COMMISSIONERS' REPORT.

Colorado State Reformatory,
Buena Vista, Colo., November 30, 1896.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY,
ALBERT W. McINTIRE,
GOVERNOR OF COLORADO.

Sir—The Board of Commissioners of the Colorado State Reformatory respectfully submit the following report, as required by law, covering the transactions for the two years ending November 30, 1896; and submit herewith the reports of the warden, chaplain and physician, in detail:

IMPROVEMENTS.

The principal improvements during the two years have been the completion of the first half of the first, or western, wing of the cell house, providing one hundred and four (104) cells; the erection of a most perfect electric light plant, with good brick boiler house; the furnishing of the cell house and the warden's house, and extensive fitting of the grounds.

DISCIPLINE.

Since the prisoners have occupied the new cell house, the problem of control and management of the inmates has been largely solved; and the discipline of the Reformatory has been greatly improved under the efficient and prudent efforts of the present warden and his officers. When punishment has been imposed it has been done after due study of the case, and in a manner to show the prisoner that the object of such punishment was his reformation, rather than his injury. Some law should be provided that the commissioners should have authority to transfer incorrigible or vicious convicts to the penitentiary, and arrange for the term of their detention there.

THE PAROLE SYSTEM.

The parole system in this institution has worked fairly well, under the circumstances. We believe that a system that will, in a measure, teach these young men some trades should be made a part of the Reformatory system. We most urgently request that an appropriation be made for that purpose.

IMPROVEMENTS REQUIRED.

The present cell house has only two vacant cells. Under the present increase of inmates, it is necessary to build the second half of the west wing of the cell house, now in use; and we recommend the appropriation of $20,000 for that purpose.

The small and temporary dining room and kitchen, and the old building used for school and chapel, are too small for the present needs. We recommend an appropriation of $10,000 to build a dining room and kitchen on the first floor, with chapel and school room on the second floor, as per plans approved by the general assembly at the founding of this institution.

As regular and systematic labor are essential elements in the reformatory idea, and that the intent of the law creating the State Reformatory may be more fully carried out, we recommend that an appropriation of $10,000 be made to begin some class of manufacturing. We recommend an appropriation of $1,250 to construct a system of sewerage.

Now that we have a good steam plant, and for economy and better fire protection, we recommend an appropriation of $2,000 for the introduction of steam heat into all the buildings.

SUMMARY OF APPROPRIATIONS.

Cell house.....	$ 20,000 00

Wagons and farm implements.....	500 00
Total.....		$ 118,750 00

We feel that in the death of Warden John A. McDonald, November 13, 1895, the Reformatory lost a faithful and most conscientious and efficient officer, whose influence and untiring energy have reflected credit to himself and the state.

In conclusion the commissioners desire to attest their appreciation of the services and good judgment of Warden Fred J. Radford and his efficient corps of officers.

We close the report by thanking your excellency for the deep interest manifested by you in the welfare of this institution, and for the valuable advice and kindly influence and support rendered in conducting its affairs.

W. H. MEYERS,
I. D. CHAMBERLAIN,
C. BOETTCHER,
Board of Commissioners.

WARDEN'S REPORT.

Colorado State Reformatory,
Buena Vista, Colo., November 30, 1896.

To the Honorable Board of Commissioners, Colorado State Reformatory:

Gentlemen—I have the honor to submit for your favorable consideration this, my report of the management and financial condition of the Colorado State Reformatory, for the period commencing December 1, 1894, and ending November 30, 1896, together with statistics relative to the population:

PRISON POPULATION

For year commencing December 1, 1894, ending
November 30, 1895:

In reformatory, November 30, 1894		69
Paroled during year	66
Received during year		64
Escaped during year	14
Returned to Canon City	7
Escaped prisoners returned		11
Prisoners pardoned	2
Prisoners released at expiration of sentence	1
Prisoners released on commutation of sentence	1
Paroled prisoners returned		2
Killed	1
In reformatory, November 30, 1895	54
Total	146	146

PRISON POPULATION

For year commencing December 1, 1895, ending
November 30, 1896:

In reformatory, November 30, 1895	-----	54
Paroled during year	63	-----
Received during year	-----	107
Escaped during year	-----	-----
Prisoners released on conditional pardon	1	-----
Paroled prisoners returned	-----	5
Number in reformatory November 30, 1896	102	-----
Total	166	166

You will see by the above statement that the number of prisoners for the year 1896 is much greater than the previous year. If the prison population continues to increase in the next year as it has in the past, the institution will be very much crowded, unless there are some provisions made very soon to provide cell accommodations. At present we have a cell house with 104 single cells, and we have in the institution 102 prisoners, which leaves only two (2) vacant cells. The shortest time in which a building, which would accommodate 100 persons, could be erected would be one year. We are very much in need of a dining room and kitchen, as the building we are at present using is a small board structure, 15 by 35 feet, with a small shed at one end, 15 by 15 feet, used as a kitchen. These buildings were only put up temporarily, and have answered the purpose very well, until of late. Since the number of inmates has so increased, many are obliged to wait at meal time until some have eaten, in order to have a place at the table.

PAROLED.

Of the 128 prisoners who have been paroled during the past two years, eighty-one (81) report regularly, are working and have good positions. Twenty-nine (29) reported for a time and then stopped. Thirteen (13) never reported, and five (5) have been returned for violating their paroles. We consider the above report a very encouraging one, as a very large per cent. of the paroled prisoners obtain work and make good citizens.

DISCIPLINE.

The discipline and general conduct of the prisoners has been good, and, with few exceptions, the rules and regulations of the institution have been complied with. I regret very much that the intention of the law, in regard to the transferring of prisoners from the Reformatory to the penitentiary, can not be carried out, and I would most earnestly request the next general assembly to so modify the law as to enable us to carry out the first intention. If I could, at this time, transfer some four or five of our inmates to the penitentiary at Canon City, I think our discipline would be almost perfect. In sentencing a prisoner to the Reformatory, it is the intention of the court to sentence no one who is a hardened criminal; but they are misled, and unintentionally sentence prisoners here who have served terms in state penitentiaries, and who, in my judgment, are beyond reformation. We are compelled to allow these hardened criminals to associate with the other inmates, which, I am sure, is wrong, and is not carrying out the intention of the founders of the Reformatory.

In a legal sense, the Reformatory is a penal institution; consequently, a place of restraint, discipline and deprivation. Many things proper and allowable outside must be denied to those within its walls, as some things must be required here not required elsewhere. Yet the Reformatory is not solely or chiefly a place of punishment, but rather one for reformation and help—a place which shall afford advantages to each inmate, and put within reach of all, better things than past or present ones. There must be rules and regulations in order to secure and maintain that which is just, fair, and for the best interest of each and every one. A prompt, cheerful obedience to the rules helps every one, and enables each individual to secure the greatest possible advantages for himself, and all the pleasantness and comfort that can be within the confines of walls. The plan of the Reformatory is to give every one within it a chance, by good conduct and his own effort, to shorten his stay therein; to give proper schooling to those who need to advance the material, mental and moral interests of each inmate. A reasonable amount of work is required for health and personal improvement.

Facilities for study, instruction, entertainment and recreation are given. If help and privileges are rightly used, they are increased; if they are abused, they are withheld. Inmates of the Reformatory are classified into three grades—first, second and third; the first being the highest, the second the intermediate, and the third the lowest.

RULES.

Each prisoner entering the Reformatory for the first time, enters the second grade, and is promoted to the first grade, when he has earned 800 credit marks within six consecutive months. He is allowed for perfect conduct and diligence in study, five credit marks for each day. For imperfections in conduct, lack of industry in labor, or want of diligence in study, he shall lose such number of marks as the warden shall decide.

If an inmate of the first grade shall fail to obtain 110 credit marks during any one month, he is reduced to the second grade. A failure to obtain this number of marks per month by a second grade inmate for two consecutive months, reduces him to the third grade.

A failure, by a third grade inmate, to obtain ninety credit marks per month for three consecutive months, subjects him to such punishment as the warden, with the consent of the commissioners, shall prescribe.

A total of five credit marks for each day of any one month may advance an inmate from third to second grade; or, in other words, 150 credit marks must be obtained to advance a man from third to second grade. A first grade man who has lost his standing may restore it by obtaining 150 credit marks in the month next ensuing. A man, in whatever grade he be, who obtains five credit marks for each day, for four consecutive months, shall be entitled thereby to 150 additional credit marks.

An inmate, who has lost no marks on reaching the first grade, is classed "first grade perfect," and remains so until marks are lost.

In granting privileges and permits, first grade perfect prisoners are preferred. Serious breaches of the peace or discipline of the Reformatory cause a prisoner to be reduced to the third grade, or to suffer such punishment as the warden shall direct. The warden shall, from time to time, establish the privileges of the several grades, and the number of marks to be deducted for various offenses. Prisoners are not released from the Reformatory before their sentence expires, except from the first grade. Promotions from one grade to another are made on the third day of each month, except when that day occurs on Sunday, when the promotions take place on the fourth day.

Each prisoner keeps his room in order; floor, walls, and furnishings neat and clean. He must not in any way mar or deface it, or anything belonging thereto. At the striking of the first gong in the morning he rises, washes, fully dresses, and strips his bed. Before going to breakfast, he makes his bed and puts his room in order for inspection, to which it is, at all times, subject. He must, at all times, when in his room, remain quiet, and retire at the striking of the second gong at night, and from that time silence is to be observed, until the striking of the first gong in the morning. Each room is swept every day, washed once a week, and as much oftener as is required to keep it in good condition. Prisoners in the first grade write every Sunday; those in the second grade every second Sunday, and those in the third grade not at all.

Privileges are in accordance with the grade standing, and are from time to time increased, as the good conduct and personal progress in the Reformatory warrant. As the statute provides for release only when it "shall appear to the commissioners and warden that the person imprisoned in the Reformatory has reformed"—reformation being the only statutory ground for release. They must, therefore, "in judging of the reformation of a prisoner," take into "consideration his past career, his offense, and general trend of his previous life," to assist them in determining the possibility of his reformation; the board always keeping in mind that the worst of men may, and under the reformatory plan should be expected to reform.

Each case stands upon the individual merits of the prisoner; and as no two cases can be alike, no two necessarily receive the same treatment; as, indeed, they can not, if men are to be treated justly, upon the basis of character and not of conduct merely.

By this plan the intent of the law is more thoroughly carried out than by any other. The law makes the sentence absolutely indefinite, within certain maximum limits, and its greatest advantages are obtained when the prisoner shall realize that, after passing the minimum limit, the duration depends upon his character and conduct. The conditions of release are not severe requirements; they are such as promote personal welfare, and are of easy performance—every person in fulfilling them helps his own prosperity.

It is the constant and earnest endeavor of the government of the Reformatory to assist the personal efforts of each of its inmates to a wiser, higher, better and more profitable life in the hope that each one will realize, in the fullest and best sense, the promise of the life that now is, as well as that which is to come.

SCHOOL.

Our school opened December 10, 1894, with forty pupils enrolled. There was no school room, the only available room being the dining room, which could be used only half a day. The school was divided into two grades, each grade attending every other day, until November 20, 1895, at which time the new cell house was completed, and one of the buildings formerly used as a bunk house was then remodeled and fitted up for a school room and chapel, for which purpose it is now used. For the first eighteen months, the average daily attendance was twenty-eight. During the past six months it has increased to fifty-seven. There are at present seventy-five pupils enrolled, the average daily attendance for the past month being sixty-eight. The principal studies are reading, writing, spelling and arithmetic, embracing the work of the first eight grades in the public schools. We are greatly hindered in the work by the lack of proper facilities. As there is desk room for only forty-six, the school is divided into two grades, each attending half a day. We are greatly in need of a larger room, more text books, a dictionary, maps, globes, etc. The total number enrolled in the two years is 180, ten per cent. of whom were illiterate. Of the latter class, one has since been paroled, who reports in his own writing, having learned to read and write in this school. The general interest in school work has been good, about 44 per cent. showing a strong desire to learn, and expressing satisfaction that the opportunity to attend school is granted them. About 12 per cent. have had high school advantages of a year or more before coming here. In some cases marked progress has been made, while a large majority show improvement in a greater or less degree. Cases where no perceptible advancement is made are rare.

LIBRARY.

The library, which contains 650 volumes, is a great source of comfort and benefit to the inmates. Although not as large as we would wish it, it contains many good histories, most of the standard novels, and many miscellaneous volumes.

Inmates are furnished with a library catalogue and card.

Books may be taken from the library twice a week.

IMPROVEMENTS.

CELL HOUSE.

Our new cell house, which was erected at a cost of $30,000, contains 104 single cells. Each cell contains one iron cot bed, one table, one stool, one water bucket and cup, one comb and brush. The beds are furnished with mattress and pillows, the sheets are washed once a week, and all bedding taken out and aired. Each cell is lighted by one ten (10) candle power incandescent electric light.

BRIDGE ACROSS THE ARKANSAS RIVER.

The last general assembly appropriated $2,000 for the construction of a bridge across the Arkansas river northeast of the Reformatory, the warden of the Reformatory to have control of the construction of the same.

The bridge, which consists of one deck combination span, 98 feet 6 inches in length, resting on a foundation of steel cylinder piers and two approaches of 50 feet each, is now completed and in use by the public.

The cylinders are filled with cement concrete, and rest on a solid foundation made of concrete. The bridge is a combination wood and iron structure, the material used in its construction being first-class. The total length is 198 feet 6 inches.

The contract for material was awarded The Pueblo Bridge Company, for $2,000, and the said company furnished an experienced man to superintend the work of its construction. The work of its construction was done by inmates of the Reformatory in a very satisfactory manner.

ELECTRIC LIGHT PLANT.

An electric plant, to light the grounds and buildings of this institution, has just been erected and started into operation.

It consists of the following apparatus and equipment:

Two (2) boilers, 60"x16'-0", rated at 80-horse power each.

Two (2) 9"x10" automatic high-speed engines, made by Denver Engineering Works, and rated at 40-horse power each.

Two (2) General Electric 25-kilowatt dynamos, directly connected with engine shaft, and having a capacity of 450 16-candle power 3.1 Watt incandescent lamps each.

One (1) enameled slate switch board, consisting of two (2) generator panels and one (1) feeder panel, the latter containing six (6) switches for controlling six (6) separate feeder circuits.

The line equipment consists of three (3) sets of feeders, viz.:

One supplying arc lights.

One supplying cell house.

One supplying office building, warden's residence, machinery building, school house, prisoners' dining room, laundry and barn.

Fifteen (15) arc lights, suspended in iron standards, with hoods, placed on top of poles, and about 250 incandescent lights will be supplied with current from this plant.

The system used is Edison's three-wire.

HEATING.

At present all the buildings of the institution are heated by stoves and grates, using wood principally for fuel; but since the placing of the new boilers, we have enough surplus steam to heat all the buildings of the institution. Steam heat would be much more satisfactory, as we find it hard to keep the cell house at the proper temperature by the use of stoves. An appropriation of $2,500 would be an ample amount for laying all pipes and furnishing all equipment for steam heat throughout the institution.

TAILOR SHOP.

We have just completed our tailor shop, which is located in what is known as the machine shop, and have started men to work making clothing for the inmates of the institution. We were badly in need of a tailoring department, and the fitting up of the shop fills a long needed want. Heretofore we have bought all our uniforms and underwear of the Colorado State Penitentiary, and the making of our own clothing will not only be a saving to the institution, but will furnish employment to the men, as well as teach them a trade.

SHOE SHOP.

We have also fitted up a shoe shop in the same building as the tailor shop, and although we are at present only half-soling and mending shoes, we expect soon to make all the shoes used in the institution.

The barber shop we have also moved into the same room as the tailor and shoe shops, which makes it convenient, as one overseer can attend to all the different departments. I am much pleased with the work in the different departments for the short time they have been in operation.

LAWNS AND WALKS.

Among the several improvements made within the past year, the laying off and making of walks and lawns, and the grading and leveling of grounds, should also be mentioned, as it has greatly beautified the place, and makes it much more attractive.

The cost per capita of prisoners' subsistence was thirteen cents per day. The provisions used were of good quality, and each prisoner is allowed all he wants to eat. The principal articles of provisions used are beef, pork, flour, corn meal, potatoes, beans, cabbage, tea, coffee, syrup and dried fruits.

Large quantities of vegetables, such as squash, beets, string beans, peas, lettuce, radishes, onions and parsnips are raised on the farm and fed to the prisoners.

As will be seen by the following statement, the total cost for the maintenance of the institution for the two years has been $54,932.50.

This includes not only food and clothing, but every other expense, such as guarding, managing, prison, fuel, medicine, bedding, heating, etc., in fact, everything for the maintenance of the prison. The appropriation made for the past two years was so small, it was impossible for one to run the institution for the two years and keep within the limit of such. You will see by the following statement, we have a deficiency of $8,605.18.

When I was appointed to my present position, December 17, 1895, I found that the balance in the maintenance fund, November 30, 1895, was $17,144, which sum was to be used for the maintenance of the institution for one year. Although I have been as economical as possible, the sum was not sufficient.

The former warden, Mr. McDonald, used out of the $45,000 appropriated $27,850. The total cost of maintenance for the year commencing December 1, 1895, and ending November 30, 1896, including the deficiency was $27,082.50.

The health of the inmates is all that could be desired. Never before in the history of the institution has the health record been as clear as it has been during the past year. I respectfully refer you to the report of our physician, Dr. E. K. Shelton.

In the chaplain, Rev. E. P. Root, I have found a faithful, conscientious man, who has proven himself an active worker in his department, and we feel assured that much good has resulted from his efforts.

In closing, it may be said that the year just passed has been one of prosperity to the Reformatory. The material progress of the institution has been considerable, and we trust that the welfare of all committed to our charge has been promoted.

The results confirm us in the opinion of the practicability of reformatory methods.

To all officers, and particularly to the deputy warden, F. A. Hoyt, I extend my sincere thanks for the efficient manner in which they have performed their duties.

To you, honorable board, I return my personal thanks for the interest you have invariably manifested in the prosperity of the institution, by giving wise counsel and cheerful aid to all plans for its improvement, to which is largely due the success we have achieved.

Your obedient servant,

FRED J. RADFORD,

Warden.

CHAPLAIN'S REPORT.

Colorado State Reformatory,
Buena Vista, Colo., November 30, 1896.

To the Honorable Board of Commissioners:

Gentlemen—The chaplain would submit to you the following report:

Religious services have been regularly conducted in the chapel on Sunday afternoons at 2 o'clock.

Though attendance has not been compulsory, it has been general.

The attention has been as respectful as in ordinary church congregations. With the increasing number of inmates, there is need of a more commodious and convenient chapel, the present room being quite too small.

Such a provision would tend to increase the interest and profit of these services.

The Bibles placed in the cells are read more than one unacquainted with the facts would suppose.

Very likely many read them because they must do something; but in that way some find the Bible, as they have said, "a more interesting book than they thought," and are helped thereby. Some are reminded of the Bible in their room at home.

Most of the inmates enjoy and profit by the books drawn from the library, also the various papers and magazines frequently distributed among them. There are some good thinkers, who enjoy articles of literary merit. Interesting and helpful conversations arise from the reading.

There has been but little sickness in the institution the past year. There have been no deaths. Those who have been ill have been visited, as occasion demanded.

It has been the purpose of the chaplain to become personally acquainted with and to gain the confidence of each inmate, and give him all possible moral and spiritual help. Some have shown marked appreciation, and this endeavor seems not to have been altogether fruitless.

Such an institution as this is almost a little world in itself, needing wise rules and regulations, firm discipline, and kindly help and encouragement to right ways of thinking and living.

The work may seem disappointing and hopeless; but a great deal is accomplished in the restraining influence, if nothing more.

We believe, however, that there are cases of reformation which abundantly compensate such efforts.

The work of Mrs. Hoyt, not only in the school instruction, but in the chapel services and along moral and spiritual lines, has been productive of good, and helpful to the chaplain.

The good effect of the caution against sending the older and more hardened criminals to this institution becomes more apparent day by day.

A less defiant and better spirit seems generally to prevail among the inmates; greater respect for the officers and readiness to obey the rules.

The chaplain appreciates the aid the officers have given him in his work.

In all his associations with the inmates, and in correspondence with their friends, the chaplain has sought to maintain the discipline and high standing of the institution.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWARD P. ROOT,

Chaplain.

PHYSICIAN'S REPORT.

Colorado State Reformatory,
Buena Vista, Colo., November 30, 1896.

To the Honorable Board of Commissioners, Colorado
State Reformatory:

Gentlemen—It becomes my duty to furnish you with a formal report of the medical and sanitary conditions of the Colorado State Reformatory for two years.

The first eleven months of this report is necessarily made from the notes of my predecessor, which shows that, with the exception of a brief run of typhoid fever, of mild form, during the latter part of last summer (1895), there has been no epidemics or serious illness in the institution.

On June 24, 1895, Geo. W. Conway was killed by a guard for insubordination and rioting. At the same time, Geo. Watson was wounded in the arm and thigh for the same offense and attempting to escape. There has been no trouble from that time.

I have the pleasure to be able to report to you that every one in this institution is free from any contagious or infectious disease.

During the last thirteen (13) months there has not been a case of typhoid fever, neither has there been a serious case of sickness, nor death, in the institution.

The freedom of speech and action given the inmates, under the law, causes the physician to use great discretionary power, and yet, while he must attend to necessary conditions, he is often called to prescribe in very trivial cases, which are always given consideration.

The sanitary condition of this institution is all that could be desired.

The water is abundant and of purest quality.

To the out-door work of the inmates, with good, wholesome food in sufficient quantity, is no doubt due their condition of health.

I have examined all stores, cellars and supplies, and find all in first-class condition and of good quality.

I wish to call your attention to the necessity of increased cell room, if prisoners continue to come in as they have in the last year. At the present rate, it will only be a few weeks until all cells are occupied. The perfect sanitary and moral condition of an institution of this kind depend upon isolation.

There is great need of an adequate sewage system about the institution. With the available labor, the cost of a sewer can be brought to an actual expense of conduit, which, if constructed, will greatly lessen the liability to disease and epidemics.

There should be room provided for hospital purposes, as at any time, from accident or sickness, inmates are liable to be seriously in need of attention that could not be given in a common cell.

It is only a matter of a short time until a pharmaceutical laboratory must be added, and in your contemplations of increasing the buildings of the institution, kindly remember the hospital and laboratory.

I wish to thank the warden for his perfect support, and in allowing me every privilege possible, which has assisted me in maintaining a most excellent sanitary condition. He, with his superior corps of officers, could not be more kind or humane, and give better assistance to relief of injuries, prevention of disease or moral influence in any institution of this kind.

I wish to thank your honorable body for the uniform kindness shown me. I remain,

Yours very truly,

E. K. SHELTON, M. D.
