Colorado State Historical Fund Grants Awarded
Fiscal Year 2014

HISTORY Colorado

STATE HISTORICAL FUND

What is the State Historical Fund?

As one of the nation's most successful historic preservation grant programs, the History Colorado State Historical Fund (SHF) supports preservation projects in all corners of Colorado. Each year, the program receives a portion of limited-stakes gaming tax revenue generated in the towns of Black Hawk, Central City, and Cripple Creek. SHF distributes these funds to public entities and nonprofit organizations for the preservation and interpretation of Colorado's architectural and archaeological treasures. This is a report of the grants that were awarded for Fiscal Year 2014.

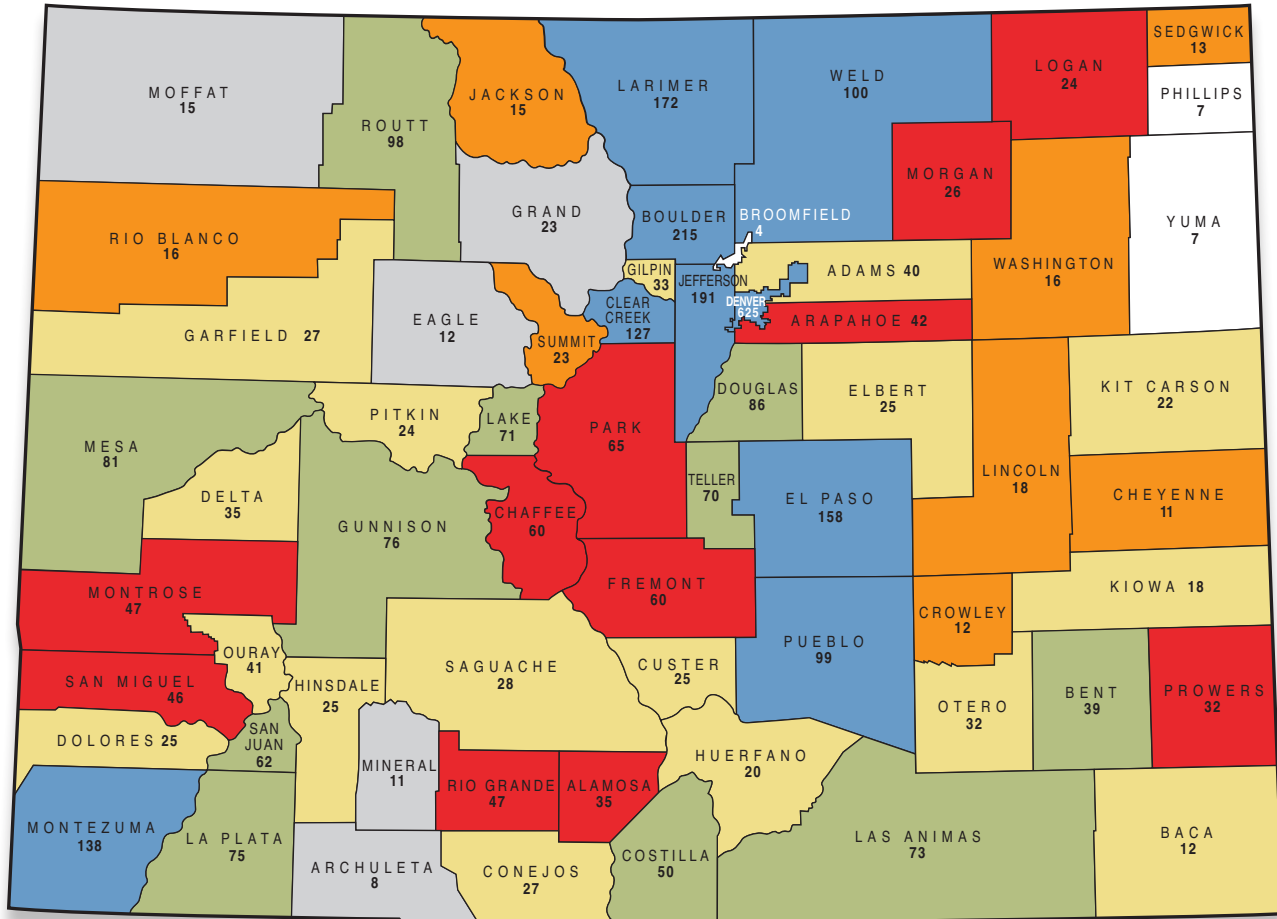

State Historical Fund Mission

To Foster Heritage Preservation through Tangible and Highly Visible
Projects for Direct and Demonstrable Public Benefit

History Colorado is headquartered in the History Colorado Center, 1200 Broadway, Denver, CO 80203 in Denver's Golden Triangle Museum District.

Grant Award Highlights
State Historical Fund Fiscal Year 2014

Hinsdale County Courthouse

Hinsdale County Government
Acquisition and Development

As the oldest courthouse in Colorado that continues to function for its original purpose, the 1877 Hinsdale County Courthouse is a beloved community building with a legacy of esteemed visitors, including Susan B. Anthony, who addressed miners in 1877 on the importance of women's suffrage, and Alfred Packer, the notorious Colorado cannibal who was convicted at the courthouse in 1883. Today the building houses county services during business hours, but moonlights as a featured stop on Lake City's Summer Ghost Tours, when visitors are invited into the reportedly haunted upstairs courtroom. With funding from the History Colorado State Historical Fund, Hinsdale County will stabilize the foundation and rehabilitate the exterior.

Paris Mill

Park County Board of County Commissioners
Acquisition and Development

Named one of Colorado's Most Endangered Places in 2004, the Paris Mill is a striking relic of the region's mining heritage. Built in 1895 to process ore from the nearby Paris Mine, the Mill remained a significant industrial asset for the area until it was shut down in 1937. Aside from a brief drilling operation in 1977, the mill has remained idle and largely preserved in its 1930s state. With funding from the History Colorado State Historical Fund, the mill will undergo comprehensive rehabilitation and repair to retain the building's historical integrity and protect the equipment housed inside.

Powell House / St. Cloud-Canon Hotel / St. Cloud Hotel
The Future of Yesterday Foundation
Acquisition and Development

One of the oldest hotels in the state, the 1890s St. Cloud Hotel in Cañon City was recently threatened with demolition before The Future of Yesterday Foundation formed after public outcry halted the razing. As part of the Cañon City Downtown Historic District, the gorgeous Second Empire building is characterized by its mansard roof with dormer windows, segmental arched windows, and rough cut stones that mark the building's edges. With a grant from the History Colorado State Historical Fund, The Future of Yesterday Foundation will rehabilitate the roof of the deteriorated but revered building that was once a home-away-from-home for the rich movie-making industry of Cañon City's history.

The Hanging Flume
Western Colorado Interpretive Association,
Survey and Planning

The recipient of a 2014 Stephen H. Hart Award, the Western Colorado Interpretive Association (WCIA) will continue its innovative work with the Hanging Flume in Montrose County. Constructed between 1889 and 1891 with 1.8 million feet of lumber, the flume was built along the canyon wall to carry eight million gallons of water per day to placer gold – hence the moniker “hanging.” At 150 feet above the Dolores River, the Hanging Flume is the only surviving flume of its kind in the United States. With funding from History Colorado, the WCIA will continue preservation efforts on the ten mile long flume for additional investigative work to better understand the diverse construction, innovative engineering, and significance so that preservationists and the public alike may more comprehensively understand mining history and innovation in Colorado.

Steamboat Springs Depot
City of Steamboat Springs
Acquisition and Development

In 1906 citizens of Steamboat Springs raised $15,000 to design a railroad depot for their growing ranching and farming community. Celebrated architect Frank E. Edbrooke, who also design Denver’s Brown Palace Hotel, drew plans for the depot and began construction in 1908. A year later, the completed building and subsequent arrival of the railroad transformed Yampa Valley into a major cattle shipping center. This year the City of Steamboat Springs will use funding from the History Colorado State Historical Fund to complete second-phase rehabilitation, including foundation repairs and installation of a historically appropriate roof.

Matchless Mine - Matchless No. 6 (Powder Magazine)
The National Mining Hall of Fame & Museum
Acquisition and Development

The Matchless Mine in Leadville is famously known as the one-time residence of silver magnate Horace Tabor, once the wealthiest man in the state, and his wife Elizabeth “Baby Doe” Tabor. Widely recognized as an important Colorado landmark, the site is owned and maintained by the National Mining Hall of Fame and Museum (NMHFM), but even its stewards could not protect the Powder Magazine (where the mine’s explosives were stored) from damage after the hills that surround its three sides encroached on the building and compromised its stability, leaving it at risk of collapse. With funding from the History Colorado State Historical Fund, the NMHFM will dismantle the magazine, install a concrete retaining wall, and reconstruct it to ensure that the Matchless Mine site remains a comprehensive interpretation of the Tabor’s story and legacy.

Granada Relocation Center National Historic Landmark
University of Denver
Acquisition and Development

During World War II, the Granada Relocation Center, also known as Amache, housed 10,000 Americans of Japanese ancestry who were forcibly removed from their homes. Today, the site is unique among World War II internment camps for its archaeological integrity. Remnant landscaping features elements of Japanese design that bear testament to the concerted efforts of internees to make their barren living environment more hospitable. The Department of Anthropology at the University of Denver will continue its ongoing field school at the site and associated museum. Students will work with former internees to capture their memories about the center while preserving this important site for future generations.

Canyon Creek Schoolhouse / Little Red Schoolhouse
Garfield County School District RE-1 - Roaring Fork
Acquisition and Development

After 1959, no classes were held at the Canyon Creek Schoolhouse, but the historic building continues to serve Glenwood Springs as a center for public activity. Built around 1907, the schoolhouse offered the local ranching community a cultural and academic center essential to the growth of the rural region. Today the building is a venue for weddings, dances, meetings, and other community events, and it illustrates frontier education to visiting school children each year. In order to ensure this building remain intact for years to come, funding from the History Colorado State Historical Fund will help restore the original stone foundation. This is the first project of a multi-phased rehabilitation venture.
