LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

Office of Industrial Commission of Colorado,
State Capitol, Denver,
Dec. 20, 1922.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY,
THE GOVERNOR OF COLORADO,
State Capitol Building,
Denver, Colorado.

Sir: In accordance with the provisions of law creating the Industrial Commission of Colorado, we have the honor to transmit herewith the report of the acts and proceedings of the Commission for the period from December 1, 1921, to December 1, 1922, all of which is submitted for your consideration.

JOSEPH C. BELL, Chairman,
HIRAM E. HILTS,
WM. I. REILLY,

Commissioners.

H. E. CURRAN, Secretary.

STATEMENT

The Workmen's Compensation Act, the State Compensation Insurance Fund, the Industrial Relations Act, and the Colorado Minimum Wage Law are all administered by the Industrial Commission of Colorado.

During the past year the usual activities of this Commission have been greatly hampered by lack of sufficient appropriation to carry out the work contemplated by the various acts above enumerated. No appropriation whatever was made for administering the Minimum Wage Law, except provision for the salary of the Secretary.

The appropriation for traveling and contingent expenses of the Commission for the biennial period ending November 30, 1922, was such that it was compelled to curtail its usual activities in matters involving industrial investigations and hearings in order that it might retain sufficient money, as nearly as it could estimate, for the administration of the Workmen's Compensation Act. Compensation to orphans, widows and injured employes must have the first consideration of this Commission.

The Commission has also been hampered by lack of the necessary help to do the work in the various departments. Upon the adjournment of the last regular session of the legislature, this Commission, instead of getting an increase in the amount of help to carry on the work of the Department, was compelled to discharge an employe for lack of appropriation.

In other words, notwithstanding the steady increase in the work of the Department, this Department, in the administration of the Workmen's Compensation Act and the Industrial Relations Act, has been compelled to make the best showing possible with a lesser number of employes than it heretofore had.

The Commission has been particularly handicapped by lack of an additional Referee and an additional reporter to hold the hearings necessary in compensation matters, to prepare and send out awards, and to give reasonable consideration to the details of the awards. It has been necessary to take employes from other departments and appoint them as Referees to hear cases, resulting in a tying up of the work of the departments from which said employes were taken. It is impractical and absolutely impossible for one Referee to cover the entire state and give the prompt service that the spirit of the Compensation Law demands.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION LAW

The Compensation Law of Colorado has, in the main, proven quite satisfactory, but the Commission realizes that it can be greatly improved in many particulars by distributing its benefits more equitably and by simplifying the method of administration.

The chief aim of any compensation law is speed, and every effort should be made to so simplify the procedure thereunder that benefits will accrue to claimants by the simplest procedure and within the shortest possible time, and the Commission will undoubtedly present to the incoming General Assembly such amendments as it feels under its experience to be proper to attain the above objects and to clarify ambiguities.

This Commission presented to the last regular session of the General Assembly a bill, the most important provisions of which tended to simplify the procedure in compensation cases before this Commission, and to make the law more definite and clear in several particulars. Although the legislature undoubtedly approved of practically all the amendments, yet a controversy arose over two or three provisions affecting the State Compensation Insurance Fund, and the entire bill was defeated by reason of such opposition to one or two sections. The legal questions involved in the discussion before the legislature of these particular sections having now been finally settled by a decision of the Supreme Court, this situation will probably not again arise.

POLICY FORMS

On May 1, 1919, this Commission, under authority of the law then becoming effective, prescribed a standard Colorado form of policy for writing compensation insurance. The Travelers Insurance Company and the Aetna Life Insurance Company disputed the powers of the Commission and the authority of the legislature in granting to the Commission the power to prescribe the form of Workmen's Compensation policy to be used. The issues formed by the controversy that arose finally reached the Supreme Court of this state, which fully sustained in its decision the validity of this law and the power of this Commission.

This controversy has resulted in the holding up of the approval of several hundred agreements between such insurance carriers and the employes of their assured, and it will require considerable litigation, expense and costs to untangle the difficulties resulting from their disobedience of the laws of this state.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION INSURANCE PREMIUM INCOME AND LOSSES, COLORADO

The distribution of premium income and losses paid for Workmen's Compensation Insurance in Colorado since the passage of the law in 1915, is shown in the table on page 7, which divides the total business handled into three groups, namely: Stock companies, mutual companies and the State Compensation Insurance Fund.

A decrease of $157,298.26 in premium income for the year 1921 is to be noted, the stock companies showing a gain while the mutual companies and the State Fund show slight decreases. This decrease as to mutual companies which write principally coal mining risks was, no doubt, due to the decreased payrolls account of a temporary reduction in wages; that as to said Fund it was due principally to a general slump in the metal mining industries in Colorado, and not to a lack of faith by the insuring public in either class of insurance.

An increase of $92,294.51 in the total losses paid, over and above that incurred in 1921 is also shown, which increase is distributed proportionately between the stock companies, the mutual companies and the State Fund. This appears to be normal, as a result of the increasing number of permanent total and fatal claims filed with the Commission each year.

Figures for the year 1922 (*) are not available at the present time. However, the business of the State Compensation Insurance Fund for the first eleven months is included for comparative purposes.

SELF-INSURANCE

The Commission in its discretion may grant any employer who has accepted the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act permission to be his own insurance carrier for the payment of compensation benefits, and has power to prescribe rules and regulations, terms and conditions upon which such permit shall be granted. Such self-insurance permit is subject to revocation by the Commission at any time.

Employers are required to furnish such guaranty and securities, and to set up such reserves as the Commission may from time to time require. The requirements of the Commission are such as to prevent any question arising as to the liability assumed by the employer under such permit not being fully protected and safe-guarded. The Commission has recently passed a resolution that every self-insurance carrier, in addition to the reserves that are set up to cover losses incurred, be required to set up a minimum contingent reserve of at least $5,000.00.

In fixing the requirements as to each employer, particular consideration is given by the Commission to the number of employes, the hazards of the risk, the nature of the business, financial standing of the employer, and the amount of employer's property within the state.

The Commission holds the following indemnity bonds, guaranty funds and reserves:

MEDICAL PLANS AND EX-MEDICAL PERMITS

Section 51 of the Compensation Act provides: "Every employer shall furnish medical, surgical, nursing and hospital treatment, medical and surgical supplies, crutches and apparatus as may reasonably be needed at the time of the injury, and thereafter during disability, but not exceeding sixty days from the date of the accident and $200.00 in value, to cure and relieve from the effects of the injury." And also provides that the employer shall insure such liability unless permission is given to such employer by the Industrial Commission to operate under a medical plan. The Commission has full authority to formulate the terms and conditions under which any medical plan may operate and may at any time withdraw its approval of any medical plan, or order any modifications or changes. The Act expressly prohibits the approval of any plan which relieves the employer from the burden of assuming and paying for any part of the medical, surgical and hospital services and supplies required by the Act.

Approved forms of workmen's compensation insurance policies provide for full medical coverage, but may be endorsed to exclude medical, surgical, etc., when issued to employers operating under an approved medical plan evidenced by an "ex-medical permit" issued by the Commission. Policies issued "ex-medical" are written at a reduced or "ex-medical rate."

Nearly all medical plans include an arrangement whereby both the employer and his employes contribute to the total cost of providing service in cases of accidents arising out of and in the course of employment and in cases of accidents and sickness not covered by the Workmen's Compensation Act. The greater number of plans include medical and surgical care for the families of the employes. Every plan must include provisions for prompt and skillful services, by arrangement with a physician or hospital. Plans differ materially, according to the location of the employer's business, and the conditions surrounding its operation. The greater number of plans provide for a fixed monthly contribution by each employe, which amount is paid to the doctor or hospital, and for which the employe and his family receive the agreed service, and the employer either pays a fixed amount per month per employe for the service required by the Compensation Act, or pays for the service in each individual case on the basis of the medical fee schedule approved by the Commission.

An arrangement including medical and surgical service in cases of accident under the Act and in cases of accident and sickness not under the Act in many instances, by reason of the volume of the practice, justifies a responsible doctor in maintaining an office where it would otherwise be impossible, and the employes receive adequate service at very low rates. The charge to the employes is from sixty-five cents to $2.25 per month, varying according to the location and the services rendered.

A contract with a doctor or hospital for furnishing the service required by the Compensation Act does not relieve the employer from responsibility for the service.

An insurance policy written "ex-medical" does not constitute insurance under the Act unless the employer has a medical plan approved by the Commission. An employer cannot insure part of his liability.

Since May 1, 1922, the Commission has approved 307 medical plans, the approval in each instance being evidenced by the issuance of an "Ex-medical Permit." All permits issued prior to May 1, 1922, have been canceled.

Ex-medical Permits in effect at this time are divided among the following operations:

Coal Mining	130
Metal Mining and Reduction of Ores	81
Public Utilities	20
Miscellaneous	76

LUMP SUM SETTLEMENTS

It is difficult for injured employes who have received an award of the Commission for compensation under the Act to distinguish between such compensation and a judgment for damages in a suit in court. A great many employes regard the award of the Commission as a judgment for so much and feel that they should receive the money at once; whereas, it is the spirit of the law that they should receive compensation as wages and that it should be paid to them in stated installments (monthly) until the entire amount of the award is paid.

Discretion is granted to the Commission, however, upon certain terms and conditions to grant a lump sum settlement when extraordinary conditions arise and it appears to the Commission to be to the best interests of the parties that such lump sum be granted. One of the conditions imposed is a discount of four per cent on the unmatured amount. The Commission feels that a strong showing must be made to it before it assumes to exercise its discretion against the general theory and spirit of the law.

A total of 126 lump sum applications were acted upon by the Commission during 1922, of which 75 applications were granted, and 51 applications denied.

BENEFICIARIES' TRUST DEPOSITS

The Industrial Commission is given power to provide the manner and method of safe-guarding the compensation payments due any dependent whom it may deem incapable of fully protecting his or her own interests, and under such power the Commission in a number of instances has ordered payments, in whole or in part, to be deposited in savings accounts in the names of such beneficiaries, but subject to the exclusive control of the Commission. Such savings accounts pay the usual four per cent interest and are carefully safe-guarded by adequate bonds. The moneys in such deposits are only withdrawn upon the order of the Commission.

The wisdom of such provision is clearly shown in the case of a little girl of the age now of about thirteen years, who was left an orphan and without any close relatives. The Commission required the deposit of the compensation due her in a savings account and refused to make any payments to distant relatives desiring the custody of the child, for reasons that seemed wise to the Commission. After considerable effort, the Commission finally was able to have the child sent to it and she is now placed in a girls' boarding school on such terms that we feel assured that she will be able to continue her education until the age of eighteen years, and at that time, with the training she is now receiving, she should be well able to take care of and provide for her wants and needs thereafter in a manner fitting an educated, cultured young lady. The child seems to be extremely happy in her new surroundings, and we are hoping for results that will more than justify the action of the Commission.

The total number of such accounts to this date is 146, of which 35 were opened during the fiscal year ending November 30, 1922. Eight accounts were closed during the year. The total amount of funds withdrawn during the year under the Commission's order, 21, amounting to the sum of $1,225.37. The total deposits in savings banks to the credit of numerous minor dependents on December 1, 1922, amount to $39,899.54.

STATE COMPENSATION INSURANCE FUND

The volume of compensation premiums written in 1922 in the State of Colorado by all carriers will probably not vary greatly from the volume written in 1921. However, the latter half of this year has shown tendencies which indicate that by 1923 there will be an increase of payrolls in the state with a consequent increase in Workmen's Compensation Insurance premium volume.

The reputation which the State Compensation Insurance Fund has built up in its seven years and more of existence, for complete protection, efficient claim service and reasonable cost, has shown especial results during the past year. Several more of the largest employers of labor in the state have placed their Workmen's Compensation Insurance with the Fund, after a careful investigation of its proposition both from a business and legal standpoint.

The fact that the State Fund is continually writing new and valuable business is indicative of the reputation which it is continually developing throughout the state for ability to handle this form of insurance in an unequaled manner, as the Fund has never been in a position to actively solicit business. The Fund offers a proposition so far superior to that of its competitors, that each year many employers are attracted to it through the gratuitous boosting of the Fund's policyholders.

During the past year the Fund has been working upon a new statistical system for the proper handling of its business, in an effort to determine the losses for each year with relation to the premium income for each year, as well as the losses in each classification, so that it may be in a better position to determine with more accuracy the proper and equitable distribution of cost of insurance among the various employers.

The success which the State Fund has achieved has been largely the result of the efficiency and loyalty of its staff of employes. The position of the Fund in the State Government is unique in that it is the only department of the State Government, not excepting the balance of the Industrial Commission, which has built its reputation in competition with privately owned business. The State Fund has demonstrated the fact that a government agency can give even better service than the majority of privately operated concerns handling the same line of business.

One should not lose sight of the fact, however, that in order to retain its efficiency any concern must, after building up an efficient organization, keep this organization intact if its future performance is going to equal its past. This, of course, can only be done by proper treatment of employes in the form of adequate remuneration and reasonable chances for promotion, based upon the ability of the individual.

Inasmuch as the State Compensation Insurance Fund is merely administered by the State and is not a burden, being on the contrary self-supporting, there would seem to be no just reason why the Fund should not be permitted some flexibility in the matter of its expenses. The present system of naming certain definite positions as well as the maximum salaries for such positions is unnecessarily awkward for a competitive organization. Legislation along these lines can certainly provide safeguards against overloading the expense, as the Fund's ability to compete successfully must always be based upon the fact that it is actually saving its policyholders money by keeping down its cost of operation in comparison with the cost of operation of its competitors.

Last year's report contains mention of the Mandamus Proceedings brought by the Industrial Commission to determine whether the State Treasurer was legally bound to obey the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act in his capacity as custodian of the State Compensation Insurance Fund.

On February 20, 1922, the Supreme Court handed down its decision in which in no uncertain terms it interpreted the provisions of the Act as granting to the Industrial Commission the right to determine when and in what manner the funds of the State Compensation Insurance Fund should be invested, in accordance with the provisions of the law. The Supreme Court held that the State Treasurer was merely custodian of the cash and securities turned over to him by the Industrial Commission.

The State Compensation Insurance Fund suffered a loss of principal and interest of $33,786.07 on account of the State Treasurer's failure to invest certain funds as ordered by the Industrial Commission, which failure was the basis of the Mandamus Proceedings mentioned above. A memorandum showing this loss was prepared by the Fund on March 29, 1922.

On August 16, 1922, proceedings were instituted in the District Court by the Industrial Commission to compel the repayment of this loss by the State Treasurer and his bondsmen. This case is still pending.

The State Fund has been represented without cost in both of these cases by Mr. H. E. Curran, Secretary, and Mr. W. F. Mowry, Referee, of the Industrial Commission. But for their ability and hearty cooperation, it would have been unable to prosecute these matters, as the Fund was not permitted to spend any of its own money to employ counsel.

The fact that it could not possibly have been more ably represented, as indicated by the clearcut decision of the Supreme Court in the Mandamus Proceedings, does not alter the fact that an organization of the financial strength of the State Fund can hardly justify imposing upon men for gratuitous service when these men are not connected with the State Compensation Insurance Fund and are not paid by the Fund, but are giving their full time to other duties connected with the Industrial Commission.

No one can question the truth of the statement that no private organization of the size and importance of the State Compensation Insurance Fund would be expected to operate without some provision for the payment of counsel fees in cases of necessary litigation. This is simply another illustration of the need for flexibility in the method of providing for the payment of necessary expenses incident to the efficient operation of the State Fund.

The assets of the Fund are now more than One and a Quarter Million dollars and the surplus is approximately Five Hundred Thousand dollars. There is probably no insurance organization in the country which has a surplus equal in proportion to its assets to that of the Fund. A considerable impetus should be given to the Fund in a short time by the fact that once the surplus reaches One-Half Million dollars we should be able to distribute a part of the premium income to policyholders which is now being used to build up this surplus.

salary and expense warrants, bearing 4% interest, actually purchased and redeemed and the net amount on hand.

This is the first year that "Expenses of Management" appears for the full year. It will be noticed that this item represents only about 7% of the premiums written, which is an unusually low expense ratio when compared with the expense ratio of the stock companies which average 35% to 40%.

"Total Admitted Assets," and "Surplus over all Liabilities," the growth of the assets and surplus of the Fund is phenomenal, and represents graphic evidence of its success.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION— CLAIM DEPARTMENT

The Compensation Department is responsible for the detail work required in administering the Compensation Law of Colorado. It receives and files all reports required by Law, including first reports of accidents, supplemental reports, physicians' reports, agreements relating to compensation, receipts for compensation payments, claims filed for compensation, final receipts for compensation, lump sum applications, and conducts all hearings relating to compensation claims or agreements.

There have been 96,782 reports of accidents filed since the inception of the Law up to and including November 30, 1922; 24,663 claims for compensation have been filed within the same period of time. This makes an average of 12,500 accidents per year and, approximately, 3,400 claims per year.

Since May 1, 1919, hearings upon all claims have been held by a Referee, whose decision is final, unless a review is sought by either party within the ten days following the Referee's award; in which case the Commission reviews the entire record and in its discretion may take or order the taking of additional testimony and may either affirm the findings and award of the Referee, or may enter new findings and award affirming or reversing the findings and award of the Referee in whole or in part. The Commission may also upon its own motion on the ground of error, mistake or change in conditions review any award and on such review may make such award as the Law may require.

A comparison of the accidents reported for 1922, which were 12,859, as against 13,904 accidents reported in 1921, indicates a slight decrease of accidents for the year; 4,201 claims for compensation were filed in 1922, as against 4,025 such claims in 1921, an increase of 176 claims; 1,316 Referee's awards were entered in 1922, as compared to 1,143 such awards for 1921, an increase of 173 Referee's awards for the year; 428 Commission awards were entered in 1922, as compared to 351 for 1921, an increase of 77 awards for the year; 167 petitions for review were filed in 1922, as against 138 such petitions in 1921, an increase of 29 petitions for the year. Of the petitions filed in 1922, 100 Referee's awards were affirmed by the Commission while 67 were modified or reversed. The total number of all awards issued in 1922, and including lump sum awards, were 1,744 as against 1,494 in 1921, an increase of 250 awards for the current year. Statistics as to the number of hearings held by the Referee are not available for the years 1920 and 1921 and a portion of 1922. Since July 1, 1922, the total number of hearings noted were 678. This number, however, does not take into account the continuances had following the original hearing. It may safely be assumed that the number of hearings held by the Referee is approximately 120 per month.

A detailed statement prepared by the Statistician covering the work of this department will be found beginning on page 146 of this report.

DECISIONS OF INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION CLAIM DEPARTMENT

Commencing on page 29 will be found a digest of all cases alphabetically arranged, which have been decided by the Commission from December 1, 1921, to December 1, 1922, and which include all cases appealed from the Commission to the Courts and which were decided by either the District or Supreme Court during the same period of time. Those decisions which involve new or important questions of law or new rulings upon the construction of the law, as well as applications for lump sum settlements indicative of the policy of the Commission as to the granting or denial of lump sum settlements, are indexed under the headings given below. Routine cases not involving any particular question are not indexed. Each case as digested has been given a consecutive number for the purpose of this report only, and the references under the various headings refer to the index number used in this report.

Index No. 323, Claim No. 21102. Chester T. Evans, Claimant, vs. Henry Riedy, Employer, Respondent.

Questions: Loss of vision. Respondent employer's failure to insure. Threshing crew as farm labor. Accident arising out of and in the course of employment. Facts: Claimant was kicked by a horse while in the barn with the intent of turning his team out to pasture for the night. He was injured after supper. He was employed as a teamster hauling bundles to a threshing machine. He sustained an enucleation of the right eye. Held: It was part of the claimant's duty to care for his team and his duty did not cease until the team was turned out to the pasture for the night. The accident, therefore, arose out of and in the course of employment. The claimant has elected to pursue his remedy under the Workmen's Compensation Act and hauling bundles for a threshing machine may be farm labor in one sense, but cannot be so considered when the claimant was employed on the threshing crew. Award, $9.00 per week for one hundred and thirty-nine weeks or $1,251.00, increased by fifty per cent as provided by Section 27 of the Workmen's Compensation Law or $1,876.50, July 21, 1922.

Questions: Duty of insurer to keep itself advised as to status of claimant. Compensation of widow terminated by re-marriage. One-half of compensation due lapsed by reason of the widow's re-marriage, one-half survived to the minor dependents. The minor's full share becomes under the previous award $1,250.00. The insurers claim credit for an overpayment made to the widow. Held: It is the duty of the insurance carrier to keep itself fully advised as to the status of the dependent and credit for overpayment is therefore denied. Balance of compensation due minor dependent ordered paid the Home Savings and Trust Company, as Trustee, March 17, 1922.

Further hearing ordered for the purpose of receiving further testimony, April 8, 1922. Commission award.

Question: Overpayment by insurance carrier. The Commission is of the opinion that it is the duty of the employers and insurance carriers, under our Compensation Act, to keep themselves fully advised as to the status of dependents in each case and as to their right to receive further compensation payments. All awards entered by the Commission are made subject to this express provision and our view is that compensation payments made under such awards are made subject to this rule. The Commission, however, is of the further opinion that it is the duty of claimants and of respondent employers and of carriers to call to the attention of the Commission such errors as the Commission may make from time to time either in its construction of the laws or its manner and method of computing compensation payments. Respondent insurance carrier ordered to pay forthwith $101.15 in full settlement of compensation. This award substituted for Referee's award of March 17, 1922, June 29, 1922. Commission award.

STATISTICS—WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION DEPARTMENT

The total number of accidents and claims filed with the Workmen's Compensation Claim Department, as well as the Awards entered, have been tabulated on pages 147 and 148, from book records maintained by the Statistical Department, which segregates each year's business into several groupings. Tabulation from such records are necessarily long and tedious and in the main not satisfactory, and in this instance, have been handicapped by lack of clerical assistance.

To compile by hand such accident statistics as are vitally necessary in the administration of the Compensation law would be prohibitive in the number of clerks required and the length of time consumed in doing the work. Because of this the Industrial Commission has no statistical information on accidents such as compiled by other States and recommended by the United States government.

During the past year the Hollerith system of tabulating statistical information by machinery was installed by the Statistician and an attempt made to get the work of tabulation along standard lines under way. This has been only partially successful, due to not having the necessary clerks available, and the work of preparing cards for accidents handled by the Workmen's Compensation Claim Department was temporarily stopped and the clerks used in other departments. However, the records of the State Compensation Insurance Fund are being brought down to date and it is believed the information to be obtained by means of the Hollerith cards will be of much assistance in administering this department.

We now have the necessary equipment and it is hoped that proper provision may be made to carry this work to a successful completion during the coming year.

INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS LAW

The increase in the work of this department in the handling of the Industrial Relations Law is clearly shown by the number of applications made to this Commission thereunder.

From the commencement of the law in 1915 until December 1, 1920, there were filed with this Commission 456 cases. For the year from December 1, 1920, to December 1, 1921, there were 286 cases filed, and from the first of December, 1921, to the first of December, 1922, there were 265 cases filed, making a total of 551 cases filed with this Commission in the two years, as against 456 cases filed during the entire period prior to December 1, 1920.

The beneficial operation of the Industrial Law cannot better be illustrated as a benefit to the people of this state generally than in the recent national coal miners' controversy. In the winter of 1921-1922, by agreement between the coal mine operators and the coal miners of this state, a wage scale was fixed as between said coal operators and their employes. Under the Industrial Law of this state, this wage scale could not be changed without the consent of the parties unless thirty days' notice of such proposed change was given by the parties desiring such change to the other parties thereto and to this Commission. As a result of this salutary provision of the law the coal mines of this state operated at practically full capacity during the entire time of the disastrous coal strike throughout all the other states of the Union. When a settlement was reached between the coal operators and their employes in the other states the coal operators within this state, after thoroughly considering the situation as it was presented to them, made an agreement with their employes to fix a wage scale in this state to correspond with the scale put into effect in the other states, thus automatically the entire coal mine controversy was handled in this state without serious loss of production.

Some idea of the extensive work of this Department will be gained from the epitomized digest of the cases which follows.

Probably seventy-five per cent. of the industrial cases are settled without the necessity of the Commission holding a formal hearing. In the handling of industrial disputes, one of the first moves of the Commission is to suggest and urge an amicable settlement between the employers and employes, inasmuch as the Commission finds that if the parties are able, through conferences or otherwise, to reach an agreement between themselves, such procedure tends to create a much better feeling between the parties, and the settlements so reached are liable to be more permanent than where the controversy drags out through long investigations or hearings. Such procedure also tends to make it easier for the parties to reach future agreements. There is also the saving of the expense of a hearing. In a large number of the cases where formal hearings were held by the Commission and an award entered, the parties accepted the award as rendered by the Commission, or settled upon the basis of the award with few minor changes.

The large amount of preliminary work done by the Commission in securing amicable settlements necessarily does not appear in the records or in the reports, such settlements often being the result of personal conferences, and many such conferences, of which it would be impractical to make permanent records.

As an example of one phase of this work, the Commission will mention a circumstance where a letter was received by the Commission from the Chamber of Commerce of one of the cities of the state, asking advice regarding the handling of a matter relating to the wages of a number of the crafts employed within the city. A member of the Commission visited the city in question, talked to a number of individuals regarding the situation, and, after making a hasty survey of the facts, reported his presence to the Chamber of Commerce. A special meeting of the directors was held and the entire situation discussed. Many suggestions were made, not only by the Commissioner, but by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, and a plan of action was outlined. The matter was not taken up before the Commission by either employers or employes, and they probably did not realize that the Commission was in touch with the situation. Preliminary letters and propaganda were instigated by the Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and the situation was entirely cleared up and settled under the procedure outlined at the conferences between the directors of the Chamber of Commerce and the Commission.

The Commission feels that it is a part of its duty under its conciliatory powers to take part in such settlements, especially when appealed to by civic bodies, even though at the time there is no dispute between the employers and the employes directly interested, but where the general welfare of the community is involved.

The Colorado Industrial Law was enacted in 1915, and has been in operation since that date. It was the first state in the Union to attempt legislation of this kind, and the wisdom of the legislation has been proven by the results obtained from its enforcement, not only prior to, but during the war, and in the reconstruction period that followed.

The Commission is an administrative body, and depends for the enforcement of the provisions of the Industrial Law upon the Governor of the State, the Attorney General, district attorneys, courts and other executive officers of the state, and of the several counties and districts, and credit should be given to such officers for the co-operation they have given the Commission in making the law effective and thereby serving the public and the interests of employes and employers within the state.

The Commission has also found an increasing co-operation from employers and employes in observing the law, which speaks well for the loyalty of Colorado's citizens generally.

The Commission is not unaware of the antagonism of certain classes and individuals who resent the fact that the law interferes with arbitrary action and the putting into effect of some of their ideas without notice to all interested parties.

SUMMARY OF INDUSTRIAL CASES

In cases where there was a notice for a change in wages or hours and after investigation it was found that there was no protest, or in cases where the Commission had held hearings and the demands being very similar it was found that there was no need of a further investigation or a formal hearing, jurisdiction was terminated.

Case No. 707. Victor-American Fuel Co. vs. Employees, September 17, 1921. Notice of reduction in wages contingent on the outcome of the contemplated reduction of the C. F. & I. Co. This company had a wage contract with the United Mine Workers of America which expired April 1, 1922. After reductions were put into effect in several of the coal mines throughout the state, the several local unions voluntarily accepted a reduction in wages by agreement, and upon this information at a hearing held by the Commission jurisdiction was terminated. 1,500 employees, 1 employer.

Cases 708 to 726, inclusive, reported in Fifth Report.

Case No. 727. Photo Engravers Union No. 18 vs. Employer, Denver, November 1, 1921. 50 employees, 1 employer. Notice of new contract and reduction in wages and increase in hours. Hearing was held in which a reduction in wages was granted, hours to remain the same. Employees notified Commission that award was not acceptable.

Case No. 728. Hidden Treasure Mine vs. Employees, Ouray, November 7, 1921. 36 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages settled by mutual agreement.

Case No. 729. Electrical Contractors vs. Employees, Pueblo, November 10, 1921. Notice of reduction in wages. Hearing by Commission, reduction was made and accepted by both employers and employees.

Case No. 730. Cement Finishers vs. Allison Stocker, Denver, November 17, 1921. 2 employees affected by said complaint, 1 employer. Controversy over working agreement. Settlement was reached by conference.

Case No. 731. McElhinney Marble and Tile Co. vs. Employees, Denver, November 18, 1921. 10 employees, 1 employer. This controversy was caused by a jurisdictional dispute between the building crafts. Hearing was held and award ordering the employees back to work, which was finally accepted after a delay of several days.

Case No. 732. Swift and Co. vs. Employees, Denver, November 19, 1921. 450 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Protest was made by officials of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen's Union and case was set for hearing. Before hearing was held employees went on strike and restraining order was issued by the District Court ordering the men back to work pending the hearing and award of the Commission. The employees refused to obey the order of the Court, and several were sent to jail for said disobedience. The Commission held a hearing and the employees did not appear as ordered, and it was necessary to subpoena said employees. The union officials appeared and testified that they had no interest as to the wages paid the employees in the packing plants, neither did they have any interest in the union and the Commission entered their award granting the packers of Denver a similar reduction to that made in packing plants in other states.

Case No. 733. Roberts Mill & Machinery Co. vs. Employees, Denver, November 22, 1921. 6 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages, investigated by Commission and found there was no protest by employees.

Case No. 734. Colorado Packing & Provision Co. vs. Employees, Denver, November 22, 1921. 319 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. See Case No. 732.

Case No. 735. Master Builders Association vs. Employees, Pueblo, November 25, 1921. Notice of reduction in wages. Case was heard and reductions were granted to many of the building crafts. Award not accepted. Settlement was reached at conference on different basis than award of Commission.

Case No. 736. Master Builders vs. Employees, Pueblo, November 26, 1921. Notice of reduction in wages. See Case No. 735.

Case No. 737. Bear Canon Coal Co. vs. Employees, Las Animas Co. November 26, 1921. 30 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. After investigation jurisdiction was terminated.

Case No. 738. Burkhardt Packing & Provision Co. vs. Employees, Denver, November 26, 1921. 10 employees, 1 employer. Complaint was received from the offices of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen's Union No. 641 that this firm had notified their employees that they were going to change the working day from 8 hours to 9 hours at the same wages as they were paying for 8 hours work. The Commission explained the law to Mr. Burkhardt, and he refrained from making any change in conditions.

Case No. 739. Colorado Fuel & Iron Co. vs. Employees, Cameron Mine, Walsenburg, November 26, 1921. 250 employees, 1 employer. At the time of the reduction in wages in several of the C. F. & I. coal mines in Southern Colorado in which the men agreed by petition and through their representative plan to accept said reduction the miners at this mine refused to accept said reduction and went on strike in sympathy with the miners in other mines, notwithstanding the wages had not been reduced. There were some men, however, that appeared for work but not enough to pay the company to continue operations, and the mine was shut down. After some days the major portion of the former employees petitioned the company to resume operations at the reduced wage, and after taking same up with this Commission the mine was reopened. A petition of protest was received shortly after date of opening the mine. At a hearing by the Commission, both parties being notified and no employees appearing at said hearing the Commission terminated jurisdiction.

Case No. 740. American Smelting and Refining Co. vs. Employees, Coke-dale, November 28, 1921. 240 employees, 1 employer. By agreement between employees and employer a reduction in wages was put into effect. Jurisdiction terminated.

Case No. 741. U. S. Zinc Co. vs. Employees, Pueblo, October 24, 1921. Plant was closed for several weeks and resumed operations with a reduction in wages with which the employees were satisfied and made no complaint.

Case No. 742. Sweeney Elec. Co. vs. Employees, Denver, November 28, 1921. 56 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. After investigation it was found that there was no protest of employees.

Case No. 743. Auto Equipment Co. vs. Employees, Denver, November 29, 1921. Notice of reduction in wages. After investigation it was found that there was no protest by employees.

Case No. 744. Temple Fuel Co. vs. Employees, Brodhead, November 30, 1921. 175 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. After investigation it was found that there was no protest by employees. Jurisdiction terminated.

Case No. 745. Denver Sewer Pipe & Clay Co. vs. Employees, Denver, November 30, 1921. 170 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. After investigation it was found that there was no protest by employees.

Case No. 747. Typographical Union No. 175 vs. Employer, Pueblo, December 1, 1921. 40 employees, 1 employer. Notice of increase in wages, the employers and employees being members of national organizations and having by arbitration agreement settled their differences as to wages and hours without the assistance of the Commission, which has been satisfactory.

Case No. 748. Sunnyside Coal Co. vs. Employees, Strong, December 1, 1921. 125 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Jurisdiction terminated.

Case No. 749. Mountain States Packing Co. vs. Employees, Denver, December 1, 1921. 35 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Strike. See Case No. 732. Jurisdiction terminated.

Case No. 750. Photo Engravers No. 18 vs. Denver Post, Denver, December 1, 1921. 6 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages and increase in hours with some slight changes in contract. This case was set for hearing and both sides appeared and notified the Commission that they had been negotiating and expected to reach an agreement. Upon such information the Commission continued the hearing, subject to call and conditions were to remain unchanged.

Case No. 751. McElhinney Marble and Tile Co. vs. Employees, Denver, December 1, 1921. 10 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. By investigation it was found that there was no protest by employees.

Case No. 752. Leader Mine vs. Employees, Rouse, December 1, 1921. 8 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Jurisdiction terminated.

Case No. 769. Canon Reliance Coal Co. vs. Employees, Canon City, December 8, 1921. 375 employees, 1 employer. By agreement between employees and employer a reduction in wages was put into effect. Jurisdiction terminated.

Case No. 770. Eureka Coal Mining Co. vs. Employees, Trinidad, December 8, 1921. 90 employees, 1 employer. By agreement between employees and employer a reduction in wages was put into effect. Jurisdiction terminated.

Case No. 771. Amick Transfer and Storage Co. vs. Employees, Denver, December 9, 1921. 10 employees, 1 employer. An agreement signed by all the employees was filed with the Commission for a reduction in wages.

Case No. 772. Jewel Coal Company vs. Employees, Las Animas County, December 9, 1921. 50 employees, 1 employer. Notice of wage reduction. Case set for hearing and no employees appeared. It was found that the company had a contract with the union that did not expire until April 1. The Commission terminated jurisdiction and stated that although the contemplated reduction was not unreasonable that the employer should enter into an agreement with the employees.

Case No. 773. North Park Coal Co. vs. Employees, Coalmont, December 10, 1921. 75 employees, 1 employer. Complaint was received from employees that the company was going to reduce wages and that no notice had been received by this Commission. The Commission set case for hearing. One employee came to Denver to attend hearing and represent the employees. The Commission made a findings and award and refused reduction.

Case No. 774. Foundrymen's Association vs. Employees, Denver, December 10, 1921. 130 employees, 16 employers. Notice of reduction in wages. Case set for hearing and Commission refused reduction. Dissent by Commissioner Hilts.

Case No. 775. Motion Picture Operators' Union vs. Employer, Denver, December 12, 1921. 2 employees, 1 employer. Complaint was received that employer had reduced wages without giving the required thirty days' notice.

Case was set for hearing and the employer appeared but no employees. Upon information received from employer it was found that there were but two employees affected and the Commission had no jurisdiction.

Case No. 776. The Jewel Coal Co. vs. Employees, Las Animas County, December 12, 1921. A strike occurred at this mine after the superintendent discharged three employees. A contract between employer and employees existed and in said contract it was stipulated that where a dispute arose that both parties to the controversy were to select an umpire and the decision would be binding, and upon investigation by the Commission it was found that the cause of the trouble was that they could not agree upon said umpire. The Commission called both sides together and upon the suggestion that the Commission would select the umpire as soon as possible the men went back to work and Judge Schaeffer of Colorado Springs was selected and his decision was final.

Case No. 777. Castle Coal Co. vs. Employees, Huerfano County, December 13, 1921. 13 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. There was a mutual agreement reached between employer and employees and the Commission so notified.

Case No. 778. Pikes Peak Cons. Fuel Co. vs. Employees, Colorado Springs, December 14, 1921. 160 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Protest by employees. Commission held hearing and made findings and award granting reduction. A representative from the employees notified Commission that they would not accept award but there was no strike and no trouble following.

Case No. 829. Rocky Mountain Fuel Co. vs. Employees, Vulcan Mine, January 16, 1922. 64 employees, 1 employer. Same as Case No. 820.

Case No. 830. Routt Pinnacle Coal Co. vs. Employees, Coalview, January 11, 1922. 31 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages, no protest from employees. Commission terminated jurisdiction.

Case No. 831. Boulder Valley Coal Co. vs. Employees, Boulder, January 23, 1922. 85 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. No protest from employees, Commission terminated jurisdiction.

Case No. 832. Merchant Tailors Association vs. Members of Journeymen Tailors Union, Denver, January 23, 1922. 200 employees, 15 employers. Notice of termination of working agreement. After investigation it was decided to set case for hearing as a change in wages and hours was contemplated. Some of the employers testified that they were going back to a piece work basis and others wished a ten per cent reduction on the weekly scale basis. All wanted a longer working day than eight hours. The Commission denied a longer working day until time and one-half was paid for all time worked over eight hours, and a ten per cent reduction in wages on the weekly basis.

Case No. 833. Engineers Leasing Co. vs. Employees, Cambro Mine, January 24, 1922. 30 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages, no protest was received and Commission terminated jurisdiction. This mine had been closed down for several months and their former employes had gone elsewhere to work. The company wished to resume operations on the 1918 wage scale that had been put into effect and accepted by the greater part of the mines in the state.

Case No. 834. Grand Junction Mining and Fuel Co. vs. Employees, Sterling Mine, January 24, 1922. 100 employes, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. No protest was received and Commission terminated jurisdiction. The men waited until the thirty days expired and the company changed the wages and then went on strike against the reduction.

Case No. 848. Palisade Coal and Supply Co. vs. Employees, Palisade, January 27, 1922. 61 employes, 1 employer. No protest was received. Commission terminated jurisdiction.

Case No. 849. Downtown Mines Co. vs. Employees, Leadville, January 28, 1922. See Case No. 836.

Case No. 850. Yale Laundry Co. vs. Employees, Denver, January 28, 1922. 35 employes, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. By investigation it was found that there were only four employes affected by said change, and that there was no protest by any of the employes affected.

Case No. 851. Morning Star Mine vs. Employees, Durango, January 24, 1922. 8 employes, 2 employers. Letter was received from the employers that they attempted to reach an agreement with their employes and that there was one man protested. Consequently, they were sending the required notice to the Commission. After some correspondence, the Commission was notified that satisfactory agreement was reached and jurisdiction was terminated.

Case No. 852. Rapson Coal Mining Co. vs. Employees, Colorado Springs, January 28, 1922. 50 employes, 1 employer. Wage agreement was filed with Commission and jurisdiction was terminated.

Case No. 853. Shwayder Trunk Co. vs. Employees, Denver, January 28, 1922. 75 employes, 1 employer. Complaint was received that reduction in wages was put into effect without notice. After some investigation, Commission set case for hearing. The Commission being unable to get any further information, did not feel that the complaint was justified, and terminated jurisdiction.

Case No. 854. City Coal Mining Co. vs. Employees, Colorado Springs, January 28, 1922. Notice of reduction in wages. A contract existed between employees and employer that did not expire until April 1, 1922. The Commission was notified that a settlement was agreed upon between the union and the employer, and jurisdiction was terminated.

Case No. 855. Valley View Leasing Co. vs. Employees, Ames, January 30, 1922. See Case No. 836.

Case No. 856. Tomboy Gold Mines Co. vs. Employees, Telluride, January 30, 1922. 200 employees, 1 employer. See Case No. 836.

Case No. 858. Clayton Coal Co. vs. Employees, Clayton, January 30, 1922. 40 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages, committee of employees filed a protest against said reduction. The Commission at this time had held numerous hearings involving the question of reduction in wages of coal miners, and did not feel that it would be to the best interests of the general public to hold further hearings where the same questions were involved. Jurisdiction was terminated.

Case No. 859. United Collieries Co. vs. Employees, Monroe Mine, January 30, 1922. 50 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. This case is similar to Case No. 858.

Case No. 860. Hesperus Fuel Co. vs. Employees, Hesperus, January 31, 1922. 50 employees, 1 employer. An agreement signed by the employees was filed with the Commission and jurisdiction was terminated.

Case No. 861. Smuggler Leasing Co. vs. Employees, Aspen, January 31, 1922. 26 employees, 1 employer. See Case No. 836.

Case No. 862. J. D. Best Co. vs. Employees, Denver, January 31, 1922. 10 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. After investigation, and finding no protest, the Commission terminated jurisdiction.

Case No. 863. Retail Butcher and Grocers Association vs. Employees, Pueblo, January 31, 1922. Notice of expiration of contract existing between members of the Association and the Butcher Workmen's Union. There was no demand in the notice to this Commission for a change in hours, wages or working conditions, and the Commission notified said employers that if they contemplated making any change, that they must so notify the employees and this Commission thirty days in advance. No further communication was received.

Case No. 864. Town of Peetz vs. Employees, Peetz, January 31, 1922. Notice of wage reduction. There was only one employee affected by said contemplated change, and the Commission had no jurisdiction.

Case No. 865. Atlas Mining and Milling Co. vs. Employees, Sneffels, February 1, 1922. 85 employees, 1 employer. See Case No. 836.

Case No. 866. Welch-Worland vs. Employees, Ouray, February 1, 1922. 25 employees, 1 employer. See Case No. 836.

Case No. 867. King Investment Co. vs. Employees, Pueblo, February 1, 1922. 20 employees, 1 employer. Complaint was received that employer had called his employees together and notified them that he was going to put a reduction in wages into effect immediately, and that if the employees did not wish to accept they could get their time. The Commission immediately got in touch with the employers and called their attention to the law, and then notified the firm by wire and letter to reinstate previous conditions and give the required thirty days' notice. Same was complied with, and at the expiration of the thirty days the Commission, having already heard the case of the building trades of Pueblo, which in the past had also decided the case of the inside carpenters, terminated jurisdiction.

Case No. 868. Newton Lumber Co. vs. Employees, Pueblo, February 1, 1922. 20 employees, 1 employer. This case was handled at the same time and in the same manner as Case No. 867.

Case No. 869. Boulder Pressed Brick and Lumber Co. vs. Employees, Boulder, February 1, 1922. Notice of reduction in wages. Upon investigation it was found that there was only one employee affected, and the Commission had no jurisdiction.

Case No. 870. Henriett Mines vs. Employees, Leadville, February 2, 1922. See Case No. 836.

Case No. 871. American Smelting and Refining Co. vs. Employees, San Juan Mine, February 3, 1922. 23 employees, 1 employer. Reduction was agreed upon between employees and employer, and Commission was so notified and jurisdiction was terminated.

Case No. 872. Sam Weintraub vs. Employees, Denver, February 3, 1922. 20 employees, 1 employer. Notice that contract expired and reduction in wages was contemplated. Case was set for hearing and employer failed to appear.

He was called upon the telephone and he stated that he wished to withdraw the case and wrote a letter to that effect, which was accepted by the Commission.

Case No. 873. Gladstone Mines Co. vs. Employees, Buena Vista, February 4, 1922. 15 employees, 1 employer. See Case No. 836.

Case No. 874. Shamrock Coal Mine vs. Employees, Erie, February 4, 1922. 50 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Similar to Case No. 858.

Case No. 875. Dillon Coal Co. vs. Employees, Eureka Mine, February 7, 1922. 9 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Demands withdrawn. Property changed hands. New owner does not care to reduce wages at this time.

Case No. 876. Colfax Pressed Brick Co. vs. Employees, Denver, February 9, 1922. 25 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. After investigation and finding no protest, case was closed.

Case No. 877. Rocky Mountain Fuel Co. vs. Employees, Grant Mine, February 16, 1922. This mine had been closed down for several weeks and the employees signed a petition to accept the 1918 wage scale with the hope that the company would resume operations. The company failed to open the mine until some weeks after the petition was signed, due to lack of orders.

Case No. 878. Ibox Mining Company vs. Employees, Leadville, February 10, 1922. 73 employees, 1 employer. See Case No. 836.

Case No. 879. Schaefer Tent Co. vs. Employees, Denver, February 20, 1922. 24 employees, 1 employer. Notice of change in overtime rate from time and one-half to time and one-fourth. The employees did not wish to protest as the rate previously had been time and one-fourth for over-time.

Case No. 880. Western Newspaper Union vs. Printing Pressmen's Union No. 40, Denver, January 20, 1922. New contract was agreed upon whereby the employees accepted a reduction in wages equivalent to four hours' pay per week.

Case No. 881. Radium Company of Colorado vs. Employees, Denver, February 20, 1922. 18 employees, 1 employer. Notice of a change in the rate charged for board. Upon investigation it was found that the company wished to increase the board from $1.00 to $1.25 a day in lieu of a reduction in wages. The employees made no protest.

Case No. 882. Cortellini & Co. vs. Employees, Leadville, February 21, 1922. See Case No. 836.

Case No. 883. Tritch Hardware Co., Denver, February 21, 1922. Complaint was received in February that the above company had changed working conditions from an eight hour day to a nine hour day in October. Upon investigation, it was found that the party who entered the complaint was a former employee and had a personal grievance, and that there was a change agreed upon between employer and employees whereby the men were to work nine hours for the first five days in the week, and four hours on Saturday. There was on justification for complaint.

Case No. 884. Fox Coal Mining Co. vs. Employees, Gorham, February 23, 1922. Complaint was received by a committee representing the men that after they had signed a petition to accept a reduction in wages to the 1918 scale, that the company was paying less than the scale that existed at that time and also that the company wished to pay for coal that was already mined and in the cars at the time that the agreement was reached at the reduced scale. The Commission set the case for hearing and found that the company was paying the 1918 scale as agreed upon, but ordered the company to pay the old scale for all coal mined upon and including the day that the petition was signed and agreed upon.

Case No. 885. Boulder Black Diamond Coal Co. vs. Employees, Boulder, February 23, 1922. This case was very similar to Case No. 884, and was set for hearing and handled at the same time and in the same manner as the preceding case.

Case No. 886. Granite Cutters' Union vs. Employers, Denver, February 24, 1922. 90 employees, 20 employers. Notice of the expiration of contract and a copy of the contemplated contract received. After investigation, the Commission set this case for hearing, but on the date of the hearing, a communication was received signed by committees from the employers and the employees that an agreement had been reached whereby the whole contract was to continue unchanged for another year.

Case No. 887. Master Granite Cutters' Association vs. Employees, February 28, 1922. Denver. 20 employees, 6 employers. Notice of a reduction in wages. This case was investigated at the same time as the previous case, and set for hearing on the same date. Before the date of the hearing arrived, a communication was received signed by committees representing the employers and employees, whereby an agreement was reached, the employees accepting their reduction in wages from $9.00 a day to $8.00 a day.

Case No. 888. Kokomo-Recen Mining and Dredging Company vs. Employees, February 28, 1922. 2 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. By investigation it was found that there were only 2 employees involved, and they were willing to accept said reduction. Commission had no jurisdiction.

Case No. 889. Canon-Reliance Coal Co. vs. Employees, Canon City, March 1, 1922. Information was received that a dispute arose as to the pay for the bottom dirt in the mine and at the time of reduction in wages put into effect at a prior date, the men did not receive pay for such work. Men went on strike and the case was submitted to the District Attorney of said district and an investigation was made with the idea of instituting proceedings against said employees. Before any action was taken in the court, the employees who caused the trouble left camp and the operator of said mine advised that the case be dropped. The men returned to work.

Case No. 890. Acme Mine vs. Employees, Louisville, March 2, 1922. The Commission received a letter evidently from a committee of employees stating they reserved the right to suspend work April 1, 1922, if the operators refused to pay the same scale as the central competitive fields. The Commission immediately requested the committee to give further and definite information, informing them that the letter was too indefinite to be regarded as a demand or notice under the law. The committee failed to act further. Letters referring to the coal situation were written to the Attorney General and the District Attorneys in the districts where coal mines are operated.

Case No. 891. Mountain Top Mining Company vs. Employees, Ouray, March 21, 1922. Notice of reduction in wages. Commission set this case for hearing along with several other metal mining cases, and notified the employees by having a notice posted in conspicuous places about the mines. There was no protest entered by the employees before or at said hearing, and after said hearing a reduction of approximately 25 cents a day was put into effect in several of the metal mining camps in the state and accepted by all employees as far as any information that we have.

Case No. 892. Nevin Candy Co. vs. Employees, Denver, March 2, 1922. 70 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. By investigation of Commission it was found that the employees were willing to accept a reduction without a protest.

Case No. 900. U. M. W. of A. No. 3051, Mt. Harris, March 8, 1922. Letter received by Commission. See Case No. 890.

Case No. 901. Golden Fire Brick Co. vs. Employees, Golden, March 15, 1922. 40 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Investigation was made and no protest was entered. Letter was received near the expiration of thirty days withdrawing the demands.

Case No. 902. J. P. Kennedy vs. North Park Coal Co., March 16, 1922. The Commission held a hearing some time prior to this date on an application for a reduction in wages, and disallowed said reduction in award. The company notwithstanding said award, put said reduction into effect. Mr Kennedy came to the office some time later and entered a complaint that his wages had been reduced before the award of the Commission. The Commission wrote the company in regard to this case and later received a letter from Mr. Kennedy that he had received the wages due.

Case No. 903. Garfield Coal Mining Co. vs. Employees, Palisade. Letter was received by Commission. See Case No. 890.

Case No. 904. Typographical Union No. 292 vs. Employers, Grand Junction, March 24, 1922. 14 employees, 2 employers. Notice of increase in wages. After several conferences between employers and a committee representing the employees, satisfactory settlement was agreed upon, the employees receiving an increase in wages.

Case No. 905. Du Pont Powder Co. vs. Employees, Louviers, March 24, 1922. 80 employees, 1 employer. Notice of a reduction in wages. Investigation was made by Commission and finding no protest from employees, jurisdiction was terminated.

Case No. 906. St. Paul Market Co. vs. Employees, Denver, March 24, 1922. 4 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. After an investigation by Commission, the employer withdrew notice and conditions were to remain the same until such time as the employer or employees demanded a change and the Commission was properly notified.

Case No. 907. Window and Housecleaners Union vs. Employers, Denver, March 28, 1922. 25 employees, 2 employers. Notice of increase in wages and change in working conditions. After failing to get both sides together in a conference, the case was set for hearing and the award denying an increase and ordering conditions as to wages to remain the same was complied with by both employer and employees.

Case No. 908. American Brake Shoe and Foundry Co. vs. Employees, Denver, April 1, 1922. 31 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. After investigation and finding no protest, jurisdiction was terminated.

Case No. 909. Bakers and Confectionery Workers Union No. 26 vs. Employers, Denver, April 3, 1922. Notice of a new wage agreement which involved several changes from prior working agreement. After investigation, it was found that the members of the union did not wish to insist on said changes, and were willing to continue under the old agreement, and case was withdrawn.

Case No. 910. Empire Zinc Co. vs. Employees, Gilman, March 28, 1922. 117 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. After investigation and finding no protest, jurisdiction was terminated.

Case No. 911. Boulder Brick Company vs. Employees, Boulder, April 8, 1922. 11 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. After investigation and finding no protest, jurisdiction was terminated.

Case No. 912. Stereotypers and Electrotypers Union No. 13 vs. Employers, Denver, April 11, 1922. 22 employees, 3 employers. This case involved the stereotypers and electrotypers on the Denver daily newspapers. Several conferences were held between the representatives of the employers and employees, and failing to reach satisfactory settlement, the Commission was requested by both parties to assume jurisdiction and hold a hearing. The Commission set the case for hearing and when all parties appeared, the Commission advised that they make another attempt at getting together before taking evidence. This time they were successful in coming to a satisfactory agreement, the employees receiving a slight reduction in wages.

Case No. 913. Cooks' Association vs. Employers, Denver, April 17, 1922. An agreement signed by employers and employees and dated to expire one year from this date was filed with Commission.

Case No. 914. Colorado Springs Street Railway Company vs. Employer, Colorado Springs, April 18, 1922. 165 employees, 1 employer. Verbal notice was given to the Commission that the employer had asked the employees to accept a reduction in wages. Representatives of the employees requested a conference with members of the Commission, and after said conference in which several questions were answered in regard to reductions, a mutual agreement was reached and the required reduction was accepted by the employees.

Case No. 915. Case Brothers Grocery Co. vs. Employees, Pueblo, April 20, 1922. 4 employees, 1 employer. Notice of a reduction in wages. After a conference with a member of the Commission, the employer decided to withdraw demands.

Case No. 916. San Juan County Mines vs. Employees, Silverton, April 20, 1922. 15 employees, 2 employers. Notice of reduction in wages. After investigating and finding no protest, jurisdiction was terminated.

Case No. 917. Hallack and Howard Lumber Co. vs. Employees, Denver, May 25, 1922. 12 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. After failing at conferences to reach an agreement, the Commission set case for hearing, made their findings, and an award granting a slight reduction to a portion of the employees was entered. Dissent by Commissioner Hilts.

Case No. 918. Electrical Contractors vs. Employees, Colorado Springs, May 29, 1922. Wage agreement entered into between employers and employees was submitted to the Commission.

Case No. 919. Blue River Placer Mining Co. vs. Employees, Breckenridge, June 9, 1922. Notice of a reduction in wages. Hearing no protest from employees, case was closed.

Case No. 920. Magnus Metal Co. vs. Employees, Denver, June 16, 1922. 6 employees, 1 employer. Notice of a reduction in wages. After several conferences and failing to reach an agreement, the Commission set case for hearing and made their findings and award granting a slight reduction.

Case No. 921. Swift & Co. vs. Employees, Denver, June 16, 1922. 300 employees, 1 employer. Notice of change in hours of employment. By investigation it was found that the employees, through their representative plan, decided to accept the change without protest.

Case No. 922. John Cortellini vs. Employees, Aspen, June 17, 1922. 11 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Hearing no protest from the employees, case closed.

Case No. 924. Window Washers' Union vs. Employers, Denver, July 3, 1922. Notice of change in contract. Complaint was entered by representative of the union to the effect that this firm had changed conditions as to wages and were not complying with the Workmen's Compensation Act. Hearing was held and it was found that the complaint as to wages was not justified, as no employees were reduced but that employer attempted to employ a former employee and a member of the union at a less wage. It was found, however, that the employer was not carrying compensation insurance, and the Attorney General was asked to enjoin said firm from continuing in business until the law was complied with. Jurisdiction was terminated.

Case No. 925. U. S. Radium Co. vs. Employees, Naturita, July 28, 1922. 5 employees, 1 employer. Notice of reduction in wages. Hearing no protest from the employees, jurisdiction was terminated.

Case No. 930. Griffin Wheel Co. vs. Employees, Denver, August 18, 1922. 11 employees, 1 employer. Notice was received from the company of their intention to increase a few of their employees, which was satisfactory to those involved.

Case No. 931. Moving Picture Operators Union No. 230 vs. Employers, Denver, August 18, 1922. 20 employees, 11 employers. Notice of renewal of contract and a change in wages. By mutual agreement the contract was renewed which involved a slight decrease in wages.

Case No. 932. Colorado Fuel and Iron Co. vs. Employees, Southern Colorado field, August 31, 1922. 2,832 employees, 1 employer. Notice of wage increase which was followed by an agreement signed by the employees and submitted to the Commission. This decision to increase the wages of the coal miners by this company and almost all of the companies in this state was decided upon after the conference held in Cleveland between some of the large coal operators and the officials of the United Mine Workers of America, which was the basis for the settlement of the nation-wide coal strike. Although the coal mines in this state were working at approximately thirty per cent. reduction in wages and claimed to have sufficient coal miners at work, they were fearful of their miners going to other states on account of the larger scale. Hence the decision for entering into an agreement for the increase, putting the coal miners' wages back to the peak wage or a wage far in advance of the wage during the war. There being no dispute between the operators and the miners, the Commission terminated jurisdiction. Dismissed by Commissioner Hilts.

Case No. 933. Sunland Coal Co. vs. Employees, Louisville, August 31, 1922. 20 employees, 1 employer. See Case No. 932.

The Commission received a communication signed by the employees demanding a 50 cent a day increase in wages. Later the company notified the Commission that the demands were granted and same was approved by the Commission.

Case No. 1010. Juanita Coal and Coke Co. vs. Employees, Bowie, November 8, 1922. The Commission was notified that the men ceased work of their own accord without notice of any kind. The Commission made an investigation and found that an employee had been discharged and all employees refused to work until this man was reinstated. The company refused to re-employ the man, and told the employees that when they got ready to come back to work they would come back as new employees. The following morning after the conference approximately two-thirds of the men involved applied for work and were reinstated. The balance received their pay.

Case No. 1011. Typographical Union No. 175 vs. Employers, Pueblo, November 29, 1922. 30 employees, 2 employers. Notice of expiration of contract. This case was not disposed of.

CHANGES IN THE COST OF LIVING DENVER, COLORADO

Detailed information covering the original investigation as to the minimum or comfort level budget necessary for the theoretical family of five, consisting of the so-called "wage earner," the mother and three children of school age, has been given in former reports of this Commission.

The index level as given in this report has been maintained by totaling the current prices of the individual items composing the budget, the retail prices of which have been gathered from the same source at weekly or monthly intervals. The charts and tables have been continued to include December, 1922, comparing prices of that date with those of January, 1914, and with the data given it is possible to make comparisons of changes between any given dates.

Table I, "Comparative Yearly Totals," is more readily interpreted by graphic chart "A", which shows the rise and fall of prices at semi-annual periods, while the curve as shown in graphic chart "B" pictures more readily to the eye the changes in cost of the family budget, and the trend in the cost of the food budget than do the index numbers given in Table II.

It will be noted, that from the beginning of the studies in 1914 there was, with an occasional exception, a steady increase in prices until June-July, 1920, when the so-called "peak" was reached. Reductions in the prices of food commodities and clothing had a tendency to decrease the total cost of living gradually until June, 1921, since which date the index level has, with slight upward or downward fluctuations, remained practically the same.

The gigantic building program which Denver is experiencing has merely had a tendency to make rent charges stationary and no reductions are to be expected for some time to come, as Denver is enjoying a rapid growth in population.

Clothing prices have traveled upward during the past year as a result of curtailed production of wool and cotton in the United States.

Coal prices have remained practically the same during the twelve months covered by 1922, due possibly to the close proximity of our city to the producing mines of Colorado.

Comparing prices of December, 1922, with those of a year ago, as measured by changes in the index numbers, an increase of only .6 per cent is shown for the year.

MINIMUM WAGE LAW FOR WOMEN AND MINORS

Colorado has what is generally termed a "Minimum Wage Law." This law, up to the present time, has been practically a dead letter by reason of the fact that no appropriation has been made for carrying out its provisions, except that provision is made for the payment of the salary of a secretary. Without the proper appropriation to carry on the work contemplated by the Act, it is impossible to make the law effective, and this Commission has been criticised for a situation which it could neither remedy nor prevent. The Commission has not had a sufficient appropriation to properly carry on its work under the Compensation Law and the Industrial Relations Law, and has not been able to divert any of the appropriation for such purposes to the Minimum Wage Department. The Commission has recommended to the Legislature the providing of a sufficient appropriation to make the Minimum Wage Law effective.
