AIMS AND OBJECTIVES

The Colorado State Home for Dependent and Neglected Children was founded by legislative enactment in 1895 as a state supported institution to receive, care for, and place for adoption, or under indenture, dependent and neglected children committed to it by the county and juvenile courts in Colorado. Children are no longer indentured but are placed in foster homes, when possible. Except for this change the legal function of the Home as defined by statute remains the same. In recent years, many other agencies have been empowered to place for adoption or in foster homes children relinquished by their parents or declared by the courts to be dependent and neglected. Because of the activities of these other agencies only a small percentage of the adoptable and placeable children are now being committed to the Colorado State Home for Dependent and Neglected Children; and a large percentage of the children who are committed are not readily adoptable or placeable, if at all, because of mental or physical defects, or racial, emotional, or religious characteristics. The result is that the Colorado State Home for Dependent and Neglected Children is becoming an institution for the care, treatment and training of handicapped children who are not so deficient mentally as to be committed to the State Home and Training School at Ridge, Colorado, or Grand Junction, Colorado, or who do not require permanent hospitalization for physical defects; and for children of minority racial groups for whom homes cannot be found. There are a certain number of normal children still being placed for adoption and in foster homes through this agency. While the aims and objectives of the Colorado State Home for Dependent and Neglected Children, as set forth in the statutes, are perfectly clear, the present function is tending away from those aims and objectives. The proper place for the Colorado State Home for Dependent and Neglected Children in the Child Welfare Program in this State is at present uncertain.

AIMS AND OBJECTIVES

The Colorado State Home for Dependent and Neglected Children was founded by legislative enactment in 1897 as a state-supported institution to receive, care for, and place for adoption or under independent department and neglected children committed to it by the county and juvenile courts in Colorado. Children are no longer indentured but are placed in foster homes when possible. Except for the change the legal function of the home as defined by statute remains the same. In recent years many other agencies have been empowered to place for adoption or in foster homes children relinquished by their parents or delayed by the courts to be dependent and neglected because of the activities of these other agencies only a small percentage of the adoptable and placable children are now being committed to the Colorado State Home for Dependent and Neglected Children and a large percentage of the children who are committed are not readily adoptable or placable. It is all because of mental, physical defects, or racial, emotional, or religious characteristics. The result is that the Colorado State Home for Dependent and Neglected Children is becoming an institution for the care, treatment and training of handicapped children who are not adoptable tentatively as to be committed to the State Home and Training School at Hixson, Colorado, or Grand Junction, Colorado, or who do not require permanent hospitalization for physical defects; and for children of inferior racial groups for whom homes cannot be found. There are a certain number of normal children who have been placed for adoption and in foster homes through this agency. While the aims and objectives of the Colorado State Home for Dependent and Neglected Children are set forth in the statutes, it is perfectly clear, the present function is tending away from those aims and objectives. The proper place for the Colorado State Home for Dependent and Neglected Children in the Child Welfare Program in this State is at present uncertain.

FACTS CONCERNING THE COLORADO STATE HOME FOR DEPENDENT and NEGLECTED CHILDREN

This is the only State Institution for the care of dependent, neglected and maltreated children of Colorado.

No church collections or individual contributions are solicited

It is supported by State appropriations.

No county contributions are received.

The children are all committed by the Juvenile or County Courts of the various counties of the State by relinquishment proceedings, or dependency action.

According to Chapter 26, Session Laws of 1895, all children free from chronic or contagious disease, of sound mind and body, placeable in family homes, who are dependent upon the public for support, and who are neglected, maltreated, or in evil environment, are eligible to be cared for at the State Home.

The county pays the court costs and expenses of transportation for the children to the Home.

The court and other expenses for adoption papers are paid by the individual securing them.

The State Agents receive no commission on the children received, or on those placed in private homes.

The members of the Board of Control serve without compensation.

“The said Board are hereby made the legal guardians of the persons and estates of all children admitted to said Home, pursuant to law, which guardianship shall continue during the minority of such children, except in cases, where, under this act, the guardianship shall be cancelled by resolution adopted by said Board.”

(From Section 5 of Chapter 26, Session Laws, 1895.)

PHYSICAL PLANT

With the exception of the new laundry, Babyland, Toddlers, and Edbrooke Hall, all of the buildings at the State Home for Dependent and Neglected Children are fifty years old, more or less, and are obsolete. As funds become available, the present dormitory buildings should be replaced by residence buildings which can be operated on the cottage plan; and each legislature must make funds available for one or more such replacements. Edbrooke and Campbell Halls are presently being operated on a modified cottage plan, and are the only two buildings, excepting the Administration Building, which can be adapted to such operation. The present plant is not adaptable to the care, treatment and education of the mentally and physically handicapped children who are being committed to it in increasing numbers. A program of new construction should take into consideration the changing functions of the Home.

PERSONNEL

Mr. John C. Stoddard resigned as superintendent of the Home, effective on February 1, 1953. Prior to the acceptance of his resignation, an effort was made to find a successor. Pending certification of eligible applicants by the Civil Service Commission, Kenneth P. Joos was made assistant Superintendent, and has been, and is now, the acting Superintendent.

During the winter of 1952-1953 in-service training classes were held for the house parents. It is hoped such training can be continued. The morale of the staff has improved under Mr. Joos, and administrative problems have been greatly reduced since the early part of 1952.

EDUCATION

Through the sixth grade the children attend Reynolds School, which is staffed by the Public Schools, but is attended only by children from the Home. Through Junior and Senior High Schools the children attend such public schools as they may elect. The Home is endeavoring to have the primary children also attend schools with other children, to make them feel they are a part of the community, and not a group set apart from their fellows.

This has been achieved in the matter of Sunday School attendance. Children of the Catholic faith attend Our Lady of Lourdes Church. Until recently Sunday School services for the children of Protestant denominations were held at the Home. Now, through the cooperation of the Denver Council of Churches, these children attend Protestant Sunday School and services in churches in the general vicinity, with other children; and are encouraged to participate in the church and Sunday School activities.

SPECIAL THERAPY

The Home has many children needing special therapy. All the available clinics at the Colorado General Hospital are used very satisfactorily. There are presently no crippled children in the Home. The Wallace Speech School, the Evans School, the Hearing Society, and the Colorado School for the Deaf and Blind are all used in the education of handicapped children. There is some, but far too little, play therapy done on the campus. We are indebted to student teachers from the Department of Education of the University of Denver for valuable services to the children in recreational and remedial education.
