

Phony Contractors May Knock On Your Door

Warmer weather may bring knocks on your door from roofing company representatives who “happen to be in your neighborhood” looking at damaged roofs. After a quick inspection, they convince you that your roof has damage that will likely be covered by your insurance. All you have to do is put in a claim and use the money to get a brand new roof installed -- except you may wait months after you’ve paid the company for work to begin, if it ever does. Not only have you lost the insurance money, but you may also face liens from material suppliers who were never paid, and you might lose your insurance coverage altogether.

Are you really a sweepstakes winner?

Foreign lottery fraud is one of the most malevolent scams targeting older Coloradans today. The scams come from dozens of countries, but many of them originate in Jamaica. It is estimated that more than 90% of lottery scams go unreported because the victims are too embarrassed or ashamed to file a complaint. Any solicitation through the mail, by telephone, or electronically that requires the purchase of any product, or the payment of any fee as a condition to entering or winning a sweepstakes is illegal.

Reporting Fraud Is Important

Every fraud report we receive gives us insights into difficulties that people are experiencing in the marketplace and helps us to identify and prioritize problems for potential action. The result is better outcomes for consumers, businesses, and a better marketplace for Coloradans. If you're uncertain whether fraud has occurred or you're not a victim of fraud but know of something suspicious, we want to hear from you.
