Third Biennial Report

OF THE

State Bank Commissioner

Denver, Colorado, January 1, 1913.

To His Excellency,

JOHN F. SHAFROTH,

Governor of Colorado.

Sir: In compliance with the requirements of section 337, Revised Statutes of 1908, I beg leave to submit herewith the Third Biennial Report of the office of State Bank Commissioner, for the period from January 1, 1911, to and including December 31, 1912; showing in detail the names of the owners and principal officers, the paid-up capital of each bank, the name and location thereof, and the number of banks in the state under the jurisdiction of the State Bank Commissioner; with a summary of the reports made by them during the period, showing thereon the dates of examinations made by the department during the period covered by this report; and such other data and information herein affecting them, the banking situation of the state, and the department.

At this date the number of state banking institutions under supervision is 197—an increase over the number shown in the last biennial report of fifteen, and an increase of sixty-five since the organization of the department in 1908, when, on February 14 of that year, but 132 banks existed; an increase of 50 per cent in number, and, as shown by the following exhibit, the total assets have increased 80 per cent:

An analysis of the reports of this department shows to what extent the state banking resources of Colorado are controlled by the twenty-one trust company organizations. More than 50 per cent of the total resources shown are under their control.

An analysis of the resources of the state banks shows that more than one-half of them—to-wit, 105—have total resources of less than $100,000; that forty-two have resources of between $100,000 and $200,000; that twenty have resources of between $200,000 and $300,000; that fourteen have resources of between $300,000 and $500,000; that seven have resources of between $500,000 and $1,000,000; and that nine have resources of $1,000,000 and more.

Following a recent custom, Comptroller of the Currency Murray, on June 14, 1912, obtained from nearly all of the banks in the United States reports of their condition, and compiled from such reports the summary shown on another page of this report, which indicates a continual growth in the banking resources of the country. It also indicates that for every bank under national supervision there are about three under state supervision. At this time there are 127 national banks in Colorado.

There are also under partial supervision of this department the receivers of the following banks: Colorado State Bank, Durango, Colorado; The State Bank of Rocky Ford, Rocky Ford, Colorado; The Bank of Grand County, Hot Sulphur Springs, Colorado; The La Plata County Bank, Durango, Colorado.

Since the last report no material changes have occurred in the affairs of the receivership of the Colorado State Bank, Durango, Colorado. The same comment is applicable to The State Bank of Rocky Ford, Rocky Ford, Colorado.

In May, 1911, The La Plata County Bank, of Durango, Colorado, was found to be in a very unsatisfactory condition, as a result of the vicious methods and manipulations of its president, T. K. Irwin. Steps were promptly taken to remove Irwin from the control of the bank, and an honest management was placed in charge.

After making a strenuous effort to obtain sufficient patronage to warrant continuing in business, but finding the conditions unfavorable, the board of directors on May 20, 1912, placed the bank in charge of this department. A receiver was duly appointed to wind up the bank's affairs, and, in my opinion, depositors will be paid in full. Irwin has been apprehended, and is now awaiting trial for violations of the law while he was conducting the bank.

In August, 1911, the Stratton State Bank was found to be insolvent, due to the mismanagement and over-borrowing from it by its officers and directors, and it was closed by the department.

The honorable District Court appointed the State Bank Commissioner to act as receiver thereof, and within sixty days a reorganization of the bank was effected, principally through the efforts of one of the old stockholders. The bank was permitted to reopen under a new charter, and is now in good hands.

The entire cost of handling the bank during these proceedings was less than $500.

In October, 1911, the affairs of the Gilcrest State Bank became involved to such an extent that the department took charge temporarily, until an arrangement with creditors of the bank was made for extensions of time in which to settle claims; whereupon the bank was granted a new charter; the main object being to permit the stockholders to close up the affairs of the bank with as little loss and expense as possible; or, should conditions justify them, to again actively engage in business.

Reorganizations and changes of management have been required in several instances where banks have been found in unsatisfactory or dangerous conditions, due to incompetent management and otherwise; thereby averting failures. Mergers of banks have occurred where conditions were such that they were deemed advisable and desirable.

In a number of cases the action of the department has effected substantial benefits to the public, of which it is not aware; and banks, both state and national, have been saved losses by its efforts.

Violations of the banking law have been and are continually committed by some state banks and their officers, knowing that no penalty attaches for such violations that are committed, for the reason that there is apparently none provided in the law.

I have been unable to obtain the assistance of the legal department of the state and get it to accept my view of the situation, believing that any corporation or individual being guilty of continued violations of the law, for which no specific penalty is provided, should have its right to do business revoked. For instance, banks that continually violate the law relating to excess loans, or the law relating to borrowing money or rediscounting paper, appear to do so with impunity. Most grievous of all is the refusal of banks to make good deficiencies by making pro-rata assessment upon the stockholders when so ordered. It is indeed strange that the banking law should impose duties upon the Bank Commissioner and the banker, and yet provide no method for enforcing its own mandates.

Under the present law corrective measures cannot be enforced against banks, and it is only when the Commissioner can produce evidence to the District Court that a bank is insolvent (the word "insolvent" is used as defined in Revised Statutes, 1908, section 340, that a bank's capital has been entirely lost and that the assets of the bank are insufficient to pay depositors), or has made a false report, or has voluntarily placed its affairs under the control of the department, that a receiver can be obtained.

I cannot agree with the legal authority of the state that this department must sit helplessly by and let a bank become insolvent through the mismanagement thereof by its officers and their continued violations of the law, despite repeated admonitions by this department.

If the department is to be effective, it must be provided with effective methods, which can be speedily invoked before the insolvency occurs and loss to depositors arise.

Of cases of thefts by bank officers and employes there have been a number. In most cases losses have been recovered but partially. Prosecutions have been instituted, some of which are still pending. This phase of banking conditions suggests a change in the law which shall require all bank employes to be placed under bond, so that losses may be recovered.

During the month of September, 1912, all banks were requested to have an examination thereof made by their boards of directors or owners. The request was cheerfully complied with, and the practice of requiring directors to make examinations, independent of the aid of the managing officials of the bank, results in their obtaining knowledge which otherwise might not be obtained. It certainly impresses the directors with the responsibilities of their positions.

In one institution of this state I was gratified to find that its board of directors had already appointed a committee to make an examination, which was very thoroughly done, occupying practically the time of four men for at least ten days, for which they received in the aggregate $500.

I mention this instance for the purpose of illustrating the necessity of having sufficient examiners in this department, in order that the required length of time can be devoted by them to examinations.

In order to avoid results that sometimes obtain in the "one-man" bank, the directors ought to be held responsible where their neglect of duties results in loss to depositors. They should not be permitted to close their eyes to what is going on in the bank, but should keep in touch with its affairs, in order to do justice to those who deal with the bank.

The "dummy director," who permits his name to be used as a drawing-card for the bank, and who does not take enough interest in it to ascertain whether or not it is properly managed, should have no place in the banking business.

All efforts during the past four years to have better and more effective banking laws passed by the legislature have failed signally. Much time and labor have been lost by reason of the failure of the legislature to properly pass laws. The enactment of 1911 was a fairly satisfactory measure. Its passage was bitterly and successfully opposed by the bankers, and they apparently are well satisfied with the course of events.

Is it not a reflection upon the legislative ability of the members of the Assembly that so much time and labor should be lost by the failure or lack, as in the case of 1911, of one member's vote (whether intentionally or unintentionally) to properly adopt a report of a conference committee?

Had not this error occurred, the bankers would still have fastened upon the state the publication of the entire enactment of 1911, at an expense of twenty or twenty-five thousand dollars, which I think was unnecessary; but we should even then have had some semblance of a better banking law; as I have no doubt that the measure would have received a majority vote in favor of its adoption.

Be that as it may, the lesson will be lost unless the incoming legislature takes enough interest in the subject to see that its work is thoroughly accomplished. Failing in that, the people must initiate and adopt desirable laws.

The entire banking law of this state should be remodeled with a view of giving the department sufficient power to administer the law. The law should be made to cover banking in accordance with the rules of reason and justice. The department should be given sufficient help, in the way of examiners and clerical force, to carry on the work properly and efficiently.

I wish to emphasize what I consider one of the greatest needs of the department by repeating what I said two years ago: The greatest need of the department is that of additional examiners. To visit and make complete examinations twice each year of 197 banks and four receiverships, scattered as they are throughout this great state, is a physical impossibility for the Commissioner and one deputy. He is wholly unable, with the aid allowed by the existing statute, to comply with the law; therefore, the necessity for more assistants is apparent, and the deficiency should be remedied. There should be at least one examiner for every seventy-five banks. The appointment of additional examiners would not increase the cost of the department to the state, as the fees earned by them would more than pay their salaries and expenses; and the required amount of time necessary for a thorough examination of a bank could be devoted to it.

In support of my contention for more examiners, let me state briefly that the state of Nebraska has under the jurisdiction of its department of banking 690 banks, with total resources of $105,261,572.44. Its total number of employes is fourteen—five in the office and nine examiners; or one examiner to every seventy-seven banks.

Kansas, with 902 banks, with total resources of $136,058,547.43, has sixteen employes in its banking department, eight or nine of whom are examiners; approximately one to every 100 banks.

Oklahoma has 621 banks, with resources of $53,451,712.04, and the banking department has sixteen employes, ten of whom are bank examiners; or one for every sixty-two banks.

Texas, with 705 banks, has fifteen bank examiners.

In all of the above-mentioned states two examinations each year are required.

The fees for bank examinations should be revised on the basis of total resources of banks, and not on the basis of capital and surplus. The present system is inequitable and unjust. A small bank should be required to pay but a small fee, and the larger bank can well afford to pay the fee based upon the volume of business. Such a scale as follows would, in my opinion, be fair to the banks, and would produce to the state almost sufficient revenue to maintain the department:

165 banks having total resources of $ 100,000.00 or less @ $20.00.....			$ 2,100.00
42 banks having total resources of 100,000.00 and less than $ 200,000.00@ $25.00			1,050.00
20 banks having total resources of 200,000.00 and less than 300,000.00@ 35.00			700.00
14 banks having total resources of 300,000.00 and less than 500,000.00@ 45.00			630.00
7 banks having total resources of 500,000.00 and less than 1,000,000.00@ 60.00			420.00
9 banks having total resources of 1,000,000.00 and over—$60.00, plus two cents for each $1,000.00 over $1,000,000.00; estimated.....			870.00
Total for one examination of all.....			$ 5,770.00
Total for two examinations of all.....			$11,540.00

The necessity for more frequent call reports is evidenced when it is taken into consideration that approximately five months elapse between the dates of the first and third, and third and fifth, calls for reports of national banks made by the Comptroller of the Currency, whose dates govern the dates of calls made by this department.

Private banking should, in my opinion, be entirely abolished, and all banking institutions should be required to incorporate under the law.

While there have been many comments along the lines of having too many banks, and especially too many small banks, it is indeed hard to say where the line should be drawn.

The suggestion is made that the department should have power to refuse charters where good and sufficient reasons seem to exist; and, on the other hand, it seems somewhat unjust to prevent any number of persons, who desire to engage in the banking business, from so doing because reasons apparently exist that a community will not support another bank.

In other words, if the state is to act as a guardian for those who are in business, or propose to go into business, it seems to me that the best efforts of the state in the guardian business should be to guard the depositors, regardless of the number of banks in existence or of those who desire to create more.

It is a fact in some localities "dummy banks" are organized for the express purpose of keeping out competition; hence the subject of restricting the number of banks becomes more involved when considered in all its phases.

Many complaints against banks have been made to the department, which in all cases have received careful investigation and attention; and, while some have been trivial and some have had merit, good results have been effected and matters satisfactorily adjusted.

During the past two years banking conditions throughout the state have been fairly satisfactory. With the bountiful harvest of the past season, the outlook is encouraging for the future welfare and profit of the banks.

I desire to renew my suggestion, made two years ago, that there should be a complete revision of the banking laws of the state, to the end that a thoroughly sound, consistent, and harmonious code applicable to all banking institutions may be secured. And, unless this is done, in my opinion, the department may as well be abandoned, because under the present law its efficiency is so limited that its usefulness does not justify the expense attendant upon its operation. On the other hand, under a comprehensive and up-to-date banking code, it could become the most effective agency of the state administration for the promotion of sound banking and the protection of depositors.

Respectfully,

EMIL W. PFEIFFER,
State Bank Commissioner.
