John Hickenlooper
Governor

Dear Fellow Coloradans:

We want to thank the more than 3,000 Coloradans from all corners of the state who currently serve on approximately 300 boards and commissions. Coloradans have a long history of coming together and helping one another to affect meaningful change. Serving the great State of Colorado as a board or commission member is an important way to make your voice and that of your community's heard. This collaborative work experience is critical to help identify solutions to many of the problems and issues facing our state. You can be proud knowing that your efforts will help Colorado be the best state in which to live, work and play.

Our website and this book have descriptions of the many boards and commissions that are seeking candidates in 2014. These boards and commissions oversee a large variety of subjects and make wide-ranging decisions that affect your day-to-day lives as Coloradans. They provide the opportunity to promote education, to put more Coloradans to work and to develop and protect the resources of our beautiful state.

We urge all Colorado residents to consider serving their communities. We are continually looking for qualified candidates. The process to be considered to serve on a board or commission is simple. Work with the Governor's Office of Boards and Commissions to submit an online application at www.colorado.gov/governor.

Thank you for your interest and willingness to serve.

Sincerely,

John Hickenlooper
Governor

There is a judicial district nominating commission for each of Colorado's 22 judicial districts that selects nominees for district and county judicial vacancies. Each district nominating commission is chaired by a justice of the Supreme Court, who is a non-voting member of the commission.

Each judicial district nominating commission consists of seven citizens residing in that judicial district. No more than four members can be from the same political party, and there must be at least one voting member from each county in the district. In all districts with populations of more than 35,000, the voting members consist of three people admitted to practice law in Colorado and four people not admitted to practice law in Colorado. In judicial districts with populations under 35,000, at least four voting members are people not admitted to practice law in Colorado. It is determined by majority vote of the governor, attorney general and chief justice how many, if any, of the remaining three members will be persons admitted to practice law in Colorado.

Commission members serve six-year terms. Non-lawyers, who are the majority of every nominating commission, are appointed by the governor. Lawyer members are appointed by joint action of the governor, attorney general, and chief justice.

The Supreme Court Nominating Commission recommends candidates to serve as judges for the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals. The chief justice of the Supreme Court chairs the commission and is a non-voting member. This commission includes one citizen admitted to practice law in Colorado and one citizen not admitted to practice law residing in each of the state's seven congressional districts, and one additional citizen not admitted to practice law in Colorado.
