- Leverage current leaders and efforts to build a sustainable foundation
- Action items evolve as your community needs change

Accessible

- Start small based on capacity, and then work through an incremental process
- Support and trainings are available at every step along the way

Holistic

- Align community assets, volunteers, and support to work toward a common goal
- Ongoing series of initiatives builds community support and create lasting progress
- A full suite of support services to revitalize your downtown

The Colorado Department of Local Affairs (DOLA) manages the Colorado Main Street program, which is partially funded by a grant from History Colorado, the State Historical Fund. The mission of the Colorado Main Street program is to coordinate resources and technical assistance for communities seeking to revitalize their historic downtown commercial districts based on their unique needs. DOLA requires all potential candidates to submit an application. The Main Street Advisory Board reviews the applications and the Executive Director of the Department of Local Affairs considers feedback from the Advisory Board and Colorado Main Street staff to select new Candidate Main Street communities.

HISTORY OF THE MAIN STREET PROGRAM

Concerned about continuing threats to Main Streets' commercial architecture and aware of the need to stimulate economic activity in small-city downtowns, the National Trust for Historic Preservation launched a community demonstration project (1977-1980) that resulted in the creation of the Main Street Four-Point Approach[®] and establishment of the National Main Street Center in Washington, D.C.

Main Street is a national program that has spanned three decades and taken root in more than 1,600 communities - a movement that has spurred more than $79 billion in reinvestment in traditional commercial districts, generated an average of $26.49 locally for each public dollar invested, led to a net gain of 143,613 new businesses, 640,017 new jobs, and 284,935 building rehabilitations, galvanized thousands of volunteers, and changed the way governments, planners, and developers view preservation.

COLORADO MAIN STREET HISTORY

Colorado was selected by the National Main Street Center for a state pilot Main Street project from 1982 to 1985. Delta, Durango, Grand Junction, Manitou Springs and Sterling were Colorado's Main Street communities in the initial program. DOLA administered this three-year pilot program.

Although the Main Street approach to downtown revitalization proved very successful in Colorado, the state discontinued the program after completing the three-year pilot project. Several communities continued to implement Main Street and downtown revitalization programs without the benefit of a statewide coordinating program, while other local programs were discontinued.

Between 2000 and 2010, Downtown Colorado Inc. administered the Colorado Main Street program with a grant from the State Historical Fund of the Colorado Historical Society.

In 2011, DOLA once again became the administrator of the program with a generous grant from the History Colorado State Historical Fund. Because of the emphasis on historic preservation and the impact the program has had in revitalizing Colorado's historic downtowns, the State Historical Fund continues to generously support the Colorado Main Street Program.

HOW MAIN STREET GETS RESULTS

MAIN STREET FOUR-POINT APPROACH®

ORGANIZATION gets everyone working toward the same goal and assembles the appropriate human and financial resources to implement a Main Street revitalization program.

- A governing board, volunteers, and specific project committees for a volunteer-driven program.
- A paid Main Street Manager supports and coordinates volunteers, dividing the workload and delineating responsibilities, which builds consensus and cooperation among stakeholders.

PROMOTION sells a positive image of the commercial district and encourages consumers and investors to live, work, shop, play, and invest in the Main Street district.

- Market unique characteristics (through advertising, media relations, retail promotional activity, special events and marketing campaigns) with an effective promotional strategy forges a positive image.
- Improve consumer confidence and encourage commercial activity and investment by identifying and appealing to market niches.

DESIGN puts Main Street into top physical shape.

- Capitalize on assets — such as historic buildings and pedestrian-oriented streets.
- Create an inviting atmosphere (attractive window displays, well-managed parking areas, building improvements, street furniture, signs, sidewalks, lights and landscaping)
- Instill good maintenance practices
- Enhance the physical appearance by rehabilitating historic buildings, encouraging appropriate new construction, developing sensible design management systems, and long-term planning.

ECONOMIC VITALITY strengthens a community's existing economic assets while expanding and diversifying its economic base to create jobs and to respond to today's consumers' needs, and to boost the profitability and sales tax revenue of the district.

- Sharpen competitiveness of existing business owners
- Foster entrepreneurial start-ups and expansions
- Recruit compatible new businesses and new economic uses.
- Convert unused or underused commercial space into economically productive property.

GUIDING PRINCIPLES

Comprehensive: A single project cannot revitalize a downtown. An ongoing series of initiatives is vital to build community support and create lasting progress.

Incremental: Small projects make a big difference. They demonstrate that “things are happening” and hone the skills and confidence the program will need to tackle more complex problems.

Self-Help: Only local leadership can initiate long-term success by fostering and demonstrating community involvement and commitment to the revitalization effort.

Public/Private Partnerships: The support and expertise of both the public and private sector is necessary for an effective program.

Capitalizing on Existing Assets: Recognizing and making the best use of unique offerings provide the solid foundation for a successful program.

Quality: From storefront design to promotional campaigns to special events, quality must always be the main goal.

Change: Changing community attitudes and habits is essential for success. A carefully planned Main Street program will shift public perceptions and practices to support and sustain the revitalization process.

Action-Oriented: Frequent, visible changes in the look and activities of the downtown will reinforce the perception of positive change. Small but dramatic improvements show that the revitalization effort is underway.

MAIN STREET COMMUNITY TRANSFORMATION STRATEGIES

Each local Main Street program, in close partnership with community organizations and municipalities, will help develop a set of Community Transformation Strategies connected to long-term change based on the community vision and an understanding of the market, and should lead to outcomes both quantitative and qualitative.

These strategies unite the Four Points of Organization, Design, Promotion, and Economic Vitality. With transformational strategies in place, the Main Street organization can assess what activities, resources, and people-power will be necessary to bring them to life with the Four Points. Progress will be measured by economic metrics and quality outcomes, which will allow more flexibility in the organizational model of the local Main Street program and the efforts of community revitalization.

For example, a community may decide that it wants to capitalize on its agricultural heritage. As a transformational strategy, that Main Street may work with local restaurants to develop farm-to-table concepts (Organization), create events such as an antique tractor show and sugar beet bowling (Promotion), and build a community garden in downtown (Design).

COMMUNITY VISIONING

Visioning should be a community driven process that brings stakeholders from all sectors together, inviting them to be proactive participants in the revitalization process. This can provide a foundation for outlining the community's own identity, expectations, and ideals while identifying perceptions, needs and opportunities.

COMMUNITY TRANSFORMATION STRATEGY

Typically, communities will find two or three Community Transformation Strategies are needed to help reach a community vision. Some Strategies may be more easily achievable in the short-term, while others are more aspirational and will require long-term, dedicated effort. The work within any strategy would integrate the Four Points (Organization, Economic Vitality, Promotion, Design).

IMPLEMENTATION AND MEASURE

To succeed, a Main Street program must show visible results that can only come from completing projects. Short- and long- term activities should add up to meaningful change. A Main Street program should be able to demonstrate wise use of resources, which translate to real change on the ground. New jobs added, new businesses opened, and buildings being rehabilitated are examples of metrics of success. Any strategy should be thought of as a way to support the community's vision with meaningful, measurable outcomes (not outputs).

BENEFITS OF THE MAIN STREET APPROACH

The Colorado Main Street program is customizable, accessible, and holistic. Communities in the program who practice the Main Street Four-Point Approach® and embrace the eight principles reap benefits.

LOCAL JOBS. Frequently, downtown as a whole is the second or third largest employment center in the community.

PROTECTION OF NATURAL RESOURCES AND ENERGY CONSERVATION. New construction requires many resources, and 30 percent of solid waste in landfills is from demolition of old buildings. It is often said that the greenest building is the one that does not have to be built. Rehabilitating and reusing old buildings is an environmentally sound strategy. Additionally, more resources are required to develop in greenfield sites on the edge of town than to develop in infill spaces, where existing utilities may be used.

EFFICIENT USE OF PUBLIC INFRASTRUCTURE. Large investments have been made over time in downtown infrastructure, so it is often more efficient to keep downtown vibrant than extend infrastructure to new development. Local government can support strategic development and capitalize on the value and potential investment that commercial districts can attract.

PROPERTY AND SALES TAXES. The healthier the downtown businesses are, the higher the rents building owners can collect, resulting in higher property values and a higher tax base for the community. Because of its compact nature, a healthy downtown generally pays more in property taxes per acre than anywhere else in your jurisdiction (Joe Minicozzi, Urban3 LLC, for the Sonoran Institute). A vibrant downtown attracts not just locals, but regional shoppers and tourists – and sales tax revenue – to your jurisdiction.

PUBLIC SAFETY. A vacant and deteriorated downtown breeds crime. Keeping your downtown and commercial districts active and alive helps citizens to feel safe and want to take part in the community.

STRATEGIC DECISION-MAKING. Decisions on zoning, land use, and commercial sprawl impacts the health of downtown. Local government is the keeper of public lands, buildings, streetscape, and infrastructure, so community consensus is important.

DOWNTOWN DEVELOPMENT & INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT. Industrial development prospects expect to tour downtown and assess for themselves your community's values with respect to maintaining and supporting a healthy central business district. If downtown is vacant and deteriorated, potential industry tenants may question the community's respect for the industrial park in a few years.

QUALITY OF LIFE. Downtown was historically the cultural, educational, commercial, recreational, and governmental center of your community. Residents expect these amenities to exist in your community to enhance their quality of life. Downtown will continue to be this quality of life center if given the opportunity.

PRIDE IN A HEALTHY & VIBRANT COMMUNITY. All towns started around a commercial district or downtown. It is the heart and soul of your community and should reflect the pride of local leadership and residents. It is the face you project to visitors, investors, and yourselves. The reputation of your community is based on the condition of your downtown.

AVAILABLE TO AFFILIATES AND COLORADO MAIN STREET COMMUNITIES

TRAINING: QUARTERLY MAIN STREET WEBINARS

Each quarterly Main Street webinar covers a topic within one of the four points. Colorado Main Street staff, board members, and volunteers are welcome to attend.

AVAILABLE TO CANDIDATE COMMUNITIES

TRAINING: ACTIVATION VISIT

Main Street staff conduct an activation visit with communities that enter the program at the Candidate level to get the community started in its Main Street efforts with a solid foundation. By the end of the activation visit, the manager, board, and community stakeholders should have a basic understanding of what the Main Street program is and why it is important, and be able to begin identifying transformational strategies and developing an annual work plan to guide their future efforts.

AVAILABLE TO CANDIDATE, DESIGNATED, AND GRADUATE COMMUNITIES

NONCOMPETITIVE MINI-GRANTS

Colorado Main Street offers noncompetitive mini-grants to our Candidate, Designated, and Graduate communities based on available funding each state fiscal year. These funds, which require a 25 percent match, may be used only for planning, training, and physical improvements (not for operational costs). The funded project must be listed on the community's submitted annual work plan, and be consistent with its strategic plan. Applications are filled out online.

CONSULTING FUNDS

Each year, Colorado Main Street offers consulting funds based on available funding each state fiscal year. These funds, which do not require a match, should be used to complete unfulfilled requirements of a community's current tier or to make progress on prerequisites to move to the next tier. The funded project must be consistent with the community's submitted annual work plan and strategic plan. Main Street Program staff will work with each community to determine project needs based on tier status and annual work plans. Colorado Main Street pre-qualifies consultants to undertake identified projects and administers the contracts.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Based on available funding, the Colorado Main Street program offers scholarships annually to communities. The scholarship must be used for the manager to attend the Main Street Manager Summit, and for at least one representative from the community (a board member, elected official, or dedicated volunteer) to attend the National Main Street Conference. Any remaining funds may be used to pay for additional Main Street-related training as appropriate.

TRAINING: MAIN STREET MANAGER SUMMIT

The Main Street Summit is a gathering of Colorado Main Street managers and provides an opportunity to learn from peers, discuss available resources, and learn current best practices.

TRAINING: BOARD AND/OR NEW MANAGER ORIENTATION

Orientation to the Colorado Main Street Program helps new Main Street board members and managers to fully understand the mission and requirements of the program. When a new community enters the program, an existing Main Street community has significant turnover in its board, or a new Main Street manager is hired, Colorado Main Street staff can provide an orientation to go over the program requirements, services, and overall mission.

ANNUAL VISITS

Each year, Colorado Main Street staff visits all local programs, including new communities, to ensure they continue to build capacity and progress through the tiers of the statewide program. Colorado Main Street Program staff will review the memorandum of understanding (MOU), quarterly reporting requirements, and progress in completing prerequisites for advancing to the next program tier. This process helps to determine projects where volunteers and contractors can best be utilized, as well as inform the potential use for the next year's mini-grant.

REACTIVATION VISIT

When a local Main Street program is identified as needing additional support to succeed, a reactivation visit can be arranged. The reactivation team is a combination of Colorado Main Street staff and/or consultants based on the needs of the community. The team works with the local program to determine the appropriate timing and scope of the visit (most visits are between one and two days). The general intent is to reinvigorate the manager, board, and community stakeholders with a solid understanding of what the Main Street program is and why it is important, as well as create a roadmap for future efforts so the community can advance in the program.

MONTHLY MAIN STREET MANAGER'S THINK TANKS

Think Tanks are conference calls jointly hosted by Colorado Main Street staff and a rotating Main Street manager. These calls provide a venue for Main Street managers to discuss issues, best practices, upcoming events, and more.

MANAGERS' LISTSERV

This listserv is for local Main Street Managers and appropriate staff to quickly communicate questions, issues, best practices, and other items of discussion among local Main Street leaders.

TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE AS RELATED TO MAIN STREET WORK PLANS

The Colorado Main Street Program provides training and technical assistance as requested and as resources are available to help with a community's strategic plan, transformational strategies, and/or work plan. These services can be provided by Colorado Main Street staff or consultants, depending on the nature and urgency of the need.

PRESERVATION ARCHITECTURAL SERVICES

The State Historical Fund provides a grant to fund a Colorado Main Street architect. The architect can help the local government and private property owners with historic buildings upon request. See the Architectural Assistance Request form on the Colorado Main Street website for more information.

AVAILABLE TO DESIGNATED AND GRADUATE COMMUNITIES

ROAD SIGNS

Highway signs with the Colorado Main Street logo are available to help identify your community as part of the Main Street network and a great place to visit. The local program suggests locations along the entryways to its Main Street district and the Colorado Department of Transportation (CDOT) installs the signs.

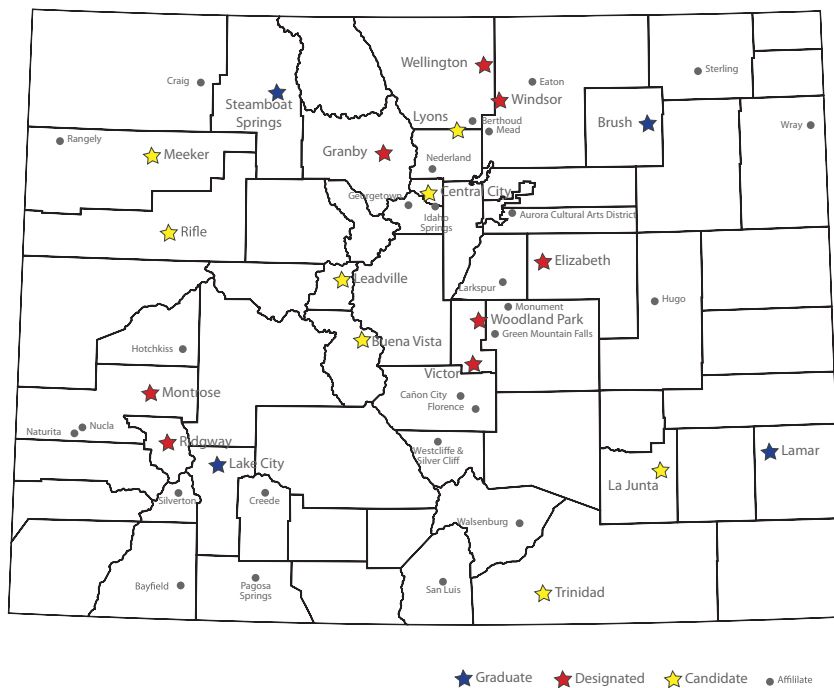

COLORADO MAIN STREET COMMUNITIES

The Colorado Main Street Program has three tiers (Candidate, Designated, and Graduate) to help communities build capacity as they work toward downtown revitalization. Each local program sets a vision for its community and consistently works toward achieving that vision. Colorado Main Street staff provides technical assistance, training, and small financial grants to help communities work toward these prerequisites and requirements.

The program also offers an Affiliate option, which is open to all Colorado cities and towns and does not have many prerequisites and requirements.

Main Street Communities

ABOUT AFFILIATES

Affiliate communities may be on their way toward becoming Candidate Main Street communities, or simply want to connect to the Main Street network. A community may remain an Affiliate as long as it desires, but is not considered an official Main Street community until it is accepted as a Candidate community.

There are no prerequisites (other than interest and applying) or requirements to become an Affiliate of the Colorado Main Street Program.

Deadline: Applications are accepted on a rolling basis.

Timeline: Colorado Main Street staff will review your application and notify you within four weeks.

Questions? Contact Colorado Main Street staff to discuss benefits and for help with the application.

ORGANIZING YOUR MAIN STREET PROGRAM

ORGANIZATIONAL TYPES

The exact type of organization chosen for each Main Street program varies from community to community and may change over time. Some typical organizing structures include:

NONPROFIT

The local Main Street program may be a 501(c)(3), 501(c)(4), or 501(c)(6) organization depending on its exact mission and the findings of the IRS. Each designation varies somewhat in what activities the organization is permitted to undertake. A 501(c)(3) offers tax benefits for some (but not all) donors. Colorado Main Street has posted two recorded webinars on its website on choosing, attaining and maintaining nonprofit status. All nonprofits are governed by a board of directors, must adopt bylaws, and must comply with financial reporting requirements.

EMBEDDED IN ANOTHER ORGANIZATION

A Main Street program may be embedded in another organization, such as an economic development corporation, local government, or Downtown Development Authority (DDA). In this case, the Main Street program should have its own advisory board to over Main Street activities, and should have its own budget and sources of revenue. In some cases, the umbrella organization's board may serve as the Main Street board, but working groups should be developed to work specifically on the Main Street program.

CHAMBER-BASED

In smaller towns, or in towns with strong downtown business districts, it may make sense to combine a Chamber of Commerce and a Main Street program. This can be done either by unifying both programs under one board, or by having a Main Street governing board and program housed within the larger organization. Keep in mind that there may be conflicts between the two organizations' missions and philosophies.

COALITION

In some cases, a Main Street program may be a coalition of more than one organization, such as an existing merchants' group serving as the Promotion point for a DDA Main Street organization. In these cases, it is important to clearly define responsibilities, clarify funding and fundraising, and keep strong communication between the entities and staff.

PROGRAM STRUCTURE

Regardless of the organizational structure, there is one recommended organizational model: Having a board who serves as main stakeholder group and individual project-based sub-committees, task forces and/or existing organizations. This structure can be developed further to reflect community needs. A Main Street manager/staff is only required as a Designated and Graduate community and may be a full- or part-time position depending on the size of the community.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS OVERVIEW

The board is the governing body of the local Main Street program, providing strategic direction, making decisions on budget and staff, and serving as ambassadors for the program. Main Street boards often are considered working boards, and members' commitments of time (generally five to 10 hours per month, plus meeting attendance) should be outlined in a position description (see Appendix B). If the program is an independent nonprofit organization, board members will have fiduciary responsibilities.

Board procedures, including election of president and vice president, should be outlined in the adopted bylaws (sample bylaws available from Colorado Main Street). It is also helpful to have a system for succession so someone is knowledgeable and ready to step in if the chair/president leaves the organization.

The board chair or president (not staff) runs meetings, often using Robert's Rules of Order (or a loose interpretation thereof). It is important that the board make clear decisions and give straightforward direction to staff, although it is generally the president/chair who works most closely with staff. Likewise, it is helpful for staff to deliver a written report prior to each meeting. The board treasurer will track finances and deliver a financial report at each meeting, and the board secretary may take minutes.

Some boards select an executive committee (generally the officers — president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer) to make certain decisions, such as those regarding staffing, but this is not necessary for many smaller organizations.

It is also desirable to strive for diversity (i.e., depending on the make-up of your district, you may strive to include a retailer, employer, property owner, restaurateur, and community resident). The board may contain ex-officio members representing certain organizations (such as the local government, Chamber of Commerce, etc.) and these may be voting or nonvoting members. It is generally recommended that boards are kept to a manageable size (no more than nine or 11 members, and smaller is fine) — not every partner need be represented on the board. Remember that this is a working board and should include those who want to roll up their sleeves — not necessarily those who are prominent in town and have many other responsibilities.

Board members, not staff, should take the lead in fundraising as they are the ambassadors of the organization.

Main Street Boards should represent these five important groups:

- workers who roll up their sleeves and actively participate in the implementation of the program;
- wisdom to further the mission of the local program;
- At least one worrier to act as the reality check for the rest of the board;
- wealth, and the knowledge of where to get it; and
- Representative and inclusive of the whole community.

The Main Street Board, as a group, is responsible for:

- raising funds needed to operate the local program (this is not a responsibility of staff);
- being walking, talking advocates for the program;
- being accountable to the community for success of the local program and for using its human and financial resources wisely;
- setting strategic direction, both long- and short-term, including approving annual work plans;
- establishing policies for the program; and
- making personnel decisions (hiring, evaluation, and dismissal of staff).

The role of each board member is to:

- participate with knowledge, labor, and money;
- attend monthly board meetings and complete assigned tasks;
- understand the mission of the local program and actively promote its goals;
- support the decisions of the board; and
- devote time to attend educational opportunities relating to the program and downtown development.

To learn more best practices for boards, visit the Colorado Main Street website. For more information on board roles, see Appendix B.

HOW THE FOUR POINTS RELATE TO BOARD AND VOLUNTEER ACTIVITIES

ORGANIZATION plays a key role in keeping the board, staff, volunteers, and program-of-work in good shape by attracting people and money to the organization. Organization focuses on:

- fundraising — from projects and administration, donations, sponsorships and grants;
- managing staff and volunteers — by maintaining a volunteer list, recruiting people, supervising them, and rewarding good work;
- promoting and communicating about the program — to downtown interests and the public;
- partnering — with other community organizations; and
- managing finances — by establishing and maintaining good accounting principles.

PROMOTION is geared toward promoting the downtown as the center of commerce, culture, and community life for residents and visitors alike. Promotion focuses on:

- understanding the changing market — both potential shoppers and your competition;
- building on downtown assets — including people, buildings, location, heritage, and institutions;
- defining Main Street's market niche — its unique position in the regional marketplace;
- creating new image campaigns, retail promotions, and special events — to lure people to downtown; and
- marketing the downtown — through branding, print materials, and online.

DESIGN plays a key role in shaping the physical image of Main Street as a place attractive to shoppers, investors, business owners, visitors and residents. Design focuses on:

- providing good design education and advice, through professional resources where available, to encourage quality improvements to private buildings and public spaces;
- planning Main Street's development — guiding future growth and shaping regulations through engagement with stakeholders and local government;

APPENDIX A: NATIONAL MAIN STREET ACCREDITATION CRITERIA

The Main Street Program accreditation process evaluates established commercial district revitalization programs on the basis of 10 basic performance standards set by Main Street America and provides national recognition to those that meet these standards.

The 10 performance standards provide benchmarks and guidelines on how the organization should be functioning and an incentive for organizations to perform better and be more effective.

Early each year, Colorado Main Street staff will distribute a self-assessment of the 10 criteria for each community to complete. Staff will follow-up with communities as needed and use completed assessments to recommend status to the National Main Street Center.

The 10 Standards of Performance

- Broad-based community support for the commercial district revitalization process, with strong support from both the public and private sectors
- Vision and mission statements relevant to community conditions and to the local Main Street program's organizational stage
- Comprehensive Main Street work plan
- Historic preservation ethic
- Active board of directors and committees
- Adequate operating budget
- Paid professional program manager
- Program for ongoing training for staff and volunteers
- Reports key statistics
- Current member of the National Main Street Center

APPENDIX D: TIPS FOR MAIN STREET MANAGERS

Successful Main Street organizations develop new leadership through meaningful volunteer experiences and create the environment for them to succeed ... as well as fail!

Main Street is successful because it is all-inclusive and teaches local empowerment.

It is not the Main Street manager's program. The Main Street manager is the coordinator, facilitator, instigator and communicator, not the sole implementer of the local program.

Successful Main Street programs are volunteer-driven.

They are not staff-driven but rather staff-managed, like the coach or the band leader.

Main Street managers are professionals hired to:

- Coordinate all activities of volunteers;
- Facilitate work planning;
- Coordinate communication;
- Support and uphold board decisions;
- Handle public awareness and public relations for the program;
- Work closely with building and business owners;
- Walk the district;
- Handle administrative details: records, reporting, files, etc. (possibly with admin support);
- Become the local technical assistance provider or the liaison to those who can provide the assistance;
- Establish strong relationships with the city, chamber, county, etc.;
- Become part of the team;
- Educate the community on Main Street, economic development and historic preservation;
- Become a leader in the community, especially in smaller towns;
- Motivate volunteers to do the work of the program;
- Report to and work at the pleasure of the Board of Directors;
- Be accountable to and work directly for the Board president, meeting weekly;
- Attend all board & volunteer meetings;
- Teach self-help, thereby empowering volunteers to turn the downtown vision into reality;
- Give credit for the success of the program to volunteers and leaders.

The Main Street Manager has been hired to orchestrate program efforts.

Main Street managers should not try to single-handedly implement the activities of the program for the organization.

The Main Street manager does NOT:

- Become the fund raiser for Main Street – this is a board responsibility. A Main Street Manager fundraising his or her own salary diminishes his or her credibility.
- Take the minutes at board meetings – this is the secretary's responsibility, or possibly an admin staff;
- Chair, lead or preside over meetings. The board chairs must be capable of conducting effective meetings;
- Write the entire newsletter for the program;
- Voice his or her own opinion to the public, media, etc. unless it is consistent with the position of the board;
- Keep the books for the organization – this is the responsibility of the treasurer;
- Write his or her own paycheck;
- Implement all the activities of the program.

Plan for continuity.

Main Street managers come and go, as do board presidents and volunteers. Each program must have a plan for continuity or succession and written records of how things are done. If a program is overly staff-driven, the entire program might go with the manager and the community is left to put together the pieces.

Maintain communications.

Main Street managers are instrumental in providing communication to and between the board of directors, volunteers, and business and property owners, as well as partners such as municipal staff, economic development agencies, and nonprofit groups.

- Gain the trust of those who hired you for the job. Let them propose your ideas, then support them during discussions. Make your ideas their own.
- Go to lunch weekly with a different board member;
- Always work with the Board President; it is difficult answering to 7-13 bosses;
- Use work plans to stay on target at meetings and to ensure new activities/projects/tasks support the overall vision. Remind Board and volunteers of the work plans whenever it is appropriate. Work plans are approved by the Board.
- Walk the streets and listen and learn from the downtown business community;
- In general, business owners will be more visible than property owners in your district, but be cognizant to keep in touch with both;
- Recognize that retailers, restaurants/bars, offices/large employers, and housing owners may have different interests in the district;
- Find someone not involved in the program to be your confidant or someone to vent with. Another program manager in a nearby community may be a good choice!
- Respect is earned, not expected.

Balance your time.

A typical Main Street manager works more than a full-time (or half-time) schedule. Balance volunteer time with private and family life.

Volunteers are the lifeblood of a successful Main Street program.

Respect volunteers, find suitable roles that match their skills and interests, train them, and thank them, and thank them again. Be careful not to burn out volunteers.

- Successful volunteers are educated about your program. Most volunteers should understand the four points and how they work together.
- Successful volunteers understand the mission and goals of your Main Street organization.
- Successful volunteers take ownership in and responsibility for their commitments.
- Successful Main Street organizations match volunteers to their skills, interest and time – some want to provide strategic direction while others may just want to pour beer at Oktoberfest.
- Successful volunteers are provided with clear expected outcomes.
- Successful volunteers want to be recognized for their accomplishments.

Use sub-committees or temporary task forces to do the work

Get more people involved for a defined period of time.
