November 25, 2014

DHSEM is coordinating the following mitigation and recovery efforts with government, private-nonprofit organization, and other critical partners.

Ricks Center Students Visit State EOC

“Our class went to the EOC to learn about who responds to natural disasters in our state. We are third and fourth graders who attend the Ricks Center for Gifted Children at the University of Denver. We are studying natural disasters this fall and have learned about wildfires, flooding, hurricanes, tornadoes, avalanches, and earthquakes. We visited the EOC because we wanted to learn more about who helps out when a disaster strikes in Colorado. Knowledge is power, and you definitely need power to respond to a natural disaster. We were met by Robin Knappe who was the best guide ever. She took us on a tour through the media center, the conference room where the governor sits, and into the command center. She very patiently answered all of our many questions. It was impressive to learn about the number of organizations and agencies that work together to help when there is a disaster. There’s even a plan for pets. Communication, cooperation, and coordination are key if this team is to be successful. This tour certainly gave us an inside view of the work that has to be done when a disaster happens.” ~ -Claire Mann, age 9
