I. Executive Summary

The recommended budget for fiscal year 2012-13 was developed in the context of UNC's efforts to use the annual budget as a tool for implementing thoughtful multiyear planning. Our recommendations take into account the need to:

- Anticipate further reductions in state higher education funding
- Continue to identify sustainable cost savings
- Smooth out cost shifting from the state to students over several years
- Invest more in financial aid, particularly for continuing low- and middle-income students, to moderate the effect of tuition increases
- Think about compensation in terms of getting the right number of people with the right qualifications doing the right things, and paying them appropriately
- Reconsider how we fund capital and deferred maintenance

Key differences between the fiscal year 2011-12 budget and the recommended fiscal year 2012-13 budget are:

- Loss of $900,000 in state funding ($12.2 million combined loss in fiscal years 2010-11, 2011-12 and 2012-13)
- New sustainable cost savings of $4.6 million ($6.5 million cumulative total for fiscal years 2011-12 and 2012-13)
- Salary increases for faculty and exempt staff and non-base-building increases for classified staff, totaling $4.2 million
- Undergraduate base tuition rate increase of 3% or $164 for the year for full-time in-state students (does not include differential tuition charged for some programs, which will not increase)
- Additional institutional investment of $4.5 million in undergraduate financial aid
- Room and board rate increase averaging 3%
- Graduate on-campus tuition rate increase of 0% to 20% (varies by program, considering market, competitive landscape and UNC mission)
- Off-campus and online tuition rate increase of 0% to 15% (varies by program, considering market, competitive landscape and UNC mission)
- Additional institutional investment of $3.4 million in capital ($2.1 million deferred maintenance, $1.3 million small capital projects)
- State capital funding of $973,000 for central campus chillers
- Multiyear strategic investments budget of $12.9 million

Revenue

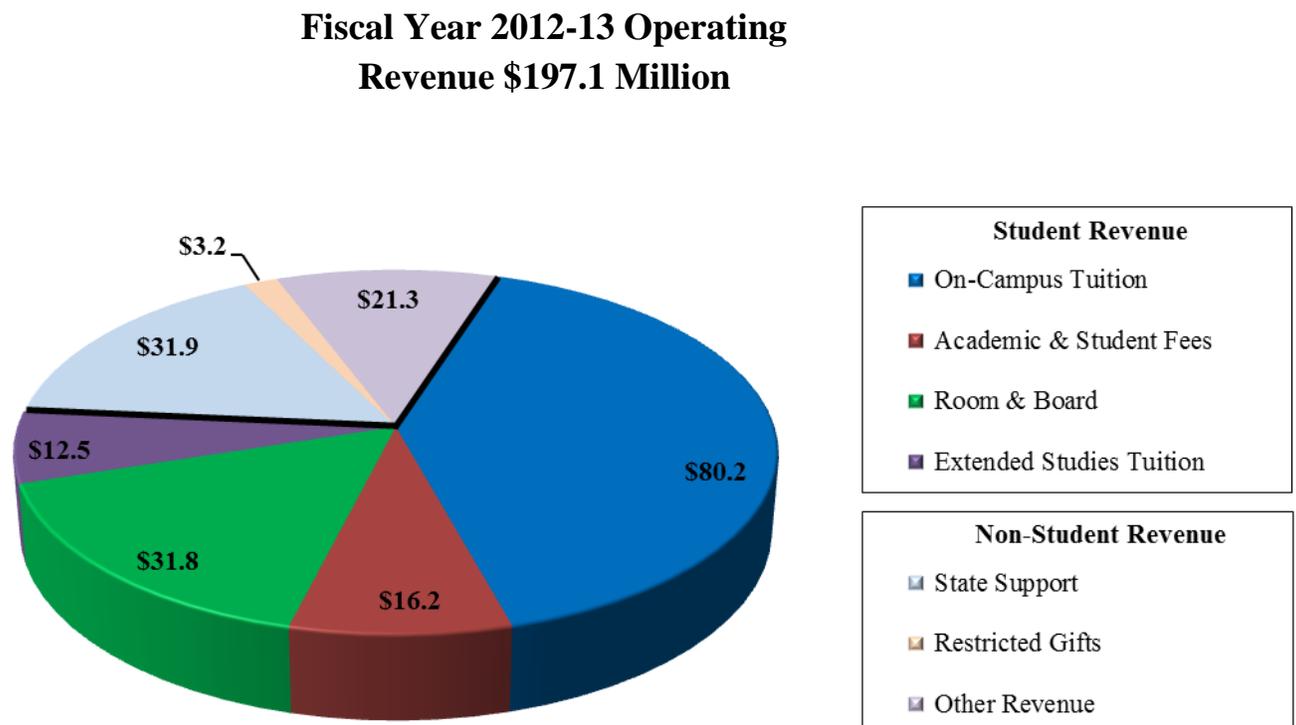

Total estimated fiscal year 2012-13 revenue for the University of Northern Colorado is $206.8 million. This includes operating revenue of $197.1 million, $8.7 million in restricted grants and contracts revenue and $1.0 million in state capital deferred maintenance funding. This revenue, along with prior year balances, will fund the University's:

- Operating Budget—$199.6 million (estimated annual expenses and transfers)
- Grants and Contract Budget—$8.7 million (estimated annual expenses)
- Capital Budget—$11.4 million (project expenditures will span multiple years)
- Multiyear Strategic Investments Budget—$12.9 million (expenditures will span multiple years)

Tuition, fees, and room and board charges to students will account for 71.4% of UNC's operating revenue. From fiscal year 2009-10 to fiscal year 2012-13 UNC's state support¹ has decreased from $44.1 million to $31.9 million. State support will be 16.2% of UNC's operating revenue in fiscal year 2012-13. Undergraduate tuition is the single largest source of revenue at $67.8 million, and graduate tuition is $24.9 million.

Figure 1*

*Details of UNC's operating revenue; does not include grants, contracts, or capital revenue.

¹ State support was supplemented with federal economic stimulus funding in FY09 – FY11.

Tuition revenue assumptions in the recommended budget are based on:

- A 1.5% budgeted increase in undergraduate credit hours and the recommendation to increase resident undergraduate tuition by 3%, with resulting new revenue of $1.7 million (Tables 1 and 2)
- A 2.5% budgeted decrease in on-campus graduate credit hours and tuition increases that vary by program (0% to 20%), with resulting new revenue of $2.1 million (Tables 3 and 4)
- A 10.9% budgeted decrease in extended campus credit hours and tuition increases that vary by program (0% to 15%), resulting in $1.5 million less than budgeted for fiscal year 2011-12 (actual revenue should increase by $476,000) (Tables 5 and 6)

Capital

About half of the facilities now on our campus were built using state funding, and UNC has historically relied on the state to fund deferred maintenance associated with the infrastructure of these facilities.² When state capital funding began to falter in the early 2000s, while UNC continued to vie for limited state dollars, we also began annually budgeting $886,000 (tuition revenue) for the most urgent deferred maintenance projects on these facilities. As state capital funding has further diminished, we have progressively deferred more projects for these facilities.

The other half of UNC's facilities, construction and deferred maintenance has been funded primarily by students through fees, room and board and other auxiliary revenue. When a facility is fee-funded, a portion of the fee is directed to deferred maintenance and renewal. In addition, over the past several years we have established a practice of setting aside some of the revenue associated with these facilities for their maintenance and renewal.

We have no reason to believe the state will restore its investment in capital in the foreseeable future, so we are rethinking how to fund the maintenance and renewal of facilities that were previously state-funded, as well as how we will build new facilities in the future. Given what we know about prospective UNC donors and national philanthropic trends, we do not expect to address a significant portion of our facilities costs by fundraising. This means the costs will be shifting to students.

The recommended fiscal year 2012-13 budget begins to address the changes described above by allocating $4 million for deferred maintenance and small capital projects on previously state-funded facilities, with the intent to make this an annual allocation. (This is in addition to the $3.0 million budgeted for facilities maintained through fees, room and board, and other auxiliary revenue.) We believe that some combination of tuition revenue and capital fees is the best approach to funding capital and deferred maintenance in the future, and we will be working on the details of this and discussing it with the Board in the coming year.

In addition, UNC expects to receive $973,000 of state funding in fiscal year 2012-13 for chillers in several Central Campus buildings. While this is a reminder of the (occasionally pleasant) idiosyncrasies of the state legislative budgeting process, it does not reflect a shift toward restoration of state capital funding.

² By deferred maintenance, we mean the cumulative value of maintenance and repair work that will need to be done at some point for a facility to remain suitable for its intended purpose. This is in addition to ongoing routine maintenance and repair.

Compensation

As part of UNC's multiyear planning, we are working to establish sustainable practices for providing competitive compensation to recruit and retain faculty and staff to deliver on our promise of transformative education to students. Establishing a "compensation identity" for UNC is intended to provide continuity in principles from year to year as we incorporate compensation targets into the budget. We have articulated the following UNC Compensation Identity:

UNC will base its compensation decisions on three principles:

- To fulfill the promise of transformative education to students, UNC must be competitive in the local and national markets for talented faculty and staff.
- UNC will be forthright with current and prospective employees about where we fit in the market so informed career decisions can be made.
- Compensation considerations will be addressed as a central component of the budget process rather than as an afterthought.

To realize this compensation identity, we are working to move UNC's average salaries, over the next five years, to 90% of the average salaries at institutions in our identified peer group. The compensation pool in the recommended fiscal year 2012-13 budget is possible in large part because of our efforts over the past two years to identify sustainable cost savings. We have identified more than $6.5 million in savings, which reflects an extraordinary campus-wide collaborative effort.

The recommended budget uses a temporary salary distribution model that takes into consideration the static salaries and increased costs for our staff over the past four years. It includes the following:

- 3% one-time performance incentive payment for classified staff who meet performance expectations
- 3% maintenance-of-effort increase for faculty and exempt staff who meet performance expectations
- 2% pools for faculty and exempt staff to address parity and equity
- $275,000 for faculty promotions and inversions
- 3% increase for TA/GA stipends, adjunct pool salaries and 2013 summer faculty salaries
- Continuation of the 60/40 ratio for University/employee sharing of health insurance costs for faculty and exempt staff (the state controls classified staff health insurance options)
- $900,000 to reinstate the 10.15% University contribution to PERA for employees in the state retirement plan (state statute required PERA employees to pay more in order to reduce the University's contribution to 7.65% in fiscal years 2010-11 and 2011-12)
- Assumed vacancy savings of $5 million ($4 million more than budgeted in fiscal year 2011-12)

Personnel expenses in the recommended budget total $117.6 million; including $23.4 million in fringe benefits detailed Table 8. Table 9 summarizes the changes in personnel expenses in the recommended budget.

Sustainable Cost Savings

In the fall of 2010, UNC committed to identifying at least $5 million in sustainable cost savings by fiscal year 2013-14. The University community identified $1.9 million in sustainable cost savings that were implemented in fiscal year 2011-12. We have identified an additional $4.6 million to be implemented in fiscal year 2012-13, bringing our two-year total to over $6.5 million.

As part of the fiscal year 2012-13 budget preparation, areas of the University were responsible for budget clean-up of their revenue and non-personnel expense items. (Personnel expenses were addressed through university-wide staffing plans.) Clean-up included 1) re-assessing the expense budget, using several years of historical expenses as a point of reference and 2) reviewing the accuracy of budget allocations by line item. This resulted in $1.8 million in sustainable cost savings.

Table 10 is a summary of sustainable cost savings identified to date:

Table 10

Cumulative Sustainable Cost Savings Fiscal Year 2012 and 2013 Initiatives
Revised approach to extended campus revenues, profits and incentives	$1,035,400
Elimination of Contingency Budget	803,000
Examination of delivery of telecommunications and technical support across campus	611,114
Initiatives include renegotiation of vendor contracts for IT support services, reconfiguration of labor, technology, and software in the delivery of basic telephone services, refreshing lab desktops every five years instead of four, while developing a plan for virtual labs and other initiatives for addressing quality control and technical support across campus.
Savings from maximizing technology utilization campus-wide	244,967
Initiatives include integrating the payroll processes and finance systems, implementation of new parking management software, transitioning from print materials to electronic format for library materials, the use of Email, Facebook, videos, and Google for advertising savings and changes in outreach activities. Operating efficiencies were gained between purchasing, accounts payable and facilities management through collaboration on responsibilities enabled by technological enhancements.
University-wide budget cleanup	1,786,896
University-wide initiative to identify operating efficiencies and change retail dining hours	271,620
Initiatives include campus-wide efforts lead by a sustainable cost savings committee that identified areas of operating efficiencies across campus such as changing retail dining hours, sharing publications to reduce subscriptions costs, using e-services, extending refresh cycles on office computers, sharing copiers and printers, eliminating cell phones and other initiatives that resulted in small amounts of savings in each area of the university in other current expenditures, purchased services, and supplies.
Re-evaluation of travel, professional development and coaching programs	134,842
Two-year initiative to develop comprehensive university-wide staffing plan and conduct personnel budget review consistent with the compensation identity developed for UNC	1,668,060
Total Sustainable Cost Savings	$6,555,899

The following table breaks out sustainable cost savings by personnel and non-personnel expenses. It shows the cumulative savings for fiscal years 2011-12 and 2012-13. The fiscal year 2012-13 $2.6 million increase in transfers is an offset to the $6.5 million in non-personnel savings and is due to separating multiyear strategic investments from operating expenses. See page 14 for additional discussion.

Multiyear Strategic Investments Budget

As discussed at the November 2011 Finance & Audit Committee meeting, about $10 million of our fiscal year 2010-11 roll-forward was for items like grant matches, faculty start-up packages, and academic initiatives that are funded and then spent over multiple years. In order to differentiate these items from the University's operating budget expenses – intended to be spent annually – we segregated these strategic investments in our budgeting and quarterly reporting.

The total funding committed as of July 1, 2012 (fiscal year 2012-13) for multiyear strategic investments is $12.9 million. As shown in Table 15, we estimate spending $5.9 million of that in fiscal year 2012-13 and then continuing to expend the balance of each line item in the coming years.

Tuition, Fees, and Room and Board Rates

In September 2010 we discussed a five-year financial plan with the Board that included the assumption of a cumulative loss of $14.5 million in state operating funding that we would backfill with:

- $9.5 million of new revenue
- $5.0 million of sustainable cost savings (we have achieved $6.5 million in savings)

This plan was the basis for our Financial Accountability Plan (FAP) that was approved by the Colorado Commission on Higher Education, allowing resident undergraduate tuition increases up to 15% in fiscal years 2011-12 and 2012-13 (as compared to the 9% typical in recent years).

Looking beyond fiscal year 2012-13, our planning assumption is that our cumulative funding loss could be $29 million over the next several years, taking us from our fiscal year 2009-10 state funding level of $44.1 million to $15 million. The shift in the cost of attendance from the state to students is a troubling but permanent change. To adjust to this “new normal,” our proactive approach has been to continually refine our enrollment and pricing strategy to:

- Recruit and retain students to the point of degree completion, not simply to increase enrollment numbers
- Enroll students who have the potential to succeed at UNC and for whom we can provide appropriate levels of financial and academic support as they progress to graduation
- Provide transformative educational experiences for all UNC students, whether they are undergraduate or graduate students, whether they enroll at our main campus or our extended campus
- Consider the full cost of attendance (tuition, fees, room and board) (Table 16)
- Emphasize gradual and predictable increases over a student’s time at UNC
- Balance the need to generate sufficient revenue to provide a quality education with the ability of students to pay

³The Student Leadership for Environmental Action Fund (LEAF) is a three-year initiative to be funded with a new student fee.

For fiscal year 2012-13 our recommendation is to:

- Increase tuition across all categories of students to move UNC tuition rates gradually over several years to the level that will be necessary to provide transformative educational experiences with significantly reduced state funding, covering annual operating costs as well as deferred capital facility and equipment needs. Details, which include a $164 annual (3%) increase in resident undergraduate tuition, are in Appendix B.
- Increase student fees by 1.9% (fiscal year 2009-10 consumer price index)
- Increase library fees by $12 annually (18.2%) to cover increasing costs of online resources
- Hold the technology fee constant
- Support the student's LEAF initiative with a $20 annual fee that will sunset in fiscal year 2015-16 (in effect for fiscal years 2012-13, 13-14, and 14-15). The Student Leadership for Environmental Action Fund (Student LEAF) is a three-year initiative intended to move the campus community toward a sustainability-minded culture. This fund will finance environmental improvements in campus infrastructure and educational initiatives. Student LEAF will be managed by a committee led by students, staff and faculty representation. A student fee of $1 per credit hour up to 10 credit hours each semester (up to $20 per a traditional academic year) will sustain the fund. The savings generated from the projects will be reinvested in ways that are directly visible to the student body. To be eligible, projects must seek to improve campus resource efficiency, strengthen the community, and provide practical career experiences for students. For example, a project might be proposed to fund and/or include academic involvement in developing a highly efficient irrigation system.

Financial Aid

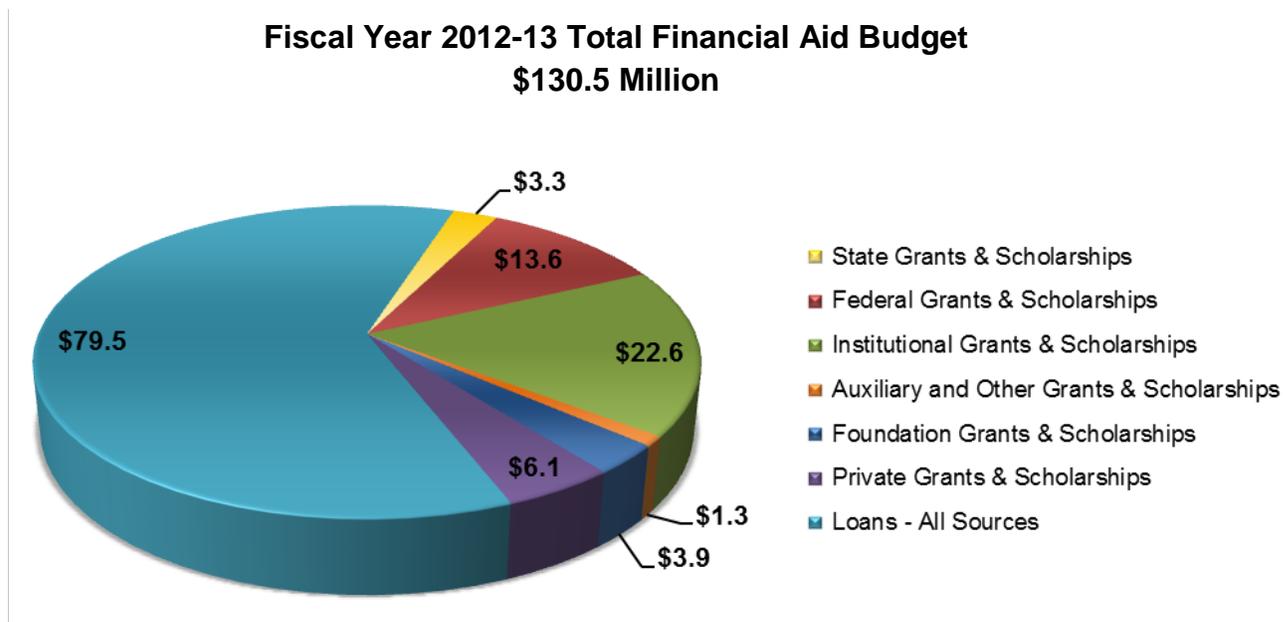

Table 17 shows the total financial aid available to students from all funding sources including state, federal, institutional, private funds and loans. The total financial aid available to UNC students in fiscal year 2012-13 is estimated at $130.5 million. UNC continues to invest in institutionally funded scholarships, graduate tuition waivers, room and board waivers, and graduate assistantship stipends as part of our overall pricing strategy.

Institutional Discounting

Discussion of financial aid (merit-based, need-based, institution-funded and externally funded) is often in the context of enrollment management, which focuses on the student perspective, and data is presented with that in mind. For example, a common metric used in enrollment management is a “discount rate” depicting the average freshman financial aid package (including institutional, state and federal aid) as compared to the average freshman bill (including tuition, fees, and room and board). While this metric is useful to convey the extent to which our student body receives financial assistance, it is not as helpful for institutional budgeting. For budget discussions, we approach financial aid from the perspective of discounted revenue in order to focus on the financial impact to UNC of offering institutional scholarships and waivers

Undergraduate Discounting

The recommended fiscal year 2012-13 budget includes an $18.0 million investment in institutional financial aid (Table 18). This is $4.5 million more than we invested in fiscal year 2011-12 and is being targeted at low- and middle-income students, particularly our continuing students. The $4.5 million increase includes $1.4 million for student-athletes (bringing the athletics scholarship total to $3.6 million).

Table 18

Non-Resident Merit	1,977,342
Membership-Based and Other	1,812,438

The total institutional financial aid of $18.0 million is equivalent to 28% of our undergraduate tuition. This is our institutional discount rate (Table 19).

The $4.5 million financial aid increase is more than the $3.7 million tuition expected to be generated by undergraduate tuition increases (Table 20). The recommended financial aid for student-athletes has been increased since the May Finance and Audit Committee discussion and is intended as a one year replacement for annual donor-funded scholarships. This will allow us to raise athletics scholarship donations the year before they are to be spent (i.e., fiscal year 2012-13 fundraising will be used for fiscal year 2013-14 scholarships).

Graduate Discounting

Graduate discounting includes tuition waivers and stipends for graduate students who are awarded teaching, research or administrative assistantships, as well as a limited number of scholarships for graduate students. Having students, who are awarded assistantships, take on instructional and administrative responsibilities also helps the University. Because the stipends associated with assistantships represent pay for teaching, conducting research or doing administrative tasks, they are not included in discounting calculations.

For several years, we have been increasing graduate tuition while simultaneously investing more in graduate discounting, as shown in Table 21, in order to make our programs more competitive. Graduate assistantships are designed to be an integral part of the students' educational experience. Unlike undergraduate awards, the number and amount of graduate awards vary by area of study. For example, relatively few students in Tier 1 Master's programs, which enroll primarily K-12 teachers, expect to receive waivers or scholarships; however, significant discounting is necessary to compete for students in Tier 3 Doctoral programs.

The on-campus graduate tuition rates in the proposed budget will generate $2.1 million in new tuition revenue, primarily due to rate increases. The extended campus tuition rates in the proposed budget will generate $476,000 in new tuition revenue (although less than the fiscal year 2011-12 budgeted revenue). About 23% of the new graduate tuition revenue is to be used for discounting. Table 22 shows the financial impact of the graduate tuition rates and discounting in the recommended budget.

Enrollment Detail

FY13 Enrollment and Revenue Cycle

The reporting cycle for Academic Year 2012-13 begins in Spring 2012 when we set enrollment targets for Fall. The information in this section gives point-in-time comparisons for the period 14 weeks before classes start along with two years historical data. Table 1 shows where we are in our enrollment and revenue reporting cycle.

FY13 Budgeted Enrollment

While we typically think of enrollment in terms of number of students, we translate headcount into credit hours to develop our revenue budget. For FY13 our budget is based upon 1.9% university-wide growth in student credit hour enrollment. We deliver most of our credit hours to on-campus undergraduate students and expect 2% growth to 305,886 credit hours. Table 3 shows the undergraduate, graduate, on-campus, and off-campus details of our expected 1.9% growth.

Fall 2012 (FY13) Enrollment Targets

Our enrollment target for Fall 2012 is 12,686 students (10,315 undergraduates and 2,371 graduates), which is a .7% increase in headcount. Table 4 shows our fall enrollment targets, including new freshmen (2,353), new undergraduate transfers (845), and new graduate students (510).

In the following sections on undergraduate and graduate enrollment, we discuss registration and admissions data as of May 21 as an indication of our progress toward Fall 2012 enrollment targets. Comparable point in time data is included for Fall 2011 and Fall 2010, but because enrollment cycles can vary from year-to-year, prior year comparisons are only a rough indication of our progress, especially since May 21 is still 14 weeks before the start of Fall 2012.

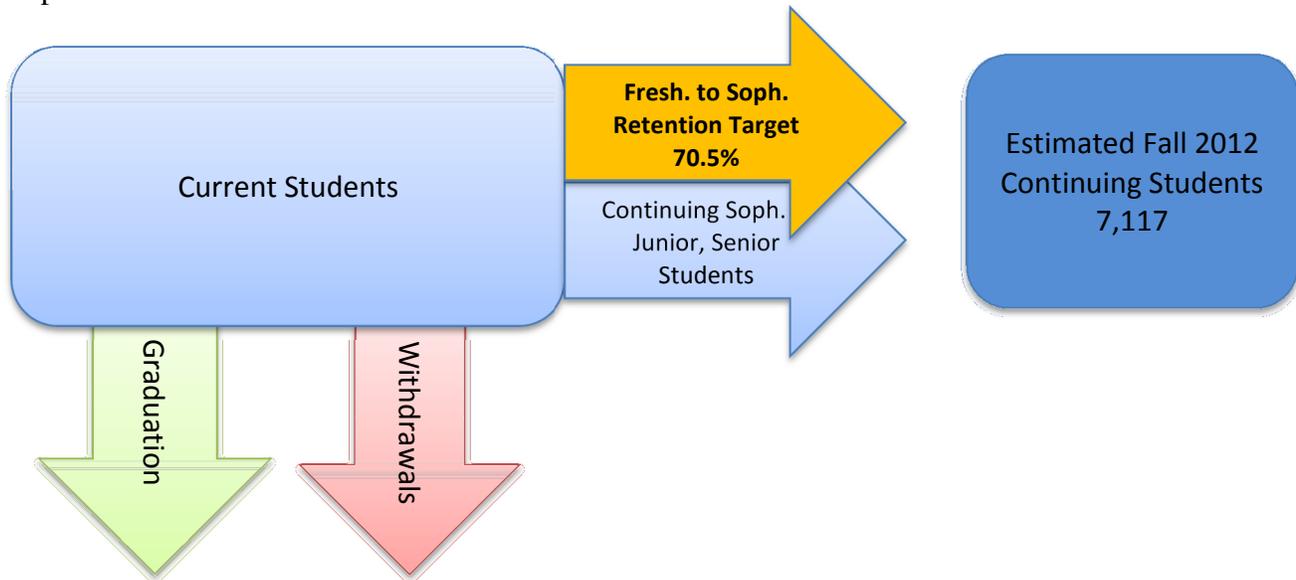

Undergraduate Enrollment

Table 5 shows that we had 6,707 undergraduate students registered 14 weeks before the start of Fall 2012 (May 21). This is 65% of our target of 10,315 undergraduate students. At the comparable point in time in 2011 we were 63% of the way to our Fall Census undergraduate enrollment, and 62% in 2010, suggesting that 65% of our undergraduate enrollment target is within a reasonable range.

Our Fall 2012 enrollment target of 10,315 undergraduates includes an estimated 7,117 continuing students. The number of Fall 2012 continuing students is a function of the graduation and retention of current students. As part of managing the number of continuing students, we set a targeted freshman-to-sophomore retention rate of 70.5%.

The remainder of our 10,315 undergraduate enrollment target is new students. We have enrollment targets for both new freshmen and new transfers. The process of enrolling new students starts with applications, which yields admitted students, which yields registered and enrolled students. We refer to this as the enrollment funnel, where the pool of students narrows at each step.

Our Fall 2012 target for new freshmen is 2,353 students. To yield this many enrolled freshmen, we need 5,900 new freshmen admits (based on a 40% yield rate at this step of the funnel). As shown in Table 6, as of May 21 we had 5,918 admitted new freshmen (100% of the number needed at this step). If our 40% admit-to-enrolled yield holds, we will exceed our target of 2,353 new freshmen.

Our target for Fall 2012 transfers is 845 students. To yield this many enrolled transfers, we need 1,400 new transfer admits (based on a 60% yield rate at this step of the funnel). As shown in Table 7, we had 857 transfer admits as of May 21. With 14 weeks until the start of classes, we believe the transfer target of 845 is attainable.

Graduate Enrollment

Table 8 shows that 1,086 graduate students are registered for Fall 2012. This is 46% of our 2,371 graduate student target. Graduate students tend to delay their registration longer than undergraduate students. There is not as much pressure to register, since graduate course sections do not close as undergraduate courses do. Also, 40% of our graduate enrollment is in off-campus and online programs, which use a cohort model, often with start dates later than our on-campus start of classes. At comparable points in time in 2010 and 2011, we had 39% and 37% of our fall graduate enrollment, suggesting that 46% of our target is within the normal range.

Like undergraduate enrollment, our total Fall 2012 target of 2,371 graduate students includes continuing students (1,861) and new students (510). Also like undergraduate enrollment, new graduate students flow through an enrollment funnel (applications, admissions, and enrolled) which narrows at each step.

Our target for Fall 2012 new graduate students is 510, up from 438 in Fall 2011. To yield this many enrolled graduate students, we need 1,450 new admits (based on a 35% yield rate at this step of the funnel). As shown in Table 9, as of May 21 we had 995 admitted graduates (69% of our targeted admits). We are ahead of where we were in both Fall 2011 and Fall 2010 and believe that we may exceed our 510 new graduate student target.
