The University of Colorado advances the economy, health and culture of Colorado and beyond, educating more than 435,000 students who have become catalysts in business, arts, health and community growth. CU's four campuses feature top-tier faculty and hands-on learning opportunities in an environment where students thrive.

University of Colorado Boulder, 1876: At CU-Boulder, undergraduate and graduate students put their knowledge to use in areas of study ranging from archaeological finds in the arctic to improving the classroom experience to working with NASA to conduct research in space. CU-Boulder is one of the most beautiful campuses in the nation.

University of Colorado Colorado Springs, 1965: UCCS, among the fastest growing universities in the state and nation, is a residential academic and research mainstay in southern Colorado, partnering with major corporations and federal agencies to provide leading-edge, high-tech education ranging from business to theater to nursing outreach programs for rural areas.

University of Colorado Denver, 1973: CU Denver awards the most graduate degrees in the state, has strengths in business, public affairs, computer science, art and digital media and is a leader in sustainability on campus and in its curriculum. Located in downtown Denver, CU Denver is a commuter campus with nearby housing options and a wide range of online course and degree offerings.

University of Colorado Anschutz Medical Campus, 2006: A state-of-the-art medical center, CU Anschutz Medical Campus is globally recognized for its research, teaching and clinical programs in medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, physical therapy and nursing. CU Anschutz Medical Campus is also home to University of Colorado Hospital and Children's Hospital Colorado. The CU School of Medicine's roots reach back more than 100 years, when it opened in Boulder.

- CU has more than 58,000 degree-seeking students and an additional 9,000 taking courses for credit.
- CU has more than 200,230 alumni living and working in Colorado.
- CU's operating budget for the 2013-14 fiscal year is $3.04 billion. Contracts and grants and tuition and fees account for nearly half of the university's revenue. The majority of CU's budget is spent on instruction, research and health services.
- CU contributes more than $5.3 billion annually to Colorado's economy through its demand for goods and services.
- CU researchers received more than $770 million in sponsored research funding in fiscal year 2012-13 to conduct research in economic sectors critical to the state and nation, including energy, bioscience, aerospace and health care.
- CU's administrative overhead is 33 percent below that of its national peers.
- The past year, CU Technology Transfer registered 238 invention disclosures, 115 new patent filings and 242 follow-on filings, and $16.5 million in license revenue. Eight new companies were formed based on CU technology.

Five Nobel Laureates:

- David J. Wineland, physics, 2012
- John Hall, physics, 2005
- Eric Cornell and Carl Wieman, physics, 2001
- Thomas Cech, chemistry, 1989

Other outstanding faculty include nine MacArthur "genius" fellows, including 2013 honoree Ana Maria Rey, JILA fellow and assistant research professor in the CU-Boulder Department of Physics; and Carnegie Foundation's Professor of the Year awarded to Nobel Prize winner Carl Wieman in 2004 and Steven Pollock in 2013.

The University of Colorado boasts:

- 18 alumni astronauts and one teaching astronaut.
- 19 Rhodes scholars.
- Leading global experts in renewable and sustainable energy, Down syndrome research, obesity, aerospace and many others.

CU is the third-largest employer in the state, employing:

- 27,500 directly;
- 16,000 indirectly through demand for goods and services and construction.

The University of Colorado in November announced the successful completion of its $1.5 billion Creating Futures campaign that will help people, programs and places across the university's four campuses. Some 159,000 donors from 50 states and 79 countries contributed 404,000 gifts to the endeavor. The silent phase began in 2006 and the campaign was publicly announced in 2011. CU President Bruce D. Benson and his wife Marcy chaired Creating Futures.

It established nearly 450 new scholarship funds, 538 new endowments and provided 76 new funds for capital projects. CU's endowment rose from $595.5 million in July 2006 to $937.5 million in September 2013.

While CU achieved notable success with Creating Futures, the university aims to raise the bar in fundraising to compete at levels comparable to the top public universities nationwide. CU is integrating development and related support operations into the university structure rather than being managed through a separate nonprofit, the CU Foundation. CU's development and related supporting operations began transferring to the university in summer 2013. The new structure is expected to better align university and fundraising personnel and priorities.

The Board of Regents is charged constitutionally with the general supervision of the university and the exclusive control and direction of all funds of and appropriations to the university, unless otherwise provided by law.

Campus Leadership:

Philip P. DiStefano, Chancellor, CU-Boulder

Pam Shockley-Zalabak, Chancellor, UCCS

Don Elliman, Chancellor, CU Denver | Anschutz Medical Campus

Lilly Marks, Vice President for Health Affairs and Executive Vice Chancellor, CU Anschutz Medical Campus

Bruce D. Benson became the 22nd president of the University of Colorado in March 2008. Since taking the helm of his alma mater, Benson has enhanced CU's standing as one of the nation's leading teaching and research universities, advancing the economy, health and culture of Colorado and beyond.

During Benson's tenure, CU's research funding has reached record levels including a best-ever $884 million in 2010-11. He has led efforts to promote cross-campus collaboration that have resulted in cooperative academic programs and research initiatives.

CU has seen its four best fundraising years (including a record $258.8 million in 2012-13) under his leadership. Benson and his wife, Marcy, chaired CU's

$1.5 billion Creating Futures fundraising campaign, which was publicly announced in April 2011 and came to fruition in fall 2013. The campaign raised more than $1.5 billion to support scholarships, academic enhancements (endowed faculty positions, programs), research projects and capital improvements across CU's campuses.

Benson has guided efforts to successfully institute operational efficiencies, cut bureaucracy and improve business practices at the university. He has also established a number of public-private partnerships to make the university more entrepreneurial and meet the needs of businesses in Colorado and across the country.

CU For Colorado

Outreach programs serving Colorado communities

CU For Colorado, an initiative by the Office of the President, is your guide to the more than 200 outreach programs extending from CU's four campuses to people and places across the state. Use the searchable database on the CU For Colorado website to learn how the university provides public service, education, health care, community support and cultural engagement to rural and metro communities.

Be a CU Advocate

CU Advocates, a program based in the Office of the President, is a volunteer, grassroots-driven network of people who want to become more informed about and engaged with CU. Advocates help convey the university's educational, research and economic value and contributions to their communities, media, elected officials and beyond, as well as raise awareness about issues affecting higher education.

- More than 2,000 people around the world are CU Advocates; about 1,600 live in Colorado.
- The program hosts many free educational forums across Colorado, including CU Advocacy Day at the Capitol, a joint program with CU's Office of Government Relations.
- More than 1,200 advocates have attended educational forums since the program's inception in 2011.

CU students, parents, faculty, staff, donors and alumni, as well as business leaders, community members and friends, are invited to become CU Advocates.
