Creative Nonfiction Writing
ROBERT GATEWOOD

“It takes courage to be creative in a class full of strangers. I work hard to help students just how significant this first step is.”

UNDERSTAND

“Whether someone from New York City in the 1940’s is writing about their immigrant experience, or someone from the 1960’s is writing about jumping trains as a hobo, everyone is terrific about respecting one another and critiquing honestly,” says Robert. “Students progress not just by writing and critiquing their own stories, but also by analyzing other people’s work.”

DO SOMETHING JUST FOR YOU.

Reading Don Quixote: A Dialogue with Islam

NCWR 1204

Why should we read (or reread) Don Quixote? Why did Flaubert read it every Sunday, and Faulkner reread it every year? Why did Dostoevsky regard it as his “conclusion on life”? Why did Mark Twain recommend it as an antidote to American literalism, to Huck Finn’s inability to see “A-rabs”? Why did a recent Norwegian worldwide poll hail it as “the most meaningful book of all time”? This seminar will introduce and reorient a book that interlaces the West’s three great monotheisms. Written by a descendant of converso Jews and narrated by an Arabic historian, Don Quixote tells the story of a would-be Christian knight, an enchanting madman. The core of the novel is autobiographical, hatched in a prison during Cervantes’s five-year captivity (1575-1580) in Muslim Algiers. Participants will gain a sense of why the rise of the novel in Europe was connected to Christianity’s centuries-long crusade against Islam. And we shall ponder why the term “quixotic” is a constant in today’s political discourse.

Diana Wilson is professor emerita in Renaissance Studies at the University of Denver. She has published five books and over 50 essays in journals and book collections on assorted Renaissance topics. She is currently working on a three-year collaborative NEH grant to edit and translate a 1570s captivity chronicle by Dr. Antonio de Sosa, a Christian captive in Muslim Algiers.

Section 300: Saturday, September 25, 1-4 pm, Hellems 237, 1 session. $39.

Virginia Woolf and Mrs. Dalloway: A Writer and Her Madness

NCWR 1220

Virginia Woolf, famous for her novels and her participation in the literary Bloomsbury Group in the early decades of the 20th century, suffered from a form of manic-depressive psychosis, bordering at times on schizophrenia. To Woolf’s credit, she knew this illness well, and explored it in many ways within the contemporary setting of her novels, particularly those written in the early years after WWI. But it is Woolf’s masterpiece, Mrs. Dalloway, that best captures this heightened tension between the writer’s need to communicate and the illness she both suffered from and captured through her characters. Reading the short novel is recommended, for it is, in any case, a beautiful work in stream-of-consciousness style, but the class will discuss it within its time, as it relates to problems with post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) discovered in WWI, and in the context of the changes Woolf herself was realizing in the modern world.

George Moore’s most recent books include Headhunting and the e-book, All Night Card Game in the Back Room of Time. His poems have been published nationally and internationally. Nominated for two Pushcart Prizes and two Best of the Web awards last year, his work will appear in the anthology for nominees for The Rhysling Poetry Award for 2010. George has a PhD in English and is a senior instructor at CU.

Section 301: Saturday, October 9, 1-4 pm, Hellems 137, 1 session. $39.

A River Runs Through It

NCWR 1220

In Norman Maclean’s A River Runs Through It, the narrator looks back through the “sentimentality of memory” to a series of events that happened forty years earlier, “haunted” by the one question that “asks a lifetime of questions”: could he have helped his brother Paul? As a “lifetime of questions,” the novella explores such themes as origins, salvation, art, helping others, and the existence of God. On the surface, the story reads like a classic tragedy. But beneath the surface, it operates like the Blackfoot River: “deep and engaged in profundities, circling back on itself now and then to say things over to be sure it had understood itself.” And that’s where we’ll go as readers—beneath the surface. Together we’ll look at a number of key passages, as we consider the technical and thematic features that make this novella an American classic.

A third book, The Way Home: Essays on the Outside West (University of Utah Press), is scheduled for publication this year.

Section 302: Saturday, November 6, 1-4 pm, Hellems 237, 1 session. $39.

PERSONAL ENRICHMENT

The Practical Pen: Effective Writing for Everyday Use

NCWR 1201

What do we really mean when we say to someone who is bumbling through a task, “You don’t know what you’re doing, do you?” At the heart of our dismissive (and rhetorical) question is the idea of competence in a skill—that is, a working understanding of how parts relate to the process of a whole. Writing is a learnable skill in this same sense, and this seminar will provide an orientation to the tools one needs to write effectively for any occasion, anywhere. Our approach will involve three stages: (1) an overview of how the English language works to create meaning, (2) a consideration of the encompassing (and powerful) idea of genre, and (3) a computer-aided session during which we will put what we have learned into practice. If all goes well, we shall arrive at the delicate truth well noted by the late great wordsmith George Carlin: “We think in language, so the quality of our thoughts and ideas can only be as good as the quality of our language.”

On the Trail of Key Themes in American Literature

NCWR 1202

What lies at the beating heart of American literature? Can we find, in short, a coherent approach to American literary history as authors pile on the next in the parade from Puritans to Post-Modernists? This seminar approaches the problem by considering three related perspectives. First, we shall outline the central approaches and debates that shape the field of literary criticism. Given this critical “tool bag” for study, we shall sweep through the core “Big Names” as they tower over the eras constituting American literary history: Bradford for Puritanism, Franklin for the Enlightenment, Hawthorne and Poe for Romanticism, Melville and Dickinson for the American Renaissance, Twain for Realism, Hughes for the Harlem Renaissance, and so forth. Finally, we shall trace emerging themes that define our living literary culture. Participants will gain from these three perspectives an orientation that will allow them to appreciate (and perhaps love) almost any author, no matter how famous or obscure, new or old.

Our Changing Planet:
The View from Space
NCSS 1051

A bird’s-eye view of the Earth from afar and up close reveals the power and magnificence of the Earth and juxtaposes the simultaneous impacts and powerlessness of humankind. For over 40 years now, satellites have been orbiting the Earth, quietly monitoring the state of our planet. Unseen by most of us, they are providing information on the many changes taking place, from natural processes such as land movements, volcanic eruptions, and the ebb and flow of the seasons, to human-caused changes such as the growth of cities, deforestation, the spread of pollutants in the atmosphere and oceans, and the depletion of the ozone layer over the poles. We will head behind the scenes and explain how satellites observe our planet’s environment, from the atmosphere, oceans, land, and cryosphere, and what these observations tell us about our changing planet. Learn where and when lightning occurs around the world, how the religions of the world can be observed from space, what are the regions that experience the largest number of fires, and when do they occur, how sea ice has decreased over the Arctic region, how sea level has and is likely to continue to change, how hurricanes modify the ocean environment, and how glaciers have retreated worldwide.

New Zealand: Land of the Long White Cloud

NCSS 1009

New Zealand is one of the world’s most diverse and rewarding travel destinations. The country’s two islands lie on separate tectonic plates and boast vastly different landscapes. The North Island hosts volcanoes, geothermal pools, and a more “sub-tropical” climate, while the South Island is known for its extremes from glaciers to temperate rainforest and is a jumping off place for Antarctica. Whales, dolphins, and penguins navigate the waters of both islands, while wallabies give their kangaroo character to the landscapes. New Zealand’s avian community is noteworthy, with the flightless Kiwi bird, symbol of the country, and the Kia parrot that will rip the rubber stripping off from around a car windshield in its affinity for rubber. Each turn in the road offers breathtaking landscapes, dotted by more than 32 million sheep that dominate the human population of only 4 million. The indigenous Polynesian Maori struggle to maintain traditional ways amidst not only a changing country but a changing world. In New Zealand one can swim with the dolphins, graze with the sheep, and climb the nearest mountain to view the Southern Cross constellation – all within a mile of one another. There is no limit to New Zealand’s beauty, intrigue, and hospitality. A brown-bag lunch is suggested for those interested in viewing additional material over the lunch hour.

Ethiopia: Crossroads of Africa
NCSS 1000

Surrounded by geopolitical “hot spots” Sudan, Eritrea, and Somalia, Ethiopia is comprised of plateaus and gorges created from the separating of the Great Rift Valley. Ethiopia is Africa at its most diverse, lying on ancient cultural crossroads of Judaism, Christianity, and Islam that culminated in magnificent Christian churches literally carved out of solid stone. These rock-hewn churches are often considered the 8th Wonder of the World. Ethiopia avoided the colonization that drove the rest of Africa to its knees, but did fall into Mussolini’s Italian hands for a short while in the late 1930’s and later to a socialist military tribunal called the DERG that crippled the country starting in 1974 during the civil war that gave Eritrea its independence. As one of the world’s largest suppliers of coffee, Ethiopia is also the birthplace of the Blue Nile River, one of two major stems of the Nile. The beauty of this country is punctuated by majestic acacia trees and thatched-roof huts amidst terraced hillsides of red soil and verdant crops, all of which give rise to exquisite surreal landscapes as late afternoon sunlight slips into dusk. While the north has its history with ancient kingdoms, such as the Axumite, the south remains the gateway for tribal cultures of sub-Saharan Africa, where ochre-dyed hair and lip plates of the South Omo Valley perpetuate tribal traditions. This class is based on the presenter’s 2010 travels through Ethiopia. A brown-bag lunch is suggested for those interested in viewing additional material over the lunch hour.

PERSONAL ENRICHMENT

Access to Education: Changing the World

NCSS 1010

75 million children worldwide still have no access to education. 50 to 70% are minority or indigenous. When offered an education, some children are further marginalized, such as the gypsy Roma of Europe who are put in “special education” schools rather than allowed in public schools or the Dalit Untouchables of India where 50% drop out due to discrimination. Education, however, has been shown to be one of the greatest tools for development and one of the most effective ways to minimize destabilizing influences. Yet providing access to education has been an enormous stumbling block for most of the developing world, leaving millions of children un- or under-educated. For decades, many children who had access were still denied entrance because they lacked the funds for requisite uniforms, shoes, or notebooks. Girls faced discrimination, not only because of the extensive chore list that kept them tethered to their tasks but because of cultural attitudes. Because girls in developing countries generally move in with their in-laws, it has been said that sending a daughter to school is like watering a neighbor’s garden. For those children lucky enough to enter school, challenges still make the process more difficult, from seasonal work that pulls them out of the classroom to long travel distances that consume half of a child’s day. Yet, amidst these challenges, innovative governmental and NGO programs are opening the doors of education to children who never imagined being inside a classroom. Amidst the rubble of Afghanistan and in Rio’s favela slums, children are learning! This class will explore the touching stories of children worldwide who find themselves on both sides of the classroom door. A brown-bag lunch is suggested for those interested in viewing additional material over the lunch hour.

Swedish: Conversational Skills Level 1

NCSW 1000

Start learning the melodic Swedish language by undertaking a virtual trip through magnificent Sweden. Gain basic communication skills while visiting eight different areas of Sweden, from pristine Swedish Lapland, through the bustling city life of Stockholm, to the historical island of Gotland in southern Sweden.

You will acquire language skills essential for everyday dialogue, perhaps for your upcoming visit to Sweden, to indulge in armchair traveling or to add linguistic depth to your interest in Nordic Studies. Classroom time will focus on conversation based on useful everyday phrases and dialogue. In addition, students will build proficiency at home using interactive online material. Home computer with Internet connection and Adobe Flash Player v. 10 or higher is required for online curriculum.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Grant Writing

NCWR 1126

We will address the theory and practice of grant writing within the context of nonprofit fundraising. Class sessions focus on the rhetorical strategies needed to write successful grant proposals and encourage students to practice these strategies. Course topics include audience-centered writing and how to match your program’s goals with those of individual grant makers. One class session will be devoted to the research methods used for finding funding sources and for finding demographic data in government databases, which will help put your nonprofit programs in context and make them more compelling. In later class sessions students are encouraged to bring drafts of a grant proposal to class for group workshop and discussion. Required textbook is available at the CU Book Store. Class will meet every other Tuesday on September 14, 28, October 12, and 26.

Christine Macdonald, PhD, has been teaching analytical writing at the CU for ten years. She has worked as a Development Officer for Children’s Hospital, Boston, teaches grant writing on the Boulder campus, and has written numerous grants.

GRE Prep: Verbal/ Analytical Writing
NCLS 2010

Think like the folks who write and grade the test. Concentrate better, and read and remember more efficiently. Streamline your sentence completions, analogies, antonyms, and reading comprehension, while mastering a few hundred key GRE vocabulary items. Learn what’s involved in the Issue Essay and the Argument Essay, and how to start writing promptly, instead of just sitting there wondering what to do. In class you’ll have hands-on practice writing these two essays. This course excels at general strategies as well as at computer-adaptive test (CAT) strategies, including how to modify the computerized testing environment to your advantage. The skills and strategies you learn will help immensely on the GRE, but also in graduate school.

Since 1990, Larry Monke (BS, MA, MEd) has helped many hundreds of students earn higher GRE scores, and has taken the GRE a number of times himself, most recently on computer. His other teaching experience includes math, science, English, music, and foreign languages.

Section 301: Mondays and Wednesdays, October 4-25, 6-8 pm, Hellems 141, 7 sessions. $190.

GRE Prep: Quantitative
NCLS 2010

Gain the courage and skill to tackle these questions – you can get a lot of points. The first two sessions help you master a number of miscellaneous topics, like integers, odds and evens, primes, divisors, comparisons, exponents (positive, negative, fractional), roots, decimals, percents, ratio-and-proportion, averages, graphs and tables, Celsius vs. Fahrenheit, and probability, continually alert for shortcuts. In the following two sessions, you concentrate on algebra, including linear equations (the Handy Six-Step Method), algebraic word problems, quadratic equations (with solution by factoring), and complex fractions. In the next two sessions, you learn GRE geometry, especially circles, parallel lines, automatic right angles, coordinate geometry (graphing linear equations using the slope and y-intercept method), and the five most common GRE triangles. Even if you’re already good at math, you’ll earn a higher score after this!

WRITING

Western Writers
NCWR 1205

Conducted as a workshop, this course will focus on the individual writing projects of students. All genres are welcome. Through instructor guidance and peer review, students will have the opportunity to explore and develop their own writing in an intensive, eight-week class. To augment the workshop, we will read a number of short works by such contemporary western authors as William Kittredge, Terry Tempest Williams, Edward Abbey, Wallace Stegner, Gretel Ehrlich, and others. While the course will have a western flavor, students will enjoy the freedom to pursue their own styles and themes.

James McVey earned a PhD in English and a MA in creative writing at CU. His dissertation focused on literature of the American West. His short stories and creative essays have appeared in literary journals around the world. His first book, The Wild Upriver and Other Stories (Arbutus Press), was published in 2005. A third book, The Way Home: Essays on the Outside West (University of Utah Press), is scheduled for publication this year.

Section 300: Thursdays, October 7-November 18, 6-8 pm, Hellems 255, 7 sessions. $176.

Grace Moore
Creative Writing

“For years I have been complimented on my writing. It is something I do based on my sheer love of words. After years of receiving the Continuing Education catalogs and folding the pages over to mark classes I wanted to take, I finally asked myself ‘What are you waiting for?’ Now I am taking two writing classes and it is wonderful!”

PERSONAL ENRICHMENT

Introduction to Screenwriting
NCWR 1230

This is an introductory course designed to arm the beginner screenwriter with the necessary tools to write his/her own original screenplay. We will first focus on learning the fundamental elements of screenwriting (structure, character and scene development, pace and sequencing, plot points, to name a few), as well as the basic language and application of the screenplay format. We will also read and analyze a number of scenes/screenplays, both good and bad, to help fortify our understanding of how these elements are implemented. Finally we will shift to a workshop format in which you will be able to put your new skills to paper, be critiqued by your fellow writers, and gain new confidence to help you reach that elusive goal of typing “The End”! All levels are welcome and encouraged to join in this exciting, creative pursuit.

Robert Gatewood is the author of the novel, The Sound of the Trees, which was a BookSense76 selection and was listed among the best books of the Southwest. He held positions of literary editor and feature writer at Traffic East magazine for several years, and his short fiction has been published in numerous journals.

Section 300: Wednesdays,
September 1-October 6, 6-8 pm,
Education 132, 6 sessions. $168.

Advanced Screenwriting
Workshop
NCWR 2230

Need a little help with the screenplay you started but can't seem finish? Having trouble figuring out how your story should end? How Act I should end? What your story “beats” are and where they should be? This course is “advanced” in the sense that it has been designed for aspiring writers with some level of prior experience and/or exposure to the form, format, and process of writing screenplays. In this eight-week course we will explore and discuss such topics as the three-act structure, character development, story beats, style, and genre, though the bulk of our time will be spent critiquing one another's work in a workshop setting. Contingent on class size, writers will generally be asked to distribute 5-10 pages of an original screenplay each or every other week, as well as prepare notes for their fellow writers' submissions. So if you're looking to immerse yourself in a fun, intensive eight weeks of collaborative writing and feedback, as well as lively discussions of the screenwriting process in general, this is the course for you!

Poetry Workshop and Contemporary Poetry
NCWR 1007

Poetry is the power of language to capture the moment, transform it, and express the individual's desires and passions beyond even the limits of intentional thought. Like painting or dance, poetry is born in the act itself, writing not simply as a result of the practiced art. Contemporary poetry goes in all directions, explores lyrics and language play, or interacts with visual forms. In this ten-week course, you will be able to investigate, write, and discuss your own poetry and the works of others in the content of contemporary poetics. The anthology for the class, Postmodern American Poetry, by Paul Hoover, is more a contemporary sampling of poets than a single focus, and will give us access to a wide range of traditional and experimental forms. We will talk forms, free verse, visual poetry, and the poetics of cyberspace, and relate them to the roots of lyric and narrative poetry. No prior writing experience necessary.

George Moore's most recent books include Headhunting and the e-book, All Night Card Game in the Back Room of Time. His poems have been published nationally and internationally. Nominated for two Pushcart Prizes and two Best of the Web awards last year, his work will appear in the anthology for nominees for The Rhysling Poetry Award for 2010. George has a PhD in English and is a senior instructor at CU.

WRITING (continued)

Creative Writing

NCWR 1006

Consider, understand, and enhance your creativity, produce literature, and explore what it means to be a writer. You will learn, practice, and demonstrate your skills through reading and writing various forms of fiction, poetry, drama, etc. We will consider the age-old argument of form vs. content, or what is written vs. how it is written. For example, in fiction you will learn how to develop a character through characterization, how to enhance a setting through imagery, how to develop plot through methods of suspense, foreshadowing, and flashback. And in poetry, you will discover your poetic voice through a multitude of exercises that develop word choice and imagery, setting and situation, and allusion and connotation. Weekly writing and reading assignments will help guide you through the beginning stages of the craft. Sharing your work with fellow writers will help hone that craft. Reading and writing assignments will be provided by instructor.

Creative Nonfiction

NCWR 1079

Do you have an idea for a nonfiction story? Perhaps you're looking for other writers to work with who can provide useful criticism. Maybe you just want to learn more about this genre we call creative nonfiction. Whatever the case, this class is designed to help nonfiction writers in the pursuit of their individual projects. Whether you are interested in personal essays, memoir, nature writing, literary journalism, or biography and history, this class will provide a supportive environment for your work. We will conduct the class in a workshop format. Required textbook is available at the CU Book Store.

Life Writing

NCWR 1096

Life Writing is designed with the idea in mind that each life has a vibrant range of creative and highly treasured stories waiting to be shared. This interactive six-week writer's workshop will focus on writing techniques and structure, inspirational in-class writing prompts, and thought-provoking personal essay assignments. Student writing will be shared with helpful feedback and proactive peer review. The class will look at the work of bestselling authors such as Anne Lamott, Natalie Goldberg, and Garrison Keillor who use a sense of humor to shed light on everyday life events. The workshop is ideal for anyone looking to find positive expression through the art and craft of writing.

Advanced Fiction Workshop

NCWR 1106

Throughout this course for experienced writers, we will emphasize ways to improve your work, determine personal best practices, and recognize writing as both a social and solitary process. You will commit to writing regularly for our course duration and participate in all aspects of our workshops. We will spend the first several weeks discussing writing strategies, different approaches to expression, and challenges, exercises, resources, and related readings. Additionally, you will write both in and out of class, often using certain prompts and guidelines, as well as read John Gardner's The Art of Fiction: Notes on Craft for a Young Writer. For the second half of our course, you will submit at least one personal, longer work (poetry, creative nonfiction, or fiction), and we will workshop your text while still continuing lessons in craft and exercise.

How to Write Magazine Articles... and Get Them Published

NCWR 1005

Got an idea for a magazine article you've been itching to write? Always wanted to write but don't know how to approach magazines with your ideas? Learn all the steps to successful freelance magazine writing. Focus is on nonfiction writing for magazines, newspapers, and websites. You'll learn how to generate ideas; make smart, compelling pitches to editors; and craft powerful stories that connect with readers. Workshop aspects help students develop individual ideas in class.

ART AND ART HISTORY

Making Comics Art Level 1
NCFA 1082

Creating comics is not as simple as drawing a funny-looking rabbit in a box and making it talk. You need to consider perspective, facial expression, body language, degrees of realism, point of view, line quality, pacing, and narrative structure, just to get started. Then it has to look simple so it can be read easily. On the other hand, you do not need to know how to draw very well or write very well to see how powerful this form of storytelling is. We will build your ideas slowly from single-panel cartoons to a short story by doing exercises from the groundbreaking new text, Drawing Words and Writing Pictures, viewing outside work, and critiquing each other. Trade your final mini-comic with classmates and begin to learn how to navigate the culture of comics publishing. All you need to bring are a pen, paper, a strong work ethic, and your lifelong love of the funny pages.

After a decade immersed in the fog of the Seattle arts underground, Timothy Foss came to Boulder to finish his MFA in cartooning and performance art at CU, help establish the Boulder Comics Club, and begin a Graphic Storytelling program at the Community College of Aurora. He's collaborating with the literature department at CU-Boulder and working on his graphic novel, Sydney Arthur.

Section 300: Wednesdays,
September 8-October 27, 6-8 pm,
Guggenheim 205, 8 sessions. $176.

Making Comics Art Level 2
NCFA 2082

Take your general knowledge of making comics (learned in Level 1 or somewhere else as memorable) and focus on the specific problems of the longer story—writing good narrative structure and drawing the most appropriate visuals. Understand how to work with the principles of a three-act story, the plot points within it, as well as the protagonists and antagonists we love and love to hate. Then apply and enhance your written story with the visual storytelling techniques of camera position, shape within the frame, foreshadowing, props, and setting. At the end, we'll trade our 5-10 page mini-comic with the rest of the class with the hope that we've gotten even better at telling stories!

SCIENCE AND SOCIETY

Aging Brain, Aging Mind
NCSS 1201

This course, designed to educate about advances in cognitive neuroscience as it relates to aging, will provide a deeper understanding of what you read and hear outside the classroom. Some questions we will try to answer include: What does or does not change with age? Is aging synonymous with decline? Are all age-related changes negative? What can we do to bring about optimal aging? We will study emerging discoveries on how environmental factors such as mental stimulation, lifestyle, diet, exercise, sleep, social activities, social support, stress, and attitude, affect the way our brains age. You will also learn different strategies that can improve brain function and lead to optimal aging.

Ski Techniques and Biomechanics—
From the Snow Up

NCLS 1100

Skiing is a sport that rewards good technique, and good ski technique is a broad subject whose mastery is enhanced by understanding. This course seeks to help students develop that understanding by presenting the physical and physiological principles of the sport, as well as the design principles of skis and boots. In class material will draw heavily from videos and photographs of experts skiing and World Cup racing. The course is directed at experienced skiers, but presumes no prior knowledge of physical mechanics kinesiology. It will be of particular interest to ski instructors, coaches, competitors, and avid skiers.

Ron LeMaster is a technical advisor to the U.S. Ski Team and Vail Ski School, and lectures frequently about technique and biomechanics. A regular contributor to skiing magazines, Ron is the author of four books on the sport, including a technical manual for the Professional Ski Instructors of America, and contributes to educational materials for the U.S. Ski Coaches Association.

Angela Schiller
Making Comics Art

“The instructor encourages you in whatever stage you are in, so the class is not intimidating. I studied art in college, so the drawing part comes to me, but the stories and being witty is harder. I fall back to experiences I’ve had and that seems to make the best material.”

Public Speaking and Group Interaction

MAISHA VOGEL

“My goal is to spark interest and
intellect through a sense of community”

“By encouraging participation, I have the capacity to excite students who are not necessarily interested in the topic but are interested in being part of a community,” says Maisha. “The way I teach is a direct reflection of the people who inspired me. I am open and forthcoming about my own journey and try to make the theories we study relevant to real life. That is the beauty of communication – the mundane things we experience every day.”

TAKE CREDIT FOR LEARNING

Use our evening courses to make significant progress toward a degree or to acquire a career-advancing skill without taking time away from the rest of your busy life. You can start a degree, finish one, enhance your employability, experiment with returning to college, or supplement your current on-campus course load. It all depends on you.

Boulder Evening credits are just like those awarded on main campus. Grades count toward your GPA. And your transcript doesn't distinguish between evening and daytime courses. Talk with one of our advisors today at 303-492-8252.

Eligibility

All you need is a high school diploma or GED. (Individuals with University of Colorado financial stops or on academic suspension from the College of Engineering and Applied Science may not enroll.)

If you are considering applying to CU-Boulder as a degree student in the future, meet with a Continuing Education academic advisor to learn about your academic options. We want to help you be successful at the University of Colorado and meet your academic goals. Requirements for admission vary by your status (freshman, transfer, second-degree student), so set up an academic advising appointment before you enroll in classes. If you are under age 22, please bring copies of your high school transcript, any college transcripts, and your SAT or ACT scores to your advising appointment. For more information about admission procedures and registration status, call Continuing Education at 303-492-5148.

Resident Tuition Requirement

Colorado law (House Bill 1023) requires that Continuing Education verify that students receiving in-state tuition, the College Opportunity Fund, and some types of financial aid are legally present in the United States. This applies to students in the ACCESS, Boulder Evening, Applied Music, Individualized Instruction, Engineering Management (on-campus), and Telecommunications (on-campus) programs.

You can verify your legal presence in one of three ways:

1. Complete an affidavit in person at Continuing Education or the University Registrar's Office. You will need to bring an approved photo ID to complete the affidavit.
2. Complete and submit the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) at www.fafsa.ed.gov or the College Opportunity Fund (COF) application at cof.college-assist.org.
3. Download the PDF at registrar.colorado.edu/students/pdf/affadavit_verifying_citizenship.pdf.

BOULDER EVENING

Mail the completed and notarized form to Continuing Education.

If you do not verify your presence you will be reclassified as a nonresident of Colorado and charged the higher nonresident tuition.

Adding and/or Dropping Courses

Complete information on enrolling and dropping, along with deadlines, can be found on page 16. If you don't officially withdraw from a course, you may receive a grade of F for that course and you may be liable for any tuition and fees.

If you do not attend your course regularly during the first week through the last day to drop (see page 16), you may be administratively dropped. Check with your instructor or contact the Division of Continuing Education and Professional Studies for additional information.

Tuition

Boulder Evening tuition is assessed in addition to any tuition paid on campus (resident or nonresident).

Tuition is determined by your residency.

Resident tuition

Nonresident tuition

Three credits or less is $1,012 per credit hour. Four or more credits is $14,000.

The Division will charge the resident tuition rate for Boulder Evening when a nonresident degree student pays full out-of-state tuition through the Boulder campus and then enrolls for additional Boulder Evening courses. A full tuition schedule is available at conted.colorado.edu/student-resources/accounting/ceps-tuition.

Some courses requiring special equipment or materials may be slightly higher.

Residency

If you have lived in Colorado for the past 12 months, you may be eligible for in-state tuition rates although you may be asked for documentation. For additional information, please contact our classification coordinator at 303-492-5148.

Final Exams and Grades

Final exams are held the last day of the class. See the list of courses by start date on pages 17-20. Final grades will be available at mycuinfo.colorado.edu approximately two weeks after a class ends. If you need an official transcript, visit the registrar's office website at registrar.colorado.edu/students/transcripts.html for information.

Faculty and Staff Discounts

University of Colorado faculty and staff on at least a half-time, permanent appointment and retired faculty and staff may enroll in classes at a 50% tuition discount. Please provide proof of status when you enroll.

Student Fees

Boulder Evening students have the option of paying student fees for use of the Recreation Center, Wardenburg Student Health Center, etc. including purchasing an RTD bus pass. Visit conted.colorado.edu/student-resources/accounting for information.

Cori Smith

Environmental Systems 1:
Climate and Vegetation

“I like science and I wanted to learn more about weather and the environment. I’ve had the same instructor in another class and knew that his class structure worked well for me. I’m learning how to study better, and the pace of his homework and quizzes keeps me on track”

ADDITIONAL CREDIT PROGRAMS

ACCESS Program

(Available Credit Courses for Eligible Special Students)

Do you want to take a credit course at CU-Boulder during the day? Are you interested in a particular class for personal or professional development? Do you plan to enroll in a degree program in the future? The ACCESS Program enables nondegree students to enroll in Boulder main campus undergraduate or graduate courses after most degree-seeking students have had an opportunity to enroll. ACCESS is a great opportunity to learn about CU-Boulder, the academic departments, meet faculty and other students, and earn credit.

We are currently accepting applications for the fall 2010 semester. Registration begins Friday, August 20, and classes begin Monday, August 23. Call 303-492-5148 for more information or visit conted.colorado.edu/access. If you need academic or financial aid advising or career counseling, visit conted.colorado.edu/student-resources to set up a telephone or in-person appointment.

ACCESS students, who are Colorado residents taking undergraduate or a combination of undergraduate and graduate classes, may be eligible for the College Opportunity Fund (COF). For more information visit www.CollegeInColorado.org.

High School Concurrent Program

If you are a high school student interested in the challenge of university course work, you may enroll in credit courses at the University of Colorado at Boulder through the High School Concurrent program. You will earn university credit that may also be applied toward high school graduation requirements. Participation in the High School Concurrent Program requires written permission from your high school counselor and a parent/guardian.

During the fall and spring semesters, high school juniors and seniors enrolled in eligible courses through the ACCESS (Available Credit Courses for Eligible Special Students) program may request tuition reimbursement from their school district under the Post Secondary Enrollment Options Act. You must notify your counselor of your intent to enroll at least two months prior to the beginning of the term. Call 303-735-5456 for an application and more information or visit the web site at conted.colorado.edu/highschool.

High School Concurrent students enrolled in ACCESS courses are eligible to apply for the College Opportunity Fund. Visit www.collegeincolorado.org for more information.

Summer Session 2011

Make the most of your summer! Summer Session offers you the opportunity to earn academic credit, satisfy your curiosity, meet major or minor requirements, and be part of our summer community. Many of CU's most popular and sought-after courses are offered. The diverse population of students from CU and institutions across the country, high school students, and teachers and other professionals makes Summer Session a unique learning experience.

For more information visit www.colorado.edu/summer or call 303-492-5148. The Summer Session 2011 catalog will be available in January, 2011.

Finishing Your Degree at CU

Completing a degree is a very unique experience for each person. Whether you began your degree at CU years ago, or are hoping to complete a degree started elsewhere, we have a friendly staff who understands the challenges of balancing school, work, family...life. Let our academic advisors help you create a plan to meet your needs, making the most of the abundant programs and resources that the university has to offer. Schedule an in-person or telephone appointment at conted.colorado.edu/student-resources to discuss your options at CU.

Blake Clapp-Lee

Roman Art and Architecture

“I’ve been to Europe and seen art, but I wanted to learn more about art and what it symbolizes. I needed another class to fulfill a requirement, so I took this one. I like the smaller class size because it gets you more involved with the instructor and makes it easier to have class discussions.”

Introduction to Human Physiology

LAURA BONNEY

“I give students interactive learning tools that they can tap into when it works with their around kids, work, or whatever attracted them to online classes.”

“We focus on the essential concepts of human physiology and apply them to real-life situations through case studies,” says Laura. “I provide things like animations to help visualize complex processes. Because many of my students are interested in health care careers I want them to be able to translate and apply their knowledge when working with real health issues.”

THE ULTIMATE IN FLEXIBILITY WITH CU QUALITY.

You call the shots — by deciding when, where, and how you learn.

Independent Learning lets you start your study any time of the year. You can complete courses over the Internet or through the mail; choose from self-paced classes that you complete according to your calendar; or term-based classes that follow the semester calendar. Online classes allow rich interaction with your instructor and other students.

Think of the possibilities. You can earn extra credit toward your degree, enhance and develop your job skills, prepare for a career change, or just satisfy your curiosity — all at your own convenience.

INDEPENDENT LEARNING

So, it's up to you to challenge yourself and to decide how you want to take a course. Complete course descriptions and additional information are available at conted.colorado.edu/independent or call 303-492-5148.

If you are considering applying to CU-Boulder as a degree student in the future, meet with a Continuing Education academic advisor to learn about your academic options. We want to help you be successful at the University of Colorado and meet your academic goals. Requirements for admission vary by your status (freshman, transfer, second-degree student), so set up an academic advising appointment before you register for classes. If you are under age 22, please bring copies of your high school transcript, any college transcripts, and your SAT or ACT scores to your advising appointment. Advising appointments can be held by phone or in person. To make an appointment and explore your options visit conted.colorado.edu/student-resources. For more information about admission procedures and registration status, call Continuing Education at 303-492-5148.

Faculty and Staff Discounts

University of Colorado faculty and staff on at least a half-time appointment are eligible for a 20% discount on most courses with the exception of the Writing and Rhetoric courses. A 10% discount is available for the Sustainable Practices Certificate courses.

These University of Colorado credit classes are approved by the individual departments and are offered in three formats:

Correspondence Courses by Mail

These courses are self-paced, allowing you up to a year to finish your course work (one-year extensions are also available). Follow a printed study guide and professor-student communication is conducted by regular mail and e-mail.

Self-paced Online Courses

Like correspondence courses, self-paced online courses allow you up to 6 months to finish and can be extended for another 6 months. All course communications are conducted online. Many of these courses involve online interaction among students and a broad range of web activities.

Term-based Online Courses

Term-based online courses follow a fixed calendar so that all students will be on the same schedule and can regularly interact with each other online. (See pages 24-26 for a complete list.)

Independent Learning also offers:

Applied Music

Private and small group for-credit music instruction with the Applied Music program (see page 31).

Individualized Instruction

For special cases when a student needs a course that is unavailable (talk to your advisor or call 303-492-5148 for more information).

TERM-BASED ONLINE COURSES

These courses are offered on a term basis in order to provide rich interaction with your instructor and the other students in the course. The courses follow a calendar of assignments and examinations. Note the term dates carefully. These courses are conducted as virtual seminars, requiring significant amounts of writing and significant amounts of interaction with the instructor and other students. Plan on 90 hours of work in addition to approximately 45 hours with the study guide.

INDEPENDENT LEARNING

SPEECH LANGUAGE PATHOLOGY ASSISTANT CERTIFICATE PROGRAM

Offered in cooperation with the CU-Boulder Department of Speech, Language, and Hearing Sciences, this professional certificate provides the opportunity for individuals desiring employment in public schools as a speech language pathology assistant (SLPA) to meet the requisite requirements for authorization in the state of Colorado and develop the knowledge and skills to work under the supervision of a MA Level SLP.

This certificate is appropriate for individuals in their senior year of their undergraduate program or individuals who have completed a BA in speech pathology and audiology. Interested students should visit slhs.colorado.edu/prospective/u_slpa.php for complete information on applying.

Because these courses are offered online, they are available to individuals who live outside the CU-Boulder area and to working people who can complete the professional certificate while maintaining employment.

Introduction to Clinical Practice

SLHS 4918 2 SEMESTER HOURS

Introduces students to the clinical processes and key components of assessment and interventions. Explores the applications of the theoretical and scientific information to clinical settings. Students complete supervised observation of individuals with communication challenges. Restricted to juniors/seniors.

Competencies and Strategies for the SLPA

SLHS 5032 3 SEMESTER HOURS

Includes roles and responsibilities for the Speech Language Pathology Assistant (SLPA) working in the public schools, service delivery models, health and safety, screening assistive technology, intervention and self reflection and evaluation. Prereq., SLHS 4918.

Speech Language Pathology Assistant Internship

SLHS 5930 4 SEMESTER HOURS

Placement for a minimum of 12 hours per week for a total of 180 hours including 100 direct contact hours under the supervision of a fully credentialed SLP, to fully develop requisite skills as an SLPA, and become employed in a public school setting. Prereq., SLHS 4918.

Applied Music Program

Earn two credit hours this summer with CU-Boulder's Applied Music Program. Open to ALL ability levels. Private (one-on-one) instructions are available in guitar, piano, voice, percussion, mandolin, banjo, harp, winds, brass, strings, and more. Group classes (available fall and spring only) include guitar, piano, and hand drum circle. Styles include classical, jazz, and rock.

Tuition

$538 for 2 credit hours. Nonresidents taking four (4) or more hours through Continuing Education may be subject to nonresident tuition assessment.

Please visit conted.colorado.edu/appliedmusic for additional program information or contact the applied music advisor at 303-492-5950 or e-mail apmusic@colorado.edu.

Advanced Spacecraft Dynamics and Controls

HANSPETER SCHAUB

“Class is very interactive. I take the time to learn students’ names so that I can directly them in the learning process and keep everyone engaged.”

“In a class that is so mathematically based, I want students to focus on understanding the concepts and why things are happening, rather than writing down everything I say,” says Hanspeter, who makes his taped classes and slides available for both on- and off-campus students. “I also give my students good reasons to attend class, like encouraging questions and interactive discussions.”

WHERE THE PROS TURN TO LEARN.

For over 25 years, the Center for Advanced Engineering and Technology Education (CAETE) has helped working professionals like you advance their careers through flexible, convenient education.

Through CAETE, the distance learning and professional studies arm of the College of Engineering and Applied Science, you can pursue engineering and technology course work, certificate programs, advanced degrees, and skill-building short courses.

With a variety of distance learning opportunities accessible from virtually anywhere around the world, you have the power to reach your educational goals. Courses are delivered via the Internet, CD-ROM, and on campus.

Ranked the world’s 11th best public academic university in 2006 by The Economist, CU represents the best of the best. Experience the robust curricula, world-class faculty, and strong industry partnerships of a top-ranked research university.

Why wait? Check out CAETE today.

Advanced Degrees

Earn a master’s degree in aerospace engineering, computer science, electrical and computer engineering, engineering management, or telecommunications.

Graduate Certificates

Earn a graduate certificate in computer and network security, embedded systems, engineering management, managing applied research in technology, leadership and ethical decision making, engineering entrepreneurship, managing research and development, performance excellence in technology management, project management, quality systems for product and process engineering, power electronics, research and development, six sigma, software engineering, technology ventures and product management, or wireless networks and technologies.

ADVANCED ENGINEERING AND TECHNOLOGY

Short Courses

Develop new skills, build valuable technical credentials, or take courses to prepare for industry-recognized certificate examinations. Courses feature hands-on, online, or lecture-based instruction from respected IT industry leaders. All courses are relevant and applicable because our instructors work in their fields and bring real-world experience to the classroom. Typical courses offered each semester are in the areas of Cisco® and Project Management.

Continuing Education Units (CEUs) are awarded for all short courses. These courses are noncredit and do not apply toward degree programs or graduate certificates. University of Colorado faculty and staff on at least a half-time, permanent appointment and retired faculty and staff may receive a 10% tuition discount on our noncredit courses. Proof of status must be provided at the time of registration. CU-Boulder students who are enrolled at least half time in credit courses are eligible for a 10% tuition discount on our noncredit courses.

Instructor and Curriculum Coordinator

RUTH MOORE

“My goal is for students to leave each class having learned something new and to real life.”

“We listen to our students’ feedback and work to meet their needs,” said Ruth, who led a yearlong process to redesign the curriculum for the Intensive English Program. “We heard that they wanted more intensive English, so we created new eight-week levels with more specific learning goals, and added elective classes. The curriculum is focused on academic skills students will need at the university for speaking, listening, reading, and writing.”

1030 13TH STREET ON “THE HILL.”

Since 1975, the International English Center has helped over 20,000 international students learn and master English. Our students have gone on to attend CU-Boulder, the Colorado School of Mines, the University of Denver, Colorado State University, and dozens of other institutions. The children of our former students are now IEC students – we are multi-generational! The IEC offers three English as a Second Language (ESL) programs for international students, international business professionals, community residents, and interested visitors from other countries.

INTENSIVE ENGLISH PROGRAM

The Intensive English Program consists of five eight-week sessions and one four-week summer session of full-time communicative English language study (23 hours per week) with instruction in grammar, reading, writing, listening, and speaking. Students are tested upon arrival and are placed into classes appropriate to their proficiency. Most students in this program are citizens and residents of other countries and have come to the United States on student visas. However, we are happy to welcome new residents to our community in this intensive program. Fall 1 session is August 18-October 13 and Fall 2 session is October 14-December 16.

If you are an immigrant or a refugee and cannot afford the program, please ask about scholarship assistance.

- Program developed for international students preparing to enter a college or university in the U.S. studying on a student visa
- Classes also appropriate for professionals wanting to improve their English for work and for all students wanting to study English intensively
- Classes focused on improving communication with integrated language skills (listening, speaking, reading, writing)
- 20 hours of core language instruction are offered each week. Classes are offered at six proficiency levels: Basic 1 and 2, Intermediate 1, 2, and 3, and Advanced
- 3 hours each week of optional elective classes at no additional cost
- Classes average 12-15 students and use the latest ESL practices and materials. Instructors have master’s degrees and teaching experience in intensive programs
- Students have opportunities to join in local community events and use their skills in real-life settings

INTERNATIONAL ENGLISH CENTER

- Extensive library facilities with a rich source of educational and research materials
- University of Colorado courses available for advanced level students with approval from the Director
- Two state-of-the-art computer labs equipped with Internet and e-mail access for student use
- Certificates issued upon conclusion of studies
- Fully accredited by the Commission on English Language Program Accreditation (CEA)
- Member of UCIEP, consortium of University and College Intensive English Programs and AAIEP, the American Association of Intensive English Programs

GLOBAL BUSINESS COMMUNICATION

This certificate program provides executives and managers from companies around the world with full-time study in an 8 to 24 week program of practical English language and cross-cultural communication training for business purposes. Eight-week certificate programs include “Focus on the Individual” (Fall and Spring), “Focus on the Team” (Fall and Spring) and “Focus on Sustainable Business Practices” (Summer only). When you join the Global Business Communication (GBC) program, you will reap the benefits:

- Acquire new skills that can be immediately applied to your work environment
- Benefit from an individualized program
- Participate in projects customized to your interests
- Network, negotiate, and lead meetings in English
- Correspond with American business professionals
- Interact with other participants from around the world
- Take advantage of small class size (maximum 9 students)

The GBC certificate program requires an intermediate level of English.

ENGLISH AS A SECOND LANGUAGE FOR DEGREE STUDENTS (ESLG)

Non-intensive credit and noncredit accent reduction and writing courses designed to be taken concurrently by graduate and undergraduate degree students who need to strengthen specific areas in their academic language proficiency; nondegree students may enroll if they demonstrate an appropriate level of English proficiency. An English placement test is given at the beginning of the fall and spring semesters and recommendations are made based on student results.

EVENING COURSES

Evening courses will no longer be available through the International English Center.

For more information on any of these programs, please visit www.colorado.edu/iec or call 303 492-5547.

Science Explorers

DAVE ABBOTT

“We model hands-on teaching and provide teachers with

they take back to their own classrooms.”

“Students love our workshops because they get to do stuff while they are learning, instead of just sitting there with a textbook,” says Dave, who teaches Science Explorers workshops throughout Colorado for teachers and their fifth- through eighth-grade students. “Each year we focus on a new topic. This year was alternative energy. We explored things like wind turbines – what makes them most efficient – and energy efficiency – which materials make the best insulation.”

Science Discovery, established in 1983, is an experience-based, educational outreach program of the University of Colorado at Boulder. Our mission is to stimulate scientific interest, understanding, and literacy among Colorado’s youth, teachers, and families through the use of university resources and academic expertise. We are dedicated to engaging the whole person in the journey of learning and strengthening individual capacities to participate actively in local and world communities. Our programs are designed in collaboration with university faculty and academic departments to create classes that highlight current scientific research, ensure scientific excellence, and reflect the latest trends in research, teaching, and learning. Through our various programs, we reach approximately 1,000 teachers and 25,000 students across Colorado each year.

Summer and After-School Classes

For students ranging in age from 4-16, our Science Discovery Class Program offers small class sizes (10-16 students); enthusiastic and knowledgeable teachers (often graduate students with teaching experience); access to university and community resources; and a variety of laboratory and field experiences. Classes run for five sessions and vary in length from 1½ to 6 hours per day. We are in our 27th year of providing science education to children from diverse backgrounds. Classes such as Secrets of the Hive, Special Effects Science Cooking, and Wearable Electronics are designed to enrich student understanding and instill a desire to further explore science topics. We conduct over 200 summer and after-school classes each year, mostly in classrooms and laboratories on the CU-Boulder campus, but also at local and regional schools.

Wilderness Camps and the Outdoor Classroom

Our 5 to 14-day overnight wilderness camps connect students with the wonders and workings of the natural world. Developed for kids in grades 4-10, these specialty camps foster environmental awareness and promote knowledge of outdoor science subjects in a fun and informal atmosphere. All of this takes place amid the rich resources of our national parks, monuments, and reserves, including Yellowstone, Teton, Olympic, Mount Rainier, the Great Sand Dunes, Bandelier, and Mission: Wolf. Professional teachers and CU graduate and/or undergraduate students team up to guide groups of 12 campers in the exploration of these historic areas while participating in activities like white-water rafting, camping, and rock climbing. Wilderness education, team learning adventures, and positive peer interaction are inherent in each trip.

SCIENCE DISCOVERY

Our Outdoor Classroom engages 5th grade students and their teachers in the Boulder/Denver area in a variety of outdoor science activities including field studies of Colorado ecosystems, winter ecology on snowshoes, and an overnight adventure in the mountains at the CU Mountain Research Station. This program provides teachers and their students the opportunity for extended, interactive learning experiences spread out over the entire school year.

Science From CU: Statewide Classroom and Assembly Presentations

Science From CU visits classrooms, libraries, and community centers throughout Colorado, providing cutting-edge science and enriching science education by collaborating with CU faculty, peer institutions, and other educational organizations. These one-hour presentations can be adapted to any age group, and they facilitate interactive study through audience participation and experiments featuring museum collections, our ever-popular Bugmobile, and university science equipment. Each program's content and activities supplement existing curriculum and support the Colorado Content Standards. They enrich learning by encouraging students to see and touch the "real thing," enabling them to develop their understanding firsthand.

Science Explorers: Statewide Professional Development for Teachers

Science Explorers, a unique professional development program for teachers, offers daylong, activity-based science workshops for teams composed of a teacher and five students. Each one-day program can accommodate 21 teachers and 105 students (grades 5-8). Teams rotate through three different workshops during the course of the day. The teachers and students work side by side, giving the teachers the opportunity to observe how their students respond to the activities and allowing the students to develop their own knowledge and leadership skills. Workshop content and activities support the Colorado Content Standards, and Science Explorers attendees receive materials and curriculum. These workshops are conducted at 6-12 urban and rural sites throughout Colorado and generally include teams from schools in the host community as well as from surrounding districts.

For more information about our programs and current offerings, visit www.colorado.edu/sciencediscovery or call 303-492-7188.

Shakespeare in the Schools
BRUCE BERGNER

“Theatre is an art form of
from virtually nothing.”

“We engage in imagination, vision, physical acting, design, aesthetics, and resourcefulness,” says Bruce, who helped create the program to bring theatre to K–12 audiences and provide students from the CU-Boulder Theatre Department with a unique and collaborative outlet for learning. “We connect with texts in ways far different from scholars. We look for life in the words and conceive of ways to bring those words to life on stage. All this gives everyone involved great practical experience.”

MAKING CONNECTIONS THAT MAKE A DIFFERENCE

The Division of Continuing Education and Professional Studies supports faculty outreach activities by providing annual funding to the CU-Boulder Outreach Committee, which is comprised of faculty from across the campus. The committee, in turn, awards grants to faculty projects that connect the university’s research, teaching, and creative resources with communities throughout Colorado and beyond. The Division is also the home of the Office for University Outreach, a group that supports and enhances outreach efforts campuswide.

One recently funded project made Shakespeare come alive for more than 6,000 Front Range students. Faculty and students from the Department of Theatre and Dance and the Colorado Shakespeare Festival (CSF) teamed up to present Shakespeare in the Schools during the spring of 2010. Together they created an educational performance that made Shakespeare’s language and characters accessible to school-aged audiences. The CU-Boulder students researched, designed, acted, directed, marketed, and booked the program under the guidance of CSF Education Director Melinda Scott and the following CU-Boulder faculty members: Associate Professor Bruce Bergner, Associate Professor Oliver Gerland, and Senior Instructor Lynn Nichols.

OUTREACH

This collaboration between the Theatre Department and CSF provided a unique opportunity for undergraduate and graduate students to learn about creating a successful education outreach program with the advice and leadership of CU-Boulder faculty members and a professional theatre company.

The program toured to local schools where CU-Boulder student actors performed an abbreviated, 45-minute version of William Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream. Funds from the Outreach Committee helped to serve the neediest populations by providing subsidies to 16 schools.

The five-actor play was suitable for 4th through 12th grade students. Teachers received a study guide prepared by a CU-Boulder graduate student dramaturg in advance of each performance to help prepare their students for the program. The study guide included a plot synopsis, classroom activities, and discussion questions that aligned with the K-12 Colorado Model Content Standards.

Student actors provided classroom workshops after each performance, allowing more than 2,000 school children to engage in hands-on explorations of the text, themes, and characters of A Midsummer Night's Dream. Acting exercises included vocal warm ups, movement exercises, and even Shakespearean insults.

The mutually beneficial school programs allowed the school children to interact with CU-Boulder students while providing CU student actors with valuable training that will serve them later in their careers. The experience was a powerful way for student actors to bring their college education to the community and for student designers, directors, and dramaturgs to learn more about the challenges and benefits of educational theatre.

CU-student actor Mara Marski appreciates the opportunity to learn from the experience. "So far, every day with outreach has been a completely unique and rewarding experience," she said. "As far as workshops go, I think I've learned as much as I've taught. And I am truly grateful for this amazing opportunity to share my passion with others."

This program is only one example of the many projects that CU-Boulder faculty and students are involved with in communities across Colorado. IMPORTANT INFORMATION

YOU'VE GOT QUESTIONS. WE'VE GOT ANSWERS.

Lifelong learning doesn't mean putting your job, family, or life on hold - and no one understands that better than the staff at the Division of Continuing Education and Professional Studies. We can help you sort through your academic options, identify financial aid resources, prepare for a career, and more. Visit conted.colorado.edu/student-resources to learn more or to schedule an appointment with an advisor.

GETTING STARTED

Academic Advising

Our academic advisors can help you sort through the university options and choose the best course of action — whether it's for academic credit or noncredit.

Financial Assistance

Our financial aid advisor can help you determine if there are funds available to help you meet your educational goals.

Nondegree students age 22 or older are eligible to apply for one of several Nontraditional Student Scholarships awarded each semester. An application and complete information including eligibility, requirements, and deadlines are available at conted.colorado.edu/student-resources/financial-aid.

ENROLLING

You will find complete information on how to enroll, deadlines, etc. at conted.colorado.edu/enroll.

PAYING

Continuing Education offers a full service bursar/accounting office. You can pay your tuition by check, cash, credit card (VISA, MasterCard, or Discover), or online from your checking or savings account. Visit conted.colorado.edu/student-resources/accounting for more information.

If you need confirmation of enrollment and payment of tuition for employer reimbursement, please contact us at 303-492-2212 or by e-mail at cebursar@colorado.edu.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Course Updates

Occasionally information printed in this catalog changes. We encourage you to verify your course information such as course locations, cancellations, etc. before traveling to campus for your class. You will find the most up-to-date information at conted.colorado.edu.

Where is my class?

Is there parking nearby?

Course locations are listed at the end of each course description. Many campus parking lots offer $3.00 parking after 5 pm and on Saturdays. Some are free during evenings and weekends. The Campus Map conted.colorado.edu/campus-map gives both building and evening and weekend parking lot locations. To skip parking altogether, take the RTD bus to campus.

What if my plans change and I have to drop my class?

Please let us know. Depending on when you drop a course, you may receive a full refund. Refer to each program description for refund policies after a course begins.

Please note: Nonattendance does not constitute withdrawal and you may still be charged for your courses unless you officially withdraw before the drop deadline.

At the University of Colorado at Boulder we are committed to building a campus community in which diversity is a fundamental value. People are different and the differences among us are what we call diversity—a natural and enriching hallmark of life. Diversity includes, but is not limited to, ethnicity, race, gender, age, class, sexual orientation, religion, disability, political viewpoints, veteran status, gender identity/expression, and health status. A climate of healthy diversity is one in which people value individual and group differences, respect the perspectives of others, and communicate openly.

Diversity is a key to inclusive excellence in education. A diverse learning environment better prepares all students for the world that awaits them. CU-Boulder is committed to enriching the lives of our students, faculty, and staff by providing a diverse campus where the exchange of ideas, knowledge, and perspectives is an active part of learning.

— from the Guidelines for Diversity Planning

The University of Colorado does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, age, disability, creed, religion, sexual orientation, or veteran status in admission and access to, and treatment and employment in, its educational programs and activities.

CU-Boulder takes action to increase ethnic, cultural, and gender diversity, to employ qualified disabled individuals, and to provide equal opportunity to all students and employees.
