a former silver-mining camp that at one time boasted 27 saloons, hundreds of log cabins and more than 1,500 residents — not too shabby given its dense-forest location. Head southeast of Walden to the Teller City Interpretive Site, then hit the 0.75-mile loop trail that winds around scattered remains of cabins and other artifacts.

The high-altitude setting of Carson (almost 12,000 feet) makes it all the more rewarding for its views of massive peaks. Lake City, situated near the Continental Divide, is your base for this adventure. Hop on the Alpine Loop Scenic & Historic Byway to Wager Gulch trailhead. The moderate-to-difficult hike is a steady, 3.4-mile climb leading through open meadows and aspen stands to the Carson site.

BIKE

Eleven miles south of Aspen, Ashcroft is one of a few ghost towns that can be visited year-round. But it would be a shame to miss the vivid colors of wildflower season in late summer or fall's brilliant foliage — both ideal times for a two-wheeled ride along Castle Creek Road. Named to the National Register of Historic Places in 1975, Ashcroft is currently maintained by the Aspen Historical Society, and highlights include the still-standing post office, Blue Mirror Saloon and town jail.

Pit Stop: Historic Watering Holes

Detour from the ghost-town quest and relive the Old West at some of Colorado's oldest places to quench your thirst.

The Centennial State's longest-surviving gold rush-era business, Buffalo Rose Saloon in Golden got its start as the International Bowling Saloon in 1859.

Though established in 1862, the original building of The Mint in Silverthorne has been taken apart and moved three times.

Inside Aspen's historic Hotel Jerome, J-Bar has been slingin' boozy concoctions to the likes of John Wayne and Hunter S. Thompson since 1889.

Not much has changed at the New Sheridan Bar in Telluride since its 1895 construction within a hotel of the same name, from the mahogany wood paneling to stiff pours.

Dining and drinking venues have been operating in The Minturn Saloon's Vail Valley location since 1901.

Central City escaped a boom-to-bust fate, but hidden just up the hill is Nevadaville, which bustled with some 4,000 people in its heyday. Several original buildings and a few gravesites are left, in addition to the Nevada Lodge No. 4, still used by Freemasons for monthly meetings. The route up gravelly County Road 1-S is just over a mile and makes for a nice mountain-bike jaunt.

SNOWSHOE/ CROSS-COUNTRY SKI

Wintertime doesn't always mean you can't visit — in fact the scene might have a more ethereal vibe blanketed in snow. South of Ouray lies Ironton Park, home to the slumbering remnants of the Ironton townsite. A local group maintains and grooms Nordic trails after fresh snows, including the roughly 2-mile Townsite Loop, which passes by a two-story Victorian house and the Larson Brothers Mine.

Close to Summit County's popular ski resorts is Mayflower Gulch Trail. Go 6 miles south of Copper Mountain to the trailhead, then strap on your snowshoes for a 4-mile round trip to Boston Mine. Your path follows a gently sloped wagon road through forest before opening up to a bowl peppered with old mining cabins and an ore chute at the base of Fletcher Mountain.

JEEP TOUR

Sometimes it's easier — but no less thrilling — to let the pros take the wheel. Telluride Outside guide service is happy to oblige with its 4WD tours in beefed-up Chevy trucks. The Imogene Pass itinerary departs from Telluride toward Tomboy on an intermediate road, meaning the tour is suited to all ages, but you'll still get your kicks. Amenities like tennis courts and a bowling alley once graced the area where a collection of collapsed remains and foundations now exist.

Strike out from Marble on an expedition to Crystal City, courtesy of Crystal River Jeep Tours. Your guide will navigate the terrain while you enjoy dramatic landscapes. Just before the town entrance is exceptionally picturesque Crystal Mill, perched above the river. Two shops and a dozen cabins are reminders of the once-thriving community, but a few friendly summer residents also carry on.

Note: Exercise caution around all sites and be mindful of rapidly changing weather conditions, especially at high altitudes. Taking souvenirs is strictly prohibited, but snap all the photos you like.

A CLOSER LOOK AT FIBER ARTISANS

For Colorado's fiber producers, the craft weaves together a passion for fiber arts and a love of the land and its animals. Hear a few of their stories, and make plans to visit their farms on your next trip.

Jefferson Farms Natural Fibers

DENVER & SALIDA

Jane and Arthur Levene endured a brief attempt at hay farming before they realized their acreage was too small and the work rather unrewarding. The couple happily turned to alpaca ranching and, along the way, discovered a special breed called paco-vicuñas, descendants of an Andean camelid domesticated thousands of years ago. Their fleece is light and luxurious, but much slower growing, so producing paco-vicuña yarn is a labor of love — one that Jane relishes. When she isn't nuzzling, shearing, spinning, feeding and playing with her herd (the largest in the U.S.), she likes to sneak away for some fly-fishing. Call to arrange a farm tour, book an overnight farm stay or purchase their yarns.

jeffersonfarmsnaturalfibers.com

Yampa Valley Fiberworks

CRAIG

When Lorrae and Lewis Moon's son joined his high school's FFA club and began raising a pair of sheep, Lorrae, a lifelong rancher, found she enjoyed harvesting and spinning the animals' fleece and selling the yarn. So when a local fiber mill announced its closure, she and Lewis took a big leap and purchased the operation. They've since worked day in and day out to develop their own natural washing, drying, spinning and dyeing methods. Their perfectionism has earned the trust of farms all over the country that send their wool, alpaca, mohair, angora and llama fleece to be turned into silky-smooth skeins. Come visit their yarn shop (with fibers made from the family's own sheep flock), take a mill tour or sign up for a class. yampavalleyfiberworks.com

Desert Weyr

PAONIA

On scenic Garvin Mesa, several small, stout, black creatures graze emerald-green grasses in a shady orchard pasture. These are the Desert Weyr farm's rare Black Welsh Mountain Sheep, a species prized in the Middle Ages for its dark color and supple fibers. There are now fewer than 10,000 remaining worldwide. Eugenie "Oogie" McGuire and husband Ken chose the breed for their Paonia farm, in part, to help preserve genetic diversity within the species. It's an ambitious mission and one that began after Oogie retired from the tech industry and Ken retired from engineering in Southern California. Visitors can call ahead to arrange a shopping trip to the farm store for raw fleeces, carded roving, spun yarn and hiking socks. desertweyr.com

DeGoatsnSheep Ranch

BAYFIELD

Jim and Linda Smith, a pair of hardy, southwestern Colorado do-it-yourselfers, built their naturally sustainable house by hand three decades ago near Durango. Today their organic, solar-powered ranch is home to several Wensleydale sheep and angora goats, gardens, greenhouses, an orchard and a fiber-arts studio. Arrange a creative getaway at their farm guesthouse and learn to spin, watercolor felt, knit and card yarn. Be sure to take Jim's excellent educational tour of the grounds, focusing on the solar integration, sheep and goat care and organic gardening. Or simply call to inquire about their highly acclaimed, lustrous yarns, available by the ounce. degoatsnsheep ranch.com

WANT MORE? COLORADO.COM/FARMSTAYS

In this part of the universe, we're fools for camping — and nothing elevates a night under the stars like a fireside feast. Consider one of our favorite campsites below, conveniently paired with ideas on where to pick up Colorado-made ingredients to prepare tasty eats.

CROW VALLEY RECREATION AREA

Briggsdale

Cradled by Pawnee National Grassland's sun-kissed prairie, Crow Valley's dark skies delight Milky Way chasers and solitude seekers. Choose from 10 spacious sites, and capture Insta-worthy views of the Pawnee Buttes — twin castle-like mesas that rise above the plains — from the nearby Pawnee Pioneer Trails Scenic and Historic Byway.

SUPPLY STOP: Stock up on cans of Denver-based The Infinite Monkey Theorem wine at Pringle's Fine Wine & Spirits in Fort Collins, then pick up some house-made garlic brats to char over the campfire from Beavers' Super Market, also in Fort Collins.

PEARL LAKE STATE PARK

Clark

Pearl Lake's placid waters beckon travelers to answer the call of the wild, and nearly all of the park's 36 campsites afford knockout vistas of the lake and surrounding peaks. Activities include kayaking, Gold Medal trout-fishing and frolicking in the surrounding forest via out-of-the-way trails.

SUPPLY STOP: Collect cured meats, cheeses and lovingly prepared chocolate bark (for extra-special s'mores) at Steamboat Springs' The Homesteader, adored for its inventory of locally produced goods.

UTE CAMPGROUND

near Pagosa Springs

This 26-site locale near Chimney Rock National Monument boasts glimpses of the monument's archeological ruins, home to more than 200 seemingly frozen-in-time homes and structures built by ancestors of the modern Pueblo Indians. Choose a site shaded by soaring pines, and take a guided walking tour of the monument.

SUPPLY STOP: Dazzle your brood with picks from specialty food shop The Choke Cherry Tree in Pagosa Springs. Made onsite, delicious homemade fruit syrups in flavors like the namesake wild chokecherry or boysenberry are a perfect topping for campfire pancakes in the a.m., while Grandpa Bill's Caramels make an excellent evening treat.

MOSCA CAMPGROUND

Hooper

Tucked in the shadow of always-pretty Great Sand Dunes National Park and Preserve, San Luis State Park's 51-site campground is an ideal base for spying on shorebirds, songbirds and raptors, and hiking or biking amid the lower sand dunes as the Sangre de Cristo Mountains tower above.

SUPPLY STOP: Grab snack items like Salazar Meats smokehouse sausages (the small-scale livestock and meat-processing operation is family-run in nearby Manassa) and Blue Moose of Boulder dips — green chile hummus, anyone? — at Alamosa's Valley Food Co-Op. Though members can join the cooperative, it's open to anyone for shopping.

ISLAND LAKE CAMPGROUND

near Delta & Cedaredge

Colorado's Grand Mesa, the world's largest flat-topped mountain, is the holy grail of outdoor playgrounds. Island Lake Campground's 39 sites are situated at 10,000 feet, offering primo access to Grand Mesa's 300 fishing lakes (for real!), 3,000 miles of trails and wildflower-shrouded meadows.

SUPPLY STOP: Whip up a coveted cheeseburger supper with provisions from Homestead Natural Meats in Delta: patties made from their own expertly raised beef and a selection of Rocking W Cheese, an export from nearby Olathe.

SENSIBLE CAMPING

Do's & Don'ts

Responsible campers rule
— here's how to be one.

Do leave rocks, plants and artifacts as you found them.

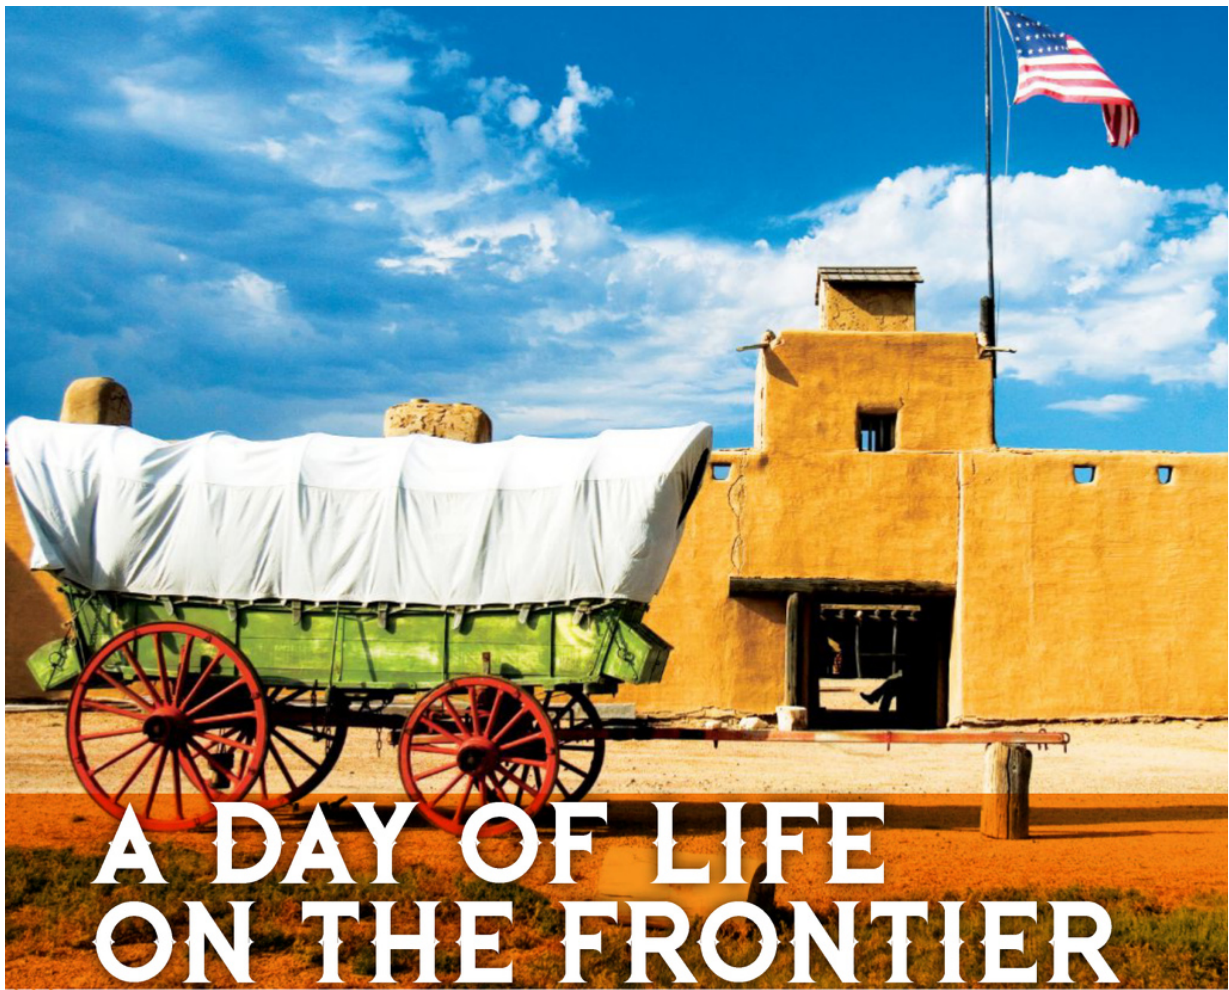

Do drown your campfire with water, mix the ashes and embers with soil and make sure everything is cool to the touch before you take off.

Don't leave any leftover food or trash behind (read: pack it in, pack it out).

Don't feed or approach wildlife — because we like you and don't want you to get hurt.

A DAY OF LIFE ON THE FRONTIER

MORNING

Start your journey at Bent's Old Fort National Historic Site near La Junta, a reconstructed 1830s fur-trading post where Cheyenne and Arapaho tribes, trappers and travelers gathered to swap hot items like buffalo robes. Situated on the Santa Fe Trail, a route between Missouri and New Mexico traversed by fortune seekers, Bent's Old Fort became a center of commerce for those living on the plains and a hub for cultural interaction between American settlers and Plains Indians. Stroll the adobe structure's rooms and corridors, and chat up the period-clothing-clad employees about life at the isolated fortress.

Drive northwest to Pueblo's El Pueblo History Museum, which honors the 1842 fort and settlement where white trappers and traders, Mexican settlers, and Plains and Cherokee Indians lived, traded and got along (for the most part). The fort was eventually attacked in 1854 by a band of Ute and Apaches and remained abandoned until 1989, when archaeologists unearthed its remains and the museum was opened nearby. Must-sees include replicated portions of El Pueblo and other artifacts from Colorado's fur-trade era, including the carved wooden grain chest owned by William Bent (Bent's Old Fort's co-founder).

FROM TOP: BENT'S OLD FORT, MILES/MATT INDEN; BENT'S OLD FORT, MILES/ANNA ZOROMSKI; NATIVE AMERICAN ARTWORK, MILES/ANNA ZOROMSKI; EL PUEBLO HISTORY MUSEUM, MILES/ANNA ZOROMSKI

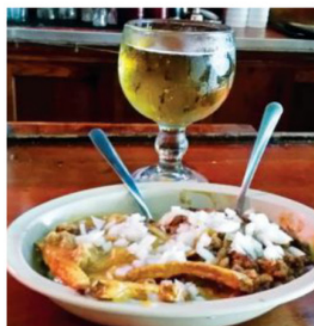

Before the Gold Rush inspired droves of eager prospectors to set up camp on our turf in the late 1850s, the stars of Colorado's frontier were American Indians, explorers, homesteaders, military men, and fur trappers and traders. Follow the itinerary below to trace the footsteps of the guys and gals who made our state what it is today.

AFTERNOON

The best lunch in Pueblo comes in the form of a slopper: cheeseburger patties drenched in green chile made from the city's legendary Mirasol peppers — a recipe cherished by generations of residents (trust us on this one). Eat it at Gray's Coors Tavern or Sunset Inn — the two establishments once went head-to-head in a Travel Channel battle for slopper bragging rights.

After wiping the chile residue off your face, hop on the 103-mile Frontier Pathways Scenic & Historic Byway, which marks the intersection of American Indian, Spanish, French and American territories and offers the same views of rugged canyons, snow-marbled mountains and vast meadows encountered by the first Coloradans.

Or head southwest toward Fort Garland, a military post built in 1852 to protect the new settlers in the San Luis Valley against resistant Ute Indians, who had called the area home for centuries. Bookended by the Sangre de Cristo and San Juan mountains, the valley's history stretches back to the Ice Age. Nomadic hunters thrived on the area's abundant wildlife, and a bevy of storied figures strolled across the landscape, including explorer Zebulon Pike, mountain man Tom Tobin (a regular at Bent's Old Fort and El Pueblo), and frontierswoman and daredevil Calamity Jane.

At Fort Garland Museum & Cultural Center, learn about the many careers of Kit Carson, the famed wilderness guide, army officer and Indian agent who commanded the fort in the 1860s. View a replica of the commander's crib, and peruse a rare exhibit about Buffalo Soldiers, black troops assigned to the West after the Civil War.

EVENING

Head west to Alamosa to conclude your history lesson on Medano Pass, where Zebulon Pike is rumored to have been awestruck by the sight of what is now Great Sand Dunes National Park and Preserve. Watch the sunset over North America's highest dunes and understand why Pike, who traveled to the San Luis Valley after "discovering" Pikes Peak in 1806, called them a "sea of sand."

BRIDGE

THE GENERATION GAP

AT RANCHES & FARMS

Family vacation takes on a fresh meaning when grandparents and grandkids have a chance to ditch the 'rents and hit the road together. Here are five reasons to choose a Colorado guest ranch or farm stay for your cross-generational getaway.

A wide range of activities will please the young and young at heart.

Horseback riding, fishing, archery, crafts — we could go on and on about the various ways to keep busy at farms and ranches. Grandparents should rest assured that whether they bring tots, tweens or teens, the trip is sure be a fulfilling one. And just because you're all there together doesn't necessarily mean every activity has to be done in tandem. You might want some quiet time to read a book on a porch swing while the kiddos go for a swim, and that's just fine. Everyone can meet up later for a hayride or evening entertainment like cowboy poetry and barn dances.

Being in nature seems to have a natural bonding effect.

Yes, it can be difficult to pry smartphones and other gadgets out of the hands of today's youth. However, you may not even need to be the one nudging them to disconnect: The trade-off for gorgeous mountain scenery is that cell service can be spotty in Colorado's remote areas. But honestly, it's amazing how a little fresh air goes a long way in fostering an appreciation for letting loose outdoors. Connections are really made once the kiddos open up to the experience as a whole. Take those moments to share stories around a campfire on a starry evening, strengthening the ties that bind in the process.

Memories made are likely to inspire lasting traditions.

A ranch or farm stay is a special retreat, but it doesn't have to be a one-and-done occasion. Build on the good times with the promise to return — what better way to reconnect than an annual reunion? Plus, your own kids will probably appreciate being relieved of parental duties for a week each summer, or invite them along next time!

All-inclusive packages mean you won't have to worry about getting everyone fed.

Worried about cooking for picky palates? Cast those fears aside and leave kitchen (and clean up!) duties to your hosts. All-inclusive ranches cover your comfy accommodations, delicious meals and daily horseback riding. Breakfast at both ranches and farm stays is often crafted from fresh eggs and produce that are sourced on site. From dinners cooked over an open fire to gourmet options, you'll be well taken care of and can spend more time enjoying each other's company.

Grandparents and youngsters can partake in new things together.

It's a safe bet that your upbringing differed quite a bit from how your grandchildren are growing up. Odds are your brood has never milked a cow or collected freshly laid eggs, but perhaps that was part of your way of life. Farm stays are an engaging way to turn them into little helpers, tending to animals and rolling up their sleeves for other chores. Take the opportunity to pass on your wisdom, and in turn they may teach you a thing or two about rock climbing or paintballing. Or, learn a new skill as a group, such as panning for gold or rodeo games.

OUTFITTERS TELL ALL

You don't have to look far to find adventure in Colorado — just ask our many outfitters.

From dog-sledding babies to backcountry trekking in tutus, these adventure pros have seen it all.

Here are some of their wildest and most inspiring stories from the field, plus some tips for travelers.

dog sledding

SARAH PIANO

Owner & Operator of Snow Buddy Dog Sled Tours in Oak Creek

"I had a friend coming to visit for a trip, and for some reason her husband wasn't able to watch their 6-month-old baby ... so I said, 'Just bring him!' We bundled him up and he slept the entire time."

TIP: Dog sledding is fun for all ages, from 6 months to 97 years. Don't be surprised if it turns out to be the highlight of your trip to Colorado.

aerial courses & ziplining

CHUCK CICHOWITZ

Owner of Browns Canyon Adventure Park in Buena Vista

"There was this teenage kid and I kept hearing him say, 'I can't do this. This is too hard.' But as I watched him, he began engaging the course differently, progressively taking on harder challenges. Afterward I took him aside and asked him what he learned. He said, 'I learned I can do harder things than I ever imagined.'"

TIP: Come with an open mind, and be prepared to step out of your comfort zone.

fly-fishing

BENJAMIN S. WURSTER

Owner of Steel City Anglers in Pueblo

"(Last) spring while having a fairly vigorous fight with an 18-inch cutbow trout, my line screamed from 10 feet away to the other side of the river. A 20-inch brown attacked my top fly and I played them both for a moment before the cutbow broke off and I managed the brown to the net. Trading fish is a story one hears about bonefishing in the Bahamas, not large trout in Colorado."

TIP: The Arkansas River below Pueblo sees its best fly-fishing mid-November through mid-May. Pueblo can be 30 degrees warmer than the rest of the state, giving opportunities for shirtsleeve fishing in February.

rafting

BRAD MODESITT

Owner of Mountain Whitewater
Descents in Fort Collins

"When I took a group of at-risk youth down the river, I heard a 15-year-old express how much better the rafting was than the trouble she'd been getting into. Whitewater rafting is such a good, clean sport that relies on team building — I love it."

TIP: Talk to your rafting guide about who you'll be bringing along so they can recommend the best trip for your group's abilities and expectations.

hut trips

SAMANTHA PODHURST

Founder, Director & Lead Guide of For Women, By Women
Backcountry Ski Program at Aspen Expeditions

"Last year's trip to the Green-Wilson Hut in the Elk Mountains of Aspen was one of epic proportions. We chopped wood in tutus (one woman brought fun costumes) and ate like queens: blueberry pancakes and bacon for breakfast, and snow sundaes topped with Baileys and whipped cream for dessert."

TIP: Women skiing with other women can encourage ladies to push their limits when they find themselves in a supportive environment.

off-roading

GREGG PIEPER

Guide at San Juan Scenic Jeep Tours in Ouray

"An elderly woman had gone out all day with us for two days in a row in the late fall. On the third day, it was raining harder than I've ever seen before or since. The woman met me at the Western Hotel and asked, 'Where are we going today?' I didn't have the nerve to say we might not go, but did mention there were others who may not show up. But they did, and though it rained, hailed, sleeted and snowed, it was one of the most beautiful and crazy days."

TIP: Don't always be deterred by less-than-perfect weather — you might miss something amazing.

5 Hidden

Fine-Dining Gems

Sometimes it seems as though big cities get all the restaurant love. But dig a little deeper and you'll uncover excellent places for an expertly prepared meal in smaller towns across Colorado. These five can't-miss establishments are worth a special trip.

The Dining Room at the Windsor Hotel

Del Norte

The one-stoplight town of Del Norte in rural south-central Colorado may have just missed the cut to be named Colorado's capital back in the day, but The Dining Room in the historic Windsor Hotel currently offers up food worthy of any metropolis. The menu is peppered with local ingredients, from lamb raised on nearby ranches to Haefeli's honey, making for elegant fare with Old West flair.

◀ The Pullman

Glenwood Springs

Hikers, fishers and hot-springs soakers are drawn to Glenwood Springs' low-key vibe, and The Pullman fits right in as a laid-back dining spot. But don't let the unpretentious aesthetic fool you: This restaurant propels a comforting menu of American share plates and larger entrees to a sophisticated level under the guidance of chef-owner Mark Fischer, who has earned multiple James Beard Award nominations over the years.

Kennebec Cafe

Hesperus

To the west of Durango, the tiny enclave of Hesperus draws powder-seekers to its family-friendly ski hill of the same name. But beyond the slopes, the lovely Kennebec Cafe is a haven of casual-elegant vibes and Mediterranean-inspired dishes. From favorite Old World wines to signature desserts and weekend brunch, the Kennebec is a perfect spot to sample European flavors made from seasonal Colorado ingredients.

626 on Rood

Grand Junction

Colorado's Western Slope is like a world of its own. Red-rock landscapes are juxtaposed with an agricultural oasis that makes it prime for winemaking — and a quality meal to go along with those outstanding pours. 626 on Rood, in downtown Grand Junction, is a wine bar perfectly suited for such an occasion, featuring upscale, modern American cuisine and an extensive wine selection — as in more than 30 by-the-glass choices!

▲ La Marmotte

Telluride

Sneak away to the southwestern part of the state for a visit to Telluride, a restored Victorian-era hamlet that's heavy on charm and picturesque views. Tucked into one of the oldest buildings in town, a cabin-style historic Ice House, La Marmotte's location isn't exactly where you'd expect to find high-caliber French dining. But you won't want to miss the elegant versions of bistro faves such as beef tartare and coq au vin.

5 Colorado Chefs-Turned-Farmers

Taking farm-to-table to the next level, these culinary masters have also become stewards of the land.

▼ Alex Seidel

Fruition, Mercantile Dining & Provision in Denver

A flock of dairy sheep at Fruition Farms in Larkspur provides rich milk for three distinct cheeses that are used in Seidel's restaurants and available at specialty retail shops.

FRUITION FARMS

Bradford Heap

Colterra in Niwot; SALT the Bistro and Wild Standard in Boulder

A partnership between Heap and Full Circle Farms' owner Dave Asbury led to the Soul Patch in Longmont, a 15-acre experimental plot for growing lettuce, vegetables and specialty crops.

Eric Skokan

Bramble & Hare and Black Cat in Boulder

Pigs, sheep and chickens are raised on the 130-acre Black Cat Farm outside of Boulder, and a huge variety of produce is used both in the restaurants' kitchens and sold at the Boulder Farmers' Market.

Clyde Nelson

The Home Ranch in Clark

Nelson had dreamed of having a farm at this dude ranch, and the results of his vision are on-site organic gardens, a greenhouse and ranch-raised livestock.

Mike Gillespie

The Living Farm Café in Paonia

Gillespie grew up on The Living Farm outside of Paonia, which has been in his family for generations and allows him to pair his culinary training with the freshest ingredients possible.

FROM TOP RIGHT: BLACK CAT; THE HOME RANCH; THE LIVING FARM.

What You Should Know About

National Heritage Areas

We're pretty proud of Colorado's Western history and exquisite beauty, but we're not the only ones who have taken notice. Find out why our contributions have been nationally recognized.

What is a National Heritage Area?

Not to be confused with National Historic Landmarks or the National Register of Historic Places, National Heritage Areas offer a look at regions that tell heritage stories through a wealth of natural, cultural and historic resources. NHAs rely on local groups and citizens to drive preservation, education, recreation and tourism-related projects.

Congress has designated almost 50 of them since 1984, and Colorado happens to boast three.

Why visit a National Heritage Area instead of a National Park?

NHAs cast a wide, heritage-focused net, sometimes encompassing popular National Parks. Diverse activities — from hiking and paddling to festivals and museums — provide a more comprehensive sense of an area's roots, and lesser-known attractions mean fewer crowds to contend with.

South Park National Heritage Area

Park County's mining and ranching heritage is on display in South Park, cradled in a valley that shows off diverse terrain.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Historic structures in Alma and nearby ghost town Buckskin Joe
- Bristlecone Pine Scenic Area
- July's music-and-art-centric Festival in the Clouds
- South Park City, a recreated 1800s mining town in Fairplay

Sangre de Cristo National Heritage Area

This 3,000-square-mile corridor encompasses the San Luis Valley, home to the state's earliest civilizations and a mountain range named for the red hue of its peaks at sunset.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Several museums, including Sangre de Cristo Heritage Center & Museum in San Luis
- Great Sand Dunes National Park & Preserve
- Birding at Monte Vista National Wildlife Preserve
- Cumbres & Toltec Scenic Railroad

Cache la Poudre River National Heritage Area

The 120-mile namesake river influenced development of water law in the Western U.S. and enhanced water-delivery systems, and helped shape northern Colorado's cultural heritage.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Poudre River Trail
- Tour 1883 Water Works in Fort Collins
- Lory State Park
- Centennial Village Museum

TIPS FOR PICKING

PRODUCE	WHAT TO LOOK FOR	SEASON
Apples	Choose apples that are firm to the touch, without bruises, with good color and a pleasant smell.	Mid-Aug. through Nov. (Most are harvested in Sept.)
Cantaloupe	Ripe cantaloupe will have a distinctive aroma and the blossom end should yield to gentle pressure. Cantaloupes that were kept on the vine until fully ripe will have a clean depression where the stem was attached. Avoid cantaloupes that are shriveled, bruised or that have punctured or cracked rinds.	Mid-July through Sept.
Carrots	Carrots should be vibrant orange and well shaped with firm, smooth exteriors. Avoid soft or wilted carrots or those with growth cracks or splits.	Aug. through Nov.
Cherries	Look for cherries that are plump, with firm, smooth and brightly colored skins. Good quality cherries should have green stems attached. Avoid cherries with blemishes, rotted or mushy skins, or those that are shriveled and dull.	Mid-June through mid-July
Leaf Lettuce	Leaf lettuce should be crisp and well colored. Avoid leaf lettuce with yellow leaves or with leaves showing cracked ribs.	May through Oct.
Onions	Good-quality dry onions should be firm and hard with short, tight necks and dry, papery skins. A slightly loose outer skin is common and should not affect quality. Avoid onions that show mold, decay or blemishes.	Aug. through Nov.
Peaches	Peaches should be picked when the background color (not the red side toward the sun, but the backside of the fruit) has changed from green to white or yellow. If the peaches are to be eaten quickly, the best possible peach is one that has already started to soften on the tree, however, if they are to be stored then they should still be firm, but with the light background color.	Mid-July through mid-Sept.
Potatoes	All potato varieties should be uniformly sized, fairly clean, firm and smooth. Avoid potatoes with wrinkled skins, soft dark spots, cut surfaces or green appearance. Look for a variety of Colorado potatoes, including Yukon gold, russet, fingerling and purple.	Year-round
Sweet Corn	Sweet corn should have fresh, green husks with silk ends that are free of decay or worms. Ears should be evenly covered with plump, consistently sized kernels. Avoid corn with discolored or dry-looking husks, stem ends or kernels.	Mid-July through mid-Oct.
Tomatoes	Tomatoes should have bright, shiny skins and firm flesh. Avoid tomatoes that are soft or mushy, lacking in color, or have blemishes or growth cracks.	Year-round
Watermelon	Choose a symmetrical melon that is heavy for its size.	Mid-July through Sept.

NAVIGATE COLORADO

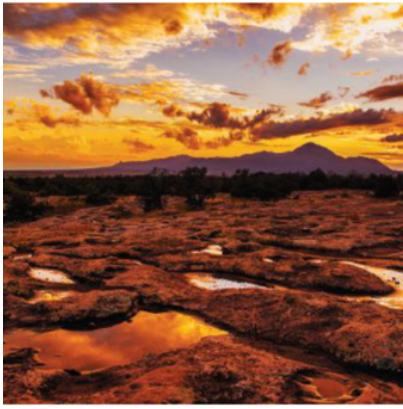

Colorado is the eighth-largest state in the U.S., measuring 380 miles east to west and 280 miles north to south. Yes, that's more than 100,000 total square miles to explore. Luckily, with so much to see and do, Colorado is very easy to navigate. On the opposite side of this page, we've divided the state into seven travel regions to help you plan your trip.

A full-page photograph of a vast canyon landscape. In the foreground, a person stands on the edge of a large, reddish-brown rock formation, looking out over the canyon. The canyon walls are composed of layered red rock, with some areas covered in green shrubs and trees. The sky is a clear, bright blue with a few wispy clouds. The overall scene is bathed in the warm, golden light of late afternoon or early morning.

DISCOVER MESA VERDE COUNTRY

EXPLORE MESA VERDE NATIONAL PARK AND THE TOWNS OF CORTEZ, DOLORES AND MANCOS, WHERE HISTORY AND OUTDOOR ADVENTURE RULE THE LANDSCAPE.

Mesa Verde is the only National Park dedicated to preserving the villages and objects hand-built by ancient civilizations. Beautifully constructed cliff dwellings and mesa-top villages were built by the people who inhabited the area between 600 and 1300 A.D. Today, Mesa Verde protects nearly 5,000 known archaeological sites, including 600 cliff dwellings. Walk, drive or take a bus tour through the park.

Sleuth for your own treasures at Crow Canyon Archaeological Center in Cortez under the tutelage of archaeologists and American Indian scholars. For a truly authentic cultural experience, native guides interpret the 125,000-acre Ute Mountain Tribal Park's cliff dwellings, pictographs, surface ruins and artifacts — the only way to access the land that holds these precious pieces of history.

Tour more ancient sites by starting at Anasazi Heritage Center to learn about the cliff dwellings, kivas and rock art you'll see at two national monuments: Canyons of the Ancients and Hovenweep.

The work of local and Native American artisans can be found in Mesa Verde Country's galleries, trading posts and other locales, many of which have been in the same families for generations. Later, sample the local bounty at restaurants serving farm-to-table fare, or options ranging from Southwest specialties to cowboy chow.

Live the cowboy dream on a horseback ride or pack trip into the quintessentially Western landscapes and backcountry of the area. For another type of ride, Mesa Verde Country has more than 600 miles of singletrack mountain biking. The Phil's World Trail System outside Cortez has 60 of those miles alone, including the famous, rollercoaster-like Rib Cage trail.

Additionally, massive San Juan National Forest, which covers 1.8 million acres, is perfect for those seeking solitude in nature. Boat and fish along the Dolores River or McPhee Reservoir — the second-largest body of water in Colorado.

Visit MesaVerdeCountry.com to learn more about all there is to see and do, and download the free Ancient Voices Audio Tour, a collection of stories filled with rich history and cultural importance that will help you explore the past and hear it come to life.

CRAFTED BEVERAGES OF SOUTHWEST COLORADO

DURANGO: THE BASE CAMP FOR THIRSTY TRAVELERS

Home to more than 30 independent breweries, wineries, distilleries and cideries, Southwest Colorado is a hub for locally produced crafted beverages, with something for every taste. Discover brew pubs, explore rural wineries and tour in-town distilleries, all while enjoying the diverse scenery of this beautiful part of Colorado. The ultimate road trip through Craft Country beckons beverage connoisseurs to get off the beaten tourist path and discover some of the best outdoor, cultural and historic destinations in the state.

Scattered amid the massive San Juan Mountains that define the region, gems of fermented delights are tucked away in remote Colorado mountain towns like Durango, Silverton, Ouray, Ridgway, Cortez, Mancos, Dolores, Bayfield, Ignacio and Pagosa Springs. Iconic scenic byways and trail systems, including the legendary Million Dollar Highway and the Colorado Trail, connect this network of crafted beverages.

Numerous site tours, festivals and events celebrate Southwest Colorado's crafted-beverage culture with endless opportunities for side trips to hot springs, pristine mountain trails, national historic districts and ancient cliff dwellings. The rugged, wild landscape and down-to-earth local vibes provide the ideal backdrop to pair gourmet Southwest flavors with locally made beverages.

For more information, please visit Durango.org/crafted-beverages.
